12 BOMBS FOUND IN 5 CITIES IN BIG PLOT

NIPPON FORCES 15 MILES FROM MENACED CITY

Japan's Cavalry Resting in Striking Distance of Chinchow.

Mukden, Manchuria, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Gen. Jiro Tamon, conqueror of Taitsihar, sent his Japanese cavalry down from Kowpangtze to the Taling River, 15 miles from Chinchow, tonight, while the main body of his troops followed for what appeared to be the final drive on China's last Manchurian stronghold.

Astride his black horse, this 5-foot soldier led his men into Kowpangtze without a struggle this afternoon and camped there while Gen. Kamura's division came in from Hsinmintun, 60 miles to the north.

Scouting airplanes went out ahead of the cavalry and came back to report that the Chinese were leaving Chinchow in droves.

15,000 Japanese Arrive.

While the advance guard went down to the Taling and Japanese troops continued to pour into Kowpangtze until there were nearly 15,000 of them, the little general directing this campaign paused long enough to point out his movements on a map.

He weighs not more than 120 pounds and peers through professorial gold-rimmed spectacles, wrinkling his forehead as if he were continually worried. He wears a small black mustache and talks in a weary voice.

Over the map he became enthusiastic, tracing with slender fingers the course over which he had come from the Yinkow sector.

The League of Nations Council provided a troublesome complication in the Manchurian problem, he said, because the council members do not understand the real situation here.

FORBES WOULD QUIT HIS POST AT TOKYO

New Foreign Minister Declares Last Stronghold Will Be Defended.

W. Cameron Forbes, American Ambassador to Tokyo, has informed the State Department of his intention to resign as soon as he can be spared from his duties in the Japanese capital. He has mentioned a two months' period as the maximum he would care to spend in the post.

State Department officials were reluctant to discuss the subject yesterday. They regarded it as a delicate one in view of the part the United States has played in the diplomatic moves relating to the Sino-Japanese troubles and the necessity of the American embassy maintaining the full force of its normal influence as an important mission in Tokyo.

However, department officials scouted suggestions that the ambassador was at odds with Secretary Stimson over questions of policy in the Manchurian situation. They said that throughout the crisis the ambassador has acted for the Secretary and min-

Rover Campaign Bars Obscene Publications

District Attorney Plans to Bring About Arrest of Every Dealer Handling Such Periodicals; Issues of Two Magazines Seized.

Salacious and obscene publications are to be driven from the streets of the National Capital under compulsion of the force of the law.

Disclosing inauguration of his campaign against such publications, United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday announced his purpose to have arrested every dealer in the city offering such publications for sale.

Although there have been sporadic activities against so-called humorous and other magazines which have transgressed the bounds of propriety in the past, the disposition on the part of District officials has been to allow for the local dealer's ignorance of the contents of periodicals prior to his purchase of them.

Disappointed in results achieved through such a policy, Mr. Rover has laid down a new rule under which every dealer and distributor will be held personally responsible for every publication he offers for sale which might transgress the borders of public decency.

Aid of the police department will be enlisted and the new program calls for the issuance of blanket orders to the police to arrest every dealer offering for sale whatever publications come within the proscription.

The entire issues of two monthly magazines have been confiscated as a preliminary step in the new drive and the dealers have been warned that they will be held responsible for the contents of each succeeding issue of the magazine they offer for sale.

Three other publications are under study by Mr. Rover and Wilbert McInerney, assistant United States district attorney. These, Mr. Rover said, are "vulgar, to say the least," and intimated that they might be considered to come within the scope of the law prohibiting dissemination of obscene matter.

Not only is the reading matter in several publications objectionable, Mr. Rover has found, but lucrative advertisements seek purchasers of illegal devices and of other publications which might well be, judging from the advertisements, improper under the law.

A chance trip to a drug store two weeks ago started Mr. Rover on his

ABBOTT, FIGHT LOST, TAKEN TO MARYLAND

Wife Attacks Woman Who Identifies Him in Amick Shooting Case.

Peter Abbott, charged with the murder of Grover Amick, was held last night in the Hyattsville Jail after frantic efforts to bar his extradition to Maryland had failed.

Abbott's last stand against being returned to Maryland occurred yesterday in Philadelphia, when his wife attacked a woman who had identified him as being a member of the gang which shot Amick during the holdup of a roadhouse in Bladensburg, Md. His attorney had filed a plea for a writ of habeas corpus, but this was dismissed when Mrs. Verne Edwards, one of the women at the house, pointed him out as being one of the gangsters.

"How can you stand there and lie like that?" Mrs. Catherine Abbott screamed as she leaped at Mrs. Edwards, striking her in the face. Court attaches separated the two women, and Mrs. Abbott was not held in contempt of court.

At the hearing, Abbott had ten persons prepared to swear he was in Philadelphia at the time of the shooting. A number of these had testified when Judge Joseph L. Kun announced that the identification by Mrs. Edwards was sufficient to hold Abbott. Extradition papers had already been signed and he was turned over to Detective William Feehley, of Baltimore, and Deputy Sheriff Thomas H. Garrison, of Hyattsville.

Mrs. Edwards, who was wounded in the hip during the holdup, was positive in her identification of Abbott. Even though his attorney asked her to look at his brother, whom he resembles closely, she was still certain that Abbott was the man who had led the bandits.

After the hearing, which had been postponed a number of times, Abbott was taken to Baltimore. He was fingerprinted there and sent on to Hyattsville. Two Philadelphia detectives accompanied him.

Springfield, Ohio, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Three men lost their lives and two others, including the pilot, were injured seriously when an American Airways plane crashed in a rain-soaked corn field 12 miles east of here tonight.

The injured: L. L. Bowen, Louisville, the pilot; W. D. Wieback, Cincinnati.

An examination of the plane failed to show the cause of the crash, but several persons expressed the belief the right wnig collapsed. The ship landed on its right side and was buried deeply into the ground. The plane's daily route was between Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati and Louisville.

Brief Illness Is Fatal To Noted British Editor

Manchester, England, Jan. 1 (Friday) (A.P.).—C. P. Scott, managing director of the Manchester Guardian, died at 1:30 a. m. today.

Mr. Scott, regarded as one of the greatest journalists in British history, contracted a chill shortly before Christmas. Fears were felt about the outcome of his illness, as his heart was in bad condition. He was 85 years old.

GANDHI WITHHOLDS REVOLT OF INDIANS

Defers Drive Pending Talk With British Viceroy on Independence.

Bombay (Friday), Jan 1 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi informed Viceroy Lord Willingdon today that he would withhold renewing the civil disobedience campaign of warfare against the British government if the viceroy would grant him an interview for the discussion of recent restrictive ordinances.

"If you think it worth while to see me," Mr. Gandhi said in reply to a telegram in which the viceroy warned him the government would ruthlessly crush agitators, "The working committee of the all-India congress will suspend operation of a resolution renewing civil disobedience which, at my suggestion, the committee tentatively outlined."

This resolution said that in the absence of any satisfactory response from the government to the contrary, the committee will consider that the government has reduced the Delhi truce to nullity.

In that event, the resolution summoned the nation to resume not only civil disobedience but also nonpayment of taxes, boycott of foreign clothes and picketing of liquor shops, and to begin again the unlicensed manufacture and collection of salt.

The resolution also contained a grim command to the followers of the congress that "if processions and demonstrations are organized, only those should join who will stand lathi (staff) charges and bullets without moving from their places."

The resolution rejected Prime Minister MacDonald's final declaration at the recent round-table conference as wholly unsatisfactory and inadequate.

"Nothing short of complete independence, carrying full control over defense, external affairs and finance, with such safeguards as may be demonstrably necessary in the interest of India, can be regarded by the congress as satisfactory," the resolution said.

It demanded that the government institute an impartial public inquiry into the events leading up to repressive ordinances in various provinces.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

From Viceroy Lord Willingdon yesterday came a telegram to Gandhi asserting that the government would not tolerate his raising for discussion the question of emergency ordinances recently enacted in Bengal and other provinces to deal with political disorders.

In snubstance the viceroy said the government was prepared to crush

CAPITAL TRADE SEES PROMISE IN '32'S SMILE

BICENTENNIAL HOLDS KEY TO PROSPERITY

Economic Soundness Cited With Liberal Spending as Guarantees of Future.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL
(Financial Editor, The Washington Post).

The squares are refilled. The advance has been ordered.

In this militant spirit, local business moves into an unknown year. Through a sustained depression, with financial and commercial wreckage on its flanks, it has marched with but few casualties, following those guidons of good omen that have led it through the past—two banners blazoned with these legends—"A Steady Federal Pay Roll," "A Place of Personal Wealth." Through the gray wall of uncertainty, it sees a golden breach which hastens its steps. It proceeds fearlessly, cheerfully, remembering this is the year of the Washington Bicentennial.

No firmer bridge exists to carry the business life of the National Capital into an uneventful prosperity than this major event of 1932. Dr. George C. Havenner, executive vice chairman of the District Commission in charge of the celebration, estimates conservatively that more than 6,000,000 visitors will come here this year. More than 500,000 of these will attend the 130 conventions scheduled for Washington during the coming twelve months.

Enormous crowds are to be expected every day of the celebration because 13,000,000 persons live within five hours ride of Washington; 38,000,000 can reach here in 12 hours; 80,000,000 have to travel but 24 hours to arrive in the city and 111,000,000 can come here in 48 hours. If each of the 6,000,000 spend only $10, $60,000,000 will be placed in circulation locally.

Economic Soundness.

Splendid as this is, it is merely a stopgap. While the bridge across the space of uncertainty is of iron, its foundations rest on the everlasting rock of economic soundness.

Reasons for this stability of the Nation's Capital are readily apparent. A regular pay roll for those who do the office work of the greatest country in the world insures against the acute fluctuations experienced by the commercial and industrial cities.

The beauty of Washington, its culture, cordiality and cosmopolitanism attracts private wealth to it as a permanent abode. Its historical settings, its collections of art, science, its shrines and monuments are yearly proving a gigantic magnet to thousands of visitors and tourists.

A gain of more than 19 per cent in the number of Government employes in the District of Columbia in the last three and a half years has been revealed by the United States Civil Service Commission. Federal workers here during the World War years numbered 117,760. This num-

Adams Ridiculed By Police Official

Philadelphia Safety Head Criticizes Navy Chief in Raid Incident.

Philadelphia, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Secretary of the Navy Adams was called a "misguided and egotistical whiffet" tonight by Director of Public Safety Schofield in elevating a policeman who had been discharged from the Naval Reserves for wearing a naval uniform in obtaining liquor arrests.

Charles P. Lang, the officer, took his oath as sergeant shortly before midnight. He was dropped from the Naval Reserves several weeks ago.

"Lang was elevated to show him good police work is rewarded," Schofield said. "He was made a martyr in the Navy by a misguided and egotistical whiffet who has no high regard for the Constitution."

5 Nations Accept Bid To Reparations Parley

London, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Great Britain's proposal for an international reparations conference at Lausanne, Switzerland, on January 18 was accepted today by five nations and the parley appeared to be assured.

These were France, Germany, Belgium, Italy and Greece. The fact that the principal debtor and creditor nations will be represented augured decisive developments regarding what reparations Germany will pay next year.

CITY RECEIVES INCOMING YEAR WITH REVELRY

No Signs of Sorrow Are Seen at Passing of Decrepit 1931.

HOOVER RECEPTION TO PUBLIC IS TODAY

White House Observance Is Quiet in Contrast to Gay Parties.

With glad heart, Washington said "Hello!" to 1932 last night as clocks indicated midnight, releasing a vociferous burst of joyous sounds the city over.

While the mythical old man 1931 crawled into his place on history pages, the ebullient infant 1932 was welcomed in watch services at many churches and royally feted at gay hotel parties and home gatherings.

Motorists caught on the streets at midnight tooted their horns, blatantly expressing the spirit of the city, audiences in late shows at many theaters vocally and with noisemakers signaled their greetings.

Sleety Rain Begins.

Shortly before 11 o'clock a sleety rain began to descend and this factor thinned the crowds on the streets. On F street, however, sidewalks were well filled with young and old who saluted the neophyte year with numerous noise making devices, most popular of which was one simulating the well known "bronx cheer." Vehicular traffic literally glutted F street and a cannonade of auto backfiring filled the air for several minutes before and nearly half an hour after midnight.

Crowds on upper Fourteenth street and other busy thoroughfares of the city also made their obeisance to the new year with noise instrument, backfiring and confetti throwing.

An unusually scant number of inebriated persons were seen on downtown streets. Few arrests for drunkenness were made by police up to an early hour this morning. Hotel lobbies, in past years thronged with demonstrative crowds, were quiet last night. Only late arrivals for well attended New Year parties or early leavers were seen in downtown hostelry aisles.

Hoover Prepares Reception.

At the White House the passing of the old year was observed quietly. President Hoover, facing the annual New Year's reception of the Chief Executive to the public, relaxed during the evening in preparation for the thousands of persons whom he will greet with a handshake, beginning at 11 o'clock this morning.

During the first hour of the reception the President and Mrs. Hoover

Former Governor Pays Tax Penalty

Clifford Walker, Georgia, Settles With Government for Defectvie Return.

(Associated Press.)

A settlement recently was made between the Internal Revenue Bureau and Clifford Walker, former Governor of Georgia, respecting delinquent income taxes. Internal Revenue Bureau officials decline to comment on the case, pointing to the law against disclosure or publication of information on income tax returns.

Those interested in the case indicate that the affair grew out of failure of Walker to make a complete return.

Senator Harris (Democrat), of Georgia, who is acquainted with the incident, said last night: "There is no scandal whatever connected with the affair. It was simply a case of neglect which Mr. Walker himself helped the Government to straighten out."

It is understood the settlement involved the assessment of a penalty upon the former governor.

Nine Are Reported Drowned in River

Rescued Man Says Others Met Death When Car Left Bridge.

Chicago, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Jacob P Schiller, of Coopersville, Mich., rescued when an automobile plunged off a bridge into the Calumet River on the southeast side tonight, told police that nine other occupants of the car had drowned.

There were two women, two children and six men in the car, Schiller said. They included members of two families, one from Coopersville and the other from New Era, Mich.

Coast Guardsmen began dragging the river for bodies.

Schiller, who is 36, said the car turned over as it hit the six-foot embankment and dropped into the water. He wiggled free, swam to safety, and went for aid.

Finland Celebrates Repeal of Dry Laws

Unofficial Returns Show 157,697 Ballots Favor Abolition, 46,660 for Prohibition and 2,142 for Modification; "Wet" Triumph Cheered.

Helsingfors, Finland, Friday, Jan. 1 (U.P.).—An overwhelming repudiation of Finnish prohibition was recorded today in complete but unofficial returns in the nation-wide dry law referendum.

The final figures showed a vote of more than three to one in favor of repealing the laws which have been in effect since 1919.

The city of Helsingfors, voting a landslide for repeal, celebrated the wet victory in the most hilarous New Year's eve of the last decade.

Despite the severe economic depression, hotels, restaurants and clubs were crowded with gay parties, drinking a toast to the new year and cheering every new announcement of returns from the referendum.

The complete unofficial returns showed a vote of 76 per cent in favor of abolishing prohibition, while about 1 per cent voted for modification to permit manufacture and sale of light wines and beer.

The figures were:
Repeal, 157,697.
Prohibition, 46,660.
Modification, 2,142.

The crowds celebrating New Year's eve represented the urban population, which led in the movement for repeal, and they marked the "wet" triumph with cheers and songs in every place of entertainment. Liquor was easier to purchase than ever and the city was "wide open."

At short intervals the newspapers flashed the latest wet gains to the watching crowds.

(Associated Press.)

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, last night made the following comment on the prohibition referendum in Finland:

"I always thought the Finns had sense," Curran said. "After twelve years of the prohibition nightmare, 80 per cent of them vote to get rid of it, 19 per cent vote to continue it and 1 per cent throw their vote away by supporting the ineffective makeshift of light wines and beer.

"This leaves the United States as the only prohibition country in the world until our Congress decides to allow our American people to vote on repeal of the eighteenth amend-

WORLD IS WARNED BY VON HINDENBURG

Cautioned Not to Impose Unbearable Burdens on His Nation.

Berlin, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—President von Hindenburg in a New Year's radio address tonight warned the world not to load unbearable burdens on Germany nor to render her defenseless.

He spoke to the German people from a microphone in his study at the executive mansion on the Wilhelmstrasse and his words were rebroadcast to Great Britain and the United States.

Reminding his hearers that stern duties faced them during the coming year, he said:

"On the other hand, the magnitude of the sacrifices that we are making gives us a right at the same time to claim from other nations that they must not impose upon us requirements impossible to fulfill, and thus stand in the way of our recovery.

View On Arms Issue.

"Likewise, the question of disarmament is one where Germany must not be refused what is coming to her. Our claim to a security equal to that of other nations is so obviously justified that it cannot be denied."

His position as President of the Reich and his outlook over a long period of German history gave him the right, he said, to speak "at the end of a year fraught with destiny a few words which come from a devoted heart and which are meant to help in bearing the hardships of these times."

The German people have been asked to make "tremendous sacrifices" in order to overcome the present economic crisis, he continued, and deserve the "sincerest gratitude and full appreciation" for their trials.

"Again I am calling today in an hour which is equally earnest upon

$10,000,000 TO CITY, IS GORE'S PROPOSAL

Hearings to Open on Feb. 1; Mapes Dims Hope for Realty Tax Cut.

The House select group on Federal-District fiscal relations passed into the limbo of dead committees last night, while reverberations from the tax fight it started continued to echo from the Capitol to remotest civic association.

Before it expired Chairman Carl E Mapes, (Republican), Michigan, and Representative Ewin L. Davis, Tennessee, Democratic member, dashed cold water on hopes for reduction in the $1.70 general property tax rate, in interviews with The Post.

From the other side of the Capitol Senator Thomas P. Gore, (Democrat), Oklahoma, wished them Godspeed, with the "hope that we can improve the Mapes bills and induce the House to accept the improvements." The Senate District committee will open hearings on the measures in about ten days.

The blind member of the committee from Oklahoma advised newspapermen he thinks the Mapes income tax bill faulty, and counts the proposed gasoline and auto weight taxes excessive. He came out flatly for a $10,000,000 Federal contribution to District needs, as against the $6,500,000 proposed in the Mapes report.

It was Representative William P. Holaday (Republican), Illinois, member of the Mapes committee and the District appropriations subcommittee, and Representative Ross A. Collins (Democrat), Mississippi, who suggested that enactment of the four Mapes tax measures might lead to a cut in the tax on real estate and personal tangible property.

Chairman Mapes yesterday said he "did not see how it could be done in such times as these." Representative

Parents Keep Insane Son 10 Years in Basement Cell

Man, 34, Revealed by Servant Girl as Reprisal Against Family, Taken to Asylum; Prosecution of Kin is Being Considered.

Holdingford, Minn., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Nearly ten years in a dark basement cage was the penalty paid by a local man because his parents wanted to keep him out of a State insane asylum.

This was revealed today after Alex Litchy, 34, was committed and taken to a State asylum.

It was early in 1922, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Litchy, said, that they decided to remove their son from a Fergus Falls, Minn., hospital rather than pay $10 monthly for his care.

He had been in the institution three years after a long mental illness, and they were told he was difficult to handle. But they preferred having him at their farm home, and with only occasional suspicion by neighbors, kept him in a small, padlocked quarters into which light filtered only when members of the family came with food.

County officials said tonight they had not decided whether action would be taken against the parents, but that such steps were being considered.

Information volunteered by a former maid in the Litchy home brought the man into custody of the State. The girl, being taken to a State institution for delinquents, told Mrs Emma Moynihan, Stearns County Welfare Board secretary, because she believed the Litchy family responsible for her commitment.

The parents said they fashioned his cage of boards and paid little attention to the son. Physicians said he appeared in good physical condition considering the long period in darkness. He had not spoken in four years until today in court, his father said.

One woman living nearby said she became suspicious nearly six years ago, but did nothing. A bearded man was overpowered by Mr. Litchy while running, and returned home. The fleeing man, Mrs. Moynihan believes, was the son.

Mrs. Moynihan found the man pacing in the inclosure, wearing simple clothing and barefoot.

Twice, she was told, he had broken out of the cage. Two brothers, now 16 and 18 years old, took care of him most of the time. Once for a brief period, the parents said, he was moved to a similar cage in a nearby barn.

U.S. JOINS HUNT FOR SENDERS OF DEATH PARCELS

Italian Embassy Here Is Under Guard Against Anti-Fascists.

POWERFUL CHARGES IN DETECTED BOXES

Mail and Express Services Yield Fiendish Devices; Two Men Seized.

(United Press.)

The United States Secret Service, agents of the Department of Justice, and detectives of every major city in the country combined last night to prevent further deaths in the terrorist bomb plot that has filled the American mails and express services with high explosives.

With twelve packages containing bombs so powerful that one of them might destroy an entire building, already discovered in five Eastern and Midwestern cities, fear was expressed that other explosives may now be on their way to prominent Italians farther West.

The death toll at Easton, Pa., where the first bombs were discovered, rose to three last night when Charles Weaver, powder expert for the Dupont Co., died of injuries received in the explosion of a bomb he was examining after its discovery in the Easton postoffice Wednesday.

Embassy Here Guarded.

A special police guard was assigned the Italian embassy in Washington. One of the bombs at Easton was addressed to the Argentine consulate at Baltimore, and police were ready to guard the Argentine embassy here if it were requested. The State Department also asked the Justice Department to take necessary measures to protect Italian consulates throughout the country.

It was explained the precautionary measures were taken on the initiative of the United States and not at the request of the Italian government. The Pennsylvania incident was discussed by Italian Ambassador Nobile Giacomo de Martino at the State Department yesterday, but it was learned he made no request for action.

Two Italians, said by the police to be organizers for the Young Communists League, were arrested at Allentown, Pa., last night and were held on suspicion. They were:

Oscar Viola, alias Jack Viola, 20, of 1374 East Ninth street, Brooklyn.

Anthony Cipolla, alias Rossi, of 162 East 114th street, New York.

Of the twelve packages now accounted for six were mailed at Easton Wednesday, three were delivered in Chicago and one each was discovered in Cleveland, Youngstown and Detroit.

Expressed Bomb Intercepted.

Chicago, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Three mysterious packages, at least one of which contained a bomb of terrific force, were intercepted in Chicago today by police and postal inspectors. All were believed to contain infernal machines.

Two of the packages were sent by express from New York and one by mail from Chicago. The first two were addressed to Giuseppi Castruccio, Italian consul here, and Oscar Durante, editor of L'Italia, pro-Fascist Italian language newspaper. The third was mailed to "Tony Masillo," in care of the Associated Press. No such name appears on the Associated Press employment roster.

Police fired with a rifle at Durante's package after taking it to the House of Correction quarry, and it exploded with a terrific roar and force enough, Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker said, "to blow up a whole city block." The detective said he believed it was composed of nitroglycerin and T. N. T.

Suspicion Saves Editor.

Castruccio's package likewise was taken to the quarry, but is not to be shot at until tomorrow. A police guard was stationed at the site over-

JOINT GROUP GETS TARIFF BILL MONDAY

General Rate Revision Is Not Contemplated in Face of Veto.

TAX INCREASE PLAN TO COME UP LATER

Proposal Designed to Allow Reciprocal Agreements With Foreign Nations.

(Associated Press.)

A Democratic tariff measure is to be given legislative right-of-way in the House next week with a tax increase bill to come up as soon thereafter as possible.

Determined to expedite House action on these and other economic measures, Democratic leaders plan to submit the tariff proposal to the joint Senate-House policy committee on Monday.

The advisory group is expected to approve the proposal, drafted during the Christmas holidays by Speaker Garner, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the Senate finance committee; Representative Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic House leader, and Chairman Collier, of the House ways and means committee.

With approval, Chairman Collier will introduce the bill and immediately call his committee together to consider the measure. Hearings are not expected to occupy much time in view of the fact that the rate schedules are not to be opened.

Both Affirm Plan.

Although no formal announcement of the plans were made, Garner conceded yesterday that the tariff "might possibly" be considered by the House before the ways and means committee completes the tax hearings.

Later both Rainey and Collier affirmed the plan to put the tariff measure ahead of the tax bill. They indicated that if the ways and means committee reported the tariff bill early next week it could be brought up for consideration almost immediately.

The proposal is designed to provide for reciprocal tariff arrangements with foreign nations and would direct the Tariff Commission to recommend changes in duties to Congress instead of to the President as is provided under the existing law. It is understood that an international conference on tariffs might be proposed in the measure.

No Revision of Rates.

No general revision of rates is contemplated. The Democratic leaders previously have declared that under the present political situation, with a Republican President, it would be futile to undertake such a measure in view of a certain veto.

Chairman Collier expressed the hope that all measures of importance such as tariff and taxes would have adequate hearings, but added that the nature of the new tariff proposal would not call for extensive sessions.

At the same time, he announced that hearings on the tax bill probably would open before the ways and means committee next Thursday. Collier explained that the Democrats hoped to fly the House bill before the Senate early in February.

Gas Kills Six Children Left Alone in Dwelling

Marysville, Mich., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Six children left in the home of working parents here were killed by gas fumes today. Four of the victims were children of Mr. and Mrs. Steven McClure, who left them in the custody of two older girls while they were at work.

The victims ranged in age from 14 months to 16 years. Their bodies were found on the floor in various parts of the home when Mrs. McClure returned from work. Gas jets of a kitchen stove had been turned on. Coroner Albert A. Falk said he believed one of the younger children turned the jets and that he probably will give a verdict of accidental death without an inquest.

Hat Cleaner Is Burned As Gasoline Explodes

While cleaning a hat in his shoe shine and hat cleaning establishment at 659 Pennsylvania avenue southeast yesterday afternoon, Anastasia Pappas, 47 years old, of 1202 North Capitol street, received third degree burns of both hands when a pan of gasoline exploded.

The gasoline was on the counter where Pappas was working and it is thought that the heat in the store caused the explosion. He was removed to Casualty Hospital in the Fourth Precinct emergency car where he was admitted for treatment.

Woman Hurt When Car Skids Into Phone Pole

Mrs. Mary Freidrick, 34 years old, of Cottage City, Md., was treated at Casualty Hospital yesterday for possible fracture of the ribs, suffered when the car she was a passenger in and driven by Edwin Talbott, 28 years old, also of Cottage City, skidded on the car tracks in the 3100 block of Rhode Island avenue northeast, and struck a telephone pole.

GUARDING EMBASSY FROM BOMBS

Patrolman R. V. Murray, of the Tenth Precinct, one of the police detail of two to guard the Italian Embassy against possible bomb attempts following a series of bomb outrages throughout the country. The guard was placed at the request of embassy officials although the local police anticipate no trouble. Another policeman is patrolling the rear of the embassy.

night to prevent any one approaching it. The package addressed to the Associated Press was given into custody of postal inspectors, who planned to dispose of it similarly.

The first parcel to come to the attention of authorities was that addressed to Durante, sent by express from New York, and bearing the return address—"Italo Carlo Falbo, Il Progresso Italo American, 42 Elm street, New York.' It also bore the label, "Printing Utensils."

"Here's a late Christmas present for you!" exclaimed C. W. Snell, the express deliveryman, when he entered Durante's office with the package.

The editor took one glance at the parcel, remembered he had not ordered any printing tools, and shouted:

"Take it out! Take it out!"

Two Removed to Quarry.

Several squads took up the pursuit of the deliveryman. He finally was overtaken and the parcel taken from him.

At detective headquarters, efforts were made to remove the outer wrapping of brown paper. A small tear revealed a piece of insulated wire dangling from a hole through a cigarbox-like wooden container. A piece of adhesive tape also was visible, but police, fearful lest an explosion occur, took it by automobile to the quarry. There it was exploded.

Soon after the Durante bomb was discovered, officials of the express company received word from New York that a similar parcel had been sent to Castruccio. The package had been received in the Chicago express office and already was on its way to be delivered at 4034 Sheridan road, the address on the wrapping. Police rushed there and found it had been delivered to a janitor. They seized it and took it also to the quarry.

The parcel received by the Associated Press was similar in appearance to the others. It was wrapped in brown paper with a second wrapping of white tissue paper bearing Christmas seals and "Tony Masillo" written on the wrapping.

Authorities said they believed it might have been addressed by mistake to the news organization's office because the Ashland block, where it is located, also houses several Italian commercial and social organizations.

Bomb in Youngstown, Ohio.

Youngstown, Ohio, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—The package sent to Dr. Attilio Rasapepe, Italian consular agent today, was found by police tonight to have contained a powerful bomb.

The bomb exploded when police poured several quarts of gasoline over the package and set on fire by a long paper fuse, tore up the ground for 15 feet around it. Dirt was thrown for 100 feet. Automobiles parked 500 feet away were rocked.

The package, about a foot and a half square, was sent by express. On it was the return address of G. T. Trambetto, 566 East Forty-fifth street, New York City.

Becoming suspicious, Dr. Rasapepe immediately turned the package over to the police. He said he was not acquainted with any one by the name of Trambetto at that address.

Detroit Bomb Exploded.

Detroit, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—A bomb sent by express to Count Ugo Berni Canani, Italian vice consul, at his hotel here, was exploded harmlessly on the river bank by police late today after the count had refused to accept it.

The bomb, similar to those received in various other cities, was capable of "tremendous havoc," William Cavers, police expert, said, after police had set it off by fire. It was described by Cavers as a nitroglycerin bomb, and the expert said he believed it had been set to go off when the hinged lid of the wooden box was lifted.

The package bore the return address of "Mr. Falbo, 42 Elm street, New York." The wrapper contained the words, "contents table set," and the valuation was given as $50.

Cleveland Outrage Averted.

Cleveland, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Possible heavy loss of life and property destruction was averted today by the discovery and removal of an unusually powerful bomb from the Italian consulate in downtown Cleveland.

Apparently a part of a wholesale death plot aimed at prominent Italians in various parts of the United States, the Cleveland bomb had been addressed to Count Cesare P. A. Buzzi-Gradenigo, the Italian Consul for this district.

After the attempted assassination was discovered, detectives took the bomb to a rifle range on the outskirts of the city and caused it to explode harmlessly by a rifle shot. The blast tore a deep hole in the ground and knocked down several of the spectators, who were not less than 150 yards away.

Detective Inspector Cornelius Cody said the bomb probably contained nitroglycerine and that the force of it would have been sufficient to wreck the Society for Savings Building, where the consulate is located.

At the time the bomb was discovered there were several hundred people in the building and six persons were in the consulate.

Sending Point Disclosed.

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Police Commissioner Mulrooney announced tonight that five bombs were sent on December 29 from the American Railway Express station at Thirty-third street and Eighth avenue, to addresses in Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Youngstown, Ohio.

In the announcement, in which the express company executives joined Mulrooney, it was said the company became suspicious of the packages after they had been sent, and police were notified here. Commissioner Mulrooney then directed that the police of the four cities concerned be informed.

Such action was taken today and was believed to have aided in the interception of deadly packages in the four cities.

Earlier in the day the police said they had learned the dynamite used in the bomb packages which exploded in an Easton, Pa., postoffice Wednesday, killing three employes, was stolen from construction jobs in New York City.

Prominent Italians Warned.

The bombs sent from the express office and those found in Easton apparently were of the same manufacture. Each of the packages was about 10 inches long, 6 inches deep and 4 inches wide.

The 22 members of the police bomb squad were ordered to remain on duty in police headquarters until further notice. Commissioner Mulrooney asked newspapers to cooperate with him in advising prominent Italians to be unusually careful about receiving packages.

Detective George McCartney returned from Easton with one of the packages from which explosives had been removed. He said he supplied Easton police and postoffice officials with a list of 40 names of known anti-Fascists and Communists whom he said might be considered suspects.

Deranged Man Suspected.

F. A. Herdling, special express company investigator, began an immediate inquiry into the dispatch of the packages, but was handicapped by the fact that express accounting offices were closed because of the holidays. Meantime the opinion that the Easton bombs were sent by a person with a deranged mind "who is neither a Fascist nor an Italian," was voiced by Dr. Charles Fama, prominent New York Italian.

"All Italians know how to spell the name of Consul General Grazzi, which was weirdly mispelled on the package," he said, "and any Italians knows that a man's name never ends in 'a,' yet Mr. Pope's first name ended with an 'a' instead of an 'o' on the package.

"No matter how ignorant an Italian may be, he also knows that the title 'Mr.' never precedes any other title. Mr. Pope's package was addressed to 'Mr. Gr. USS Generosa Poke.' The 'Gr. USS' were apparently intended as an abbreviation for 'grand ufficiale.'

"As a physician, I am convinced the bombs were the work of a deranged mind."

Rome, Dec. 31 (U.P.).—Bitter resentiment against anti-Fascists abroad was expressed in the press and in official circles tonight in comment on the bomb plots against prominent Italian officials in the United States.

At the same time, the government authorities indicated complete satisfaction with the manner in which the plots had been handled by the United States police, and there were many expressions of regret that lives of innocent persons had been lost.

Marines in Nicaragua Slew 368 Rebels in '31

(United Press.)

Marines in Nicaragua killed an average of one insurgent a day during 1931, according to a report of corps officers who recently returned to Washington.

Clashes with insurgents occurred every two and a half days, they said. The estimates do not include the skirmishes of December 28 and 29 in which three rebels were slain.

MAN JAILED THRICE IS CHOSEN AS PEER

MacDonald Backer Named on British New Year's Honors List.

London, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—A man who went to jail three times as a conscientious objector during the World War becomes a peer of the realm in the New Year's honors list issued tonight.

He is Richard Clifford Allen, lifelong member of the Labor party, who nevertheless cooperated with Prime Minister MacDonald in the formation of the National Government.

One Viscount, five Barons, three Baronets and 28 Knights are included in the main section of the list. Other knighthoods occur in the colonial and diplomatic sections, and two women are created dames of the Grand Cross of the Order of the British Empire.

Lord Sankey, Lord Chancellor since 1929, becomes a Viscount. The two women are Annie, Dowager Viscountess of Cowdray, and Miss Margaret Tuke, former principal of the Bedford College for women. Her Majesty, Queen Salote Tubou of Tonga becomes an Honorary Dame Commander of the Civil Division of the Order of the British Empire.

John Buchan, the novelist, is created a companion of honor "for public, educational and literary services."

The new Barons are Mr. Allen, Col. Wilfred Ashley, former Minister of Transport; Walter Edward Guinness, former Minister of Agriculture; Liefchild S. Jones, well known temperance advocate, and Sir William Mitchell-Thomson, former Postmaster-General.

Among the knights best known to the general public are Joseph Cahill, commercial counsellor to the British embassy at Paris; Patrick Geddes, the eminent botanist; William C. Hall, London police magistrate; James Milne, general manager of the Great Western Railway; Ernest D. Simon, and Maj. Mackenzie Wood, Conservative M. P.

Roy Alfred Harris, Liberal M. P., becomes a baronet.

The wedding will be a simple ceremony with no attendants, in the presence of a small circle of close friends. Honeymoon plans, says the American, are being guarded carefully.

Both principals in the romance have married before, Tibbett once and Mrs. Burgard twice. He first married Mrs. Grace Mackey Tibbett long before he became famous as a Metropolitan Opera and talkie star. The marriage ended in divorce. They have twin sons.

Foray Marks Celebration of Arrival of 1932 in New York.

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—New York pitched a party for the infant year 1932 with its traditional din—and an undertone of police whistles.

A series of recent raids led by Federal prohibition agents was climaxed in the afternoon by an invasion of one of the most gilded midtown establishments. The Royal Box, with two glistening bars and a circular staircase, was raided while its chefs were roasting fat turkeys in preparation for the New Year's Eve festivities.

WET LEADERS SEEK TWO RUM BALLOTS

House Members Will Press for Votes on Beer and Referendum.

(Associated Press.)

House wet forces are seeking a bipartisan agreement on two prohibition measures, determined to bring both to a vote this session.

Despite Majority Leader Rainey's warning that one vote only would be allowed and wets must make their choice between a referendum and light wine and beer, ballot, some of the antiprohibitionists yesterday were confident the liberalized rules would permit a roll call on both.

Representative Cochran, Missouri Democrat and chairman of the expenditures committee, thinks that way. In support of his belief he cited the interpretation of the new rule allowing a vote on petition of 145 members given by Representative Crisp, of Georgia, Democratic prohibitionist and a leading parliamentarian.

Mr. Crisp said that while the rule would permit a vote during a session on only one beer bill, it would not preclude one on a proposed constitutional amendment repealing the eighteenth amendment.

"I agree entirely with Crisp," Mr. Cochran said. "An amendment to the Volstead Act regarding beer is entirely separate and distinct to a Constitutional amendment. One, Congress can do by itself; the other must be submitted to the people.

"Of course we can get a vote on both questions if we agree on a definite bill representative of each. I am urging members of both the Democratic and Republican wet blocs to agree on one beer bill and one resubmission resolution. Then let these be introduced jointly by Representative Beck, leader of the Republicans, and Linthicum, leader of the Democrats."

Mr. Cochran's expressions were indorsed by Representative Horr, Washington Republican, who said he was ready to charge "gag rule of the worst sort" if Mr. Rainey attempts to hold wet forces to a single vote.

Mr. Cochran predicted a referendum measure would get the largest support. Mr. Rainey, a dry, has said he would cast a favorable vote on that proposal.

The House judiciary committee will decide next Thursday at its initial meeting whether it will consider repeal of the dry laws.

Chairman Summers said yesterday that although he was opposed to taking up antiprohibition measures in view of the economic condition of the country and other pressing problems the committee would make the decision on its program.

The committee of 21 members is predominantly dry.

Clancy Assails Failure To Cut Prohibition Fund

(Associated Press.)

Representative Clancy, Michigan (Republican), an antiprohibitionist, said yesterday that while most Government appropriations have been cut in budget estimates, those for prohibition enforcement had not taken corresponding slashes.

"The executive branch cut down practically all appropriations," he said in a statement, "but they could not muster enough strength to cut the heavy appropriations for the swollen customs border patrol made unnecessary on the Canadian frontier by Canada's strict embargo on the importation of liquor.

"The proposed appropriations for prohibition enforcement are as heavy as ever for the illegitimate purchase and drinking of liquor by prohibition agents. * * *

"The country has shown tremendous indignation that the budget as proposed to Congress did not contain a cut in prohibition enforcement corresponding to that made in the beneficial branches of the Government service."

Cotton Exchange Official Is Dead.

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—J. Lurelle Guild, 58, treasurer of the New York Cotton Exchange, died suddenly today at his home in Stamford, Conn. He joined the exchange in 1904 and had been treasurer since 1929.

Hoover and Stimson Greet Aids at Home and Abroad

Extend Best Wishes for New Year to Members of Diplomatic and Consular Services and Point Out Hopes for World Recovery.

New Year's greetings from President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson to members of the American diplomatic and consular service at home and abroad were made public here on the dawn of 1932.

The President's message was as follows:

"I send cordial greetings at the advent of the New Year to our diplomatic and consular officers abroad, with all good wishes for the satisfactions which your service merits. The Government draws upon the personnel of the foreign service throughout the world for much in the way of information, negotiation, and tactful relationships. The New Year will bring many problems, but if we at home and you abroad maintain our industry, courage, and confidence in the principles and institutions which this country exemplifies, we can do much to promote economic recovery and international friendship. A sound and stable United States is a contribution to the well-being of the world.

"HERBERT HOOVER."

The President's message and another from Secretary Stimson were contained in the number of the American Foreign Service Journal for the present month. Secretary Stimson said:

"Probably more serious problems have arisen during the past year to vex a worry world than during any year within our memory. Unleashed forces of economic and financial depression, with consequent political unrest, have taxed the ingenuity of those world leaders who have fought and are fighting with great earnestness to maintain the ideal of peace and to achieve the return of normal economic conditions. During the year our country has played a leading part in the movement against the forces of sorrow and darkness and we have gladly made sacrifices to lighten the burdens of our fellowmen. Never has our country had greater need of a strong foreign service to assist in the practical application of our ideals of friendship, peace and prosperity; and never has our foreign service had greater need for the complete cooperation of all its members.

"From the beginning of our national history our diplomatic and consular officers, often under most discouraging conditions, have served patiently, sacrificed cheerfully and many have even died nobly at their posts. Needless to say, your efforts have been watched with sympathy, your successes have been applauded by your fellow workers at home and abroad and the eyes of the country are focused upon you.

"The international problems which have confronted our country during the past year have caused me necessarily to lean heavily upon you and often to require of you still greater efforts; and, while your chief recompense is the satisfaction derived from duty well performed, I add my cordial thanks for your wholehearted response.

"While a break in the clouds is apparent on the horizon, the shadow of depression which weighs down men's hearts has not yet passed away. It remains our duty, therefore, to redouble our efforts to restore commerce, industries and shipping to normality and to inspire friendship, tolerance and peace in the minds of men.

"I had the pleasure of meeting and working with many of you at your posts during the past summer, I know your problems and I am duly mindful of the difficulties which you encounter in your work.

"I extend to you my most cordial New Year's greetings.

"HENRY L. STIMSON."

A Bicentennial New Year Message

By SOL BLOOM,
Associate Director, United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

This year all America is to honor the man who led this country to freedom, to victory, and to security, from out of "the times that try men's souls." These again are such times, and as we turn in memory to George Washington, let us ask him to lead us again in spirit, as he led our forefathers while he lived. And as George Washington now belongs not alone to America but to the world, let us bid the world join us in drawing new courage and faith at this New Year, from the inspiration of a message that George Washington left us a century and a half ago in these remarkable and prophetic words:

"* * * Although I pretend to no peculiar information respecting commercial affairs, nor any foresight into scenes of futurity, yet, as the member of an infant empire, as a philanthropist by character, and (if I may be allowed the expression), as a citizen of the great republic of humanity at large, I can not help turning my attention sometimes to this subject. I would be understood to mean, I can not avoid reflecting with pleasure on the probable influence that commerce may hereafter have on human manners and society in general. On these occasions I consider how mankind may be connected like one great family in fraternal ties. I indulge a fond, perhaps an enthusiastic idea, that, as the world is evidently much less barbarous than it has been, its melioration must still be progressive; that nations are becoming more humanized in their policy; that the subjects of ambition and causes of hostility are daily diminishing; and, in fine, that the period is not very remote, when the benefits of a liberal and free commerce will pretty generally succeed to the devastations and horrors of war."

Let us dedicate ourselves this year to the work of binding humanity together "like one great family in fraternal ties." We could not celebrate George Washington in a manner more fitting, or in a way that would please him more.

BIRTH OF 1932 IS OBSERVED WITH REVELRY IN DISTRICT

will receive the Cabinet, members of the Diplomatic Corps, the various members of the judiciary, ranking Army, Navy, Marine and other governmental officers, as well as other persons high in the official and social life of the Capital.

At 1 o'clock, after luncheon, the Chief Executive and First Lady will begin to greet the thousands expected to gather for the public reception. They will remain "at home" to the public until the last New Year caller in line has received a personal salutation from both the President and Mrs. Hoover.

Record Crowds at Parties.

At all of the large hotels and so-called night clubs merry throngs danced and dined at watch parties. Practically all of the hostelries and clubs catered to record crowds and "hard times" signs were significantly absent. Most of the soirees began an hour or so before midnight, reached a peak of music-fraught sound as the New Year rolled in and continued scarcely abated till an early breakfast.

No heavy police detail was assigned to watch New Year revelers, the few extra men augmenting the regular men on duty maintaining an indulgent attitude toward all New Year welcomers who did not overstep the line of rowdyism.

Approximately 6,000 members and friends of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs danced from the old year into the new at a gay ball and entertainment held at the Washington Auditorium. A nationally known radio orchestra provided the music for the jubilant crowd. The proceeds of the ball went to the Home for Aged supported by the organizations.

Church Watch Services.

Among churches holding watch services last night were the Eckington Presbyterian Church, Francis Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Gunton Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church, Fifth Baptist Church, Concordia Church, Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church.

A program of Christmas carols was to be held at St. Peter's Catholic Church at 10 o'clock this morning after a low mass. As it is a feast day in Catholic churches the usual masses were scheduled.

The Washington Hebrew Congregation plans meetings at 10:30 this morning and at 8 o'clock tonight. At the evening session Rabbi Abram Simon will speak on "The Year In and the Year Out." At the Adas Israel Synagogue a special New Year service was planned for tonight, beginning at 8 o'clock, which will include a number of choral interpretations of Hebrew liturgical chants by the Young Peoples Choral Society.

Members of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants planned to go to the White House in a body at 11:30 o'clock to attend the President's reception. A meeting of the group will be held at 10 o'clock, during which John Clagett Proctor will read his chronicles of the year. The gathering will be at the old Union Engine House.

Alumni to Meet.

This afternoon alumni of Central High School will hold their annual meeting and reception at that institution. Election of officers, a dance and athletic events are on the program of the organization.

A joint celebration of the coming of the new year will be held by the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. at the central building of the latter organization. An all-day program of athletic contests, games, music and other exercises will be held. In the evening a sound picture, the "King of Kings," will be shown at the main building of the Y. W. C. A.

Spanish War Veterans of the District and the ladies auxiliary will assemble in front of the White House executive offices at 11:30 a. m. At 11:50 the group will be admitted to the White House to offer their new year greeting to the President and Mrs. Hoover.

The Play Goes on as 1931 Is Carried Off the Stage

By JOHN J. DALY

"——and another Indian bit the dust!"

As Old 1931 is carried off the field, a young fellow, 1932, comes to take his place in the play, the eternal drama of life that goes on, and on, to the final curtain.

The first day of the year and the last day of the year meet and mingle only for the moment, as the scene-shifters shift the scene, and the last may be the first and the first the last; for some are born on the last day and some leave the scene on the first.

This practice of watching the Old Year out and the New Year in takes on all the thrill of attendance at a play.

The curtain is rung down, and the old play is finished. The curtain goes up, and a new play begins.

The audience assembles as the theater of the world is darkened—at midnight.

Gradually the lights come on, dawn under the proscenium arch. The spotlight of the universe, the sun, shines on the stage.

The central character of the new play, 1932, steps toward the footlights, receives great applause and takes a bow.

The play begins.

* * * *

WHAT is it all about?

What will the drama unfold?

Will it be a tragedy, a comedy, a frivolous farce, a burlesque, or a bit of variety—the spice of life?

These are the questions propounded from time immemorial, every time a New Year begins, every time there is a change of cast, a new offering on the world's stage.

Make sure there will be plenty of action, laughter intermingled with tears, the conflict and clash of character and the great denouement. These are the ingredients that hold the interest.

The audience sits back at the beginning of the first act and waits. There are three more acts to come: Spring, when the Young Man's fancy turns to thoughts of love and the darling of the gods comes on the scene—the heart throb of the play, the love interest. Summer, when passion flowers are abloom, and anything may happen—the villain still pursuing 'em. Autumn, when the leaves begin to fall, and the drama, working toward its logical conclusion, foreshadows either a happy on an unhappy ending.

Some people, losing interest, walk out. Even so, the play goes on, a great show each and every year.

* * * *

IT IS, per se, "The Greatest Show on Earth"—a combination of all emotions, the good, bad; false, true; ugly and beautiful—and of all the entertainments—three-ring circuses, vaudeville, minstrel show and straight drama. The box office never closes, and the customers, rich and poor—holders of reserved seats and the gallery gods—keep on coming.

In the wings, the Prompter and the Stage Director stand and give cues to the players, calling every now and then recruits out of the audience, for the mob scenes.

Everybody takes a part in this performance, whether he wills it or no—all the world the stage, and all the people "struttin' their stuff"—the young, middle aged and the old, babes in arms, ingenues, juveniles, character men and women, tragedians, clowns and comedians; actors all, in the Drama of Life.

The name of the attraction, by the bye, is "The Way of the World." The ushers have taken the critics to their seats, and the play begins.

Here's hoping you like it, and play a good part.

Rosenwald Remains In Critical Condition

Chicago, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Although resting comfortably, Julius Rosenwald, philanthropic multimillionaire, was still in a critical condition at his Highland Park home tonight as his children gathered at his bedside.

Dr. Herbert Pollack, his physician, said Rosenwald spent a comfortable day, but that otherwise there was no change in his condition. The 69-year-old merchant is suffering from hardening of the arteries and complications from heart disease. Dr. Pollack said he could not predict how long he might survive.

Portugal Officially Quits Gold Standard

Lisbon, Portugal, Jan. 1 (A.P.).—Under a decree of the ministry of finance the Bank of Portugal has been relieved of the obligation to insure convertibility of the escudo into gold, which means that Portugal has officially abandoned the gold standard.

A Lisbon dispatch Wednesday told of a decree suspending until April 30 the convertibility of Portuguese bank notes into gold or sterling, but maintaining their convertibility into sterling drafts on London at a par rate of 110 escudos to the pound. The escudo now is worth a little more than 3 American cents.

2 CABINET OFFICIALS OPTIMISTIC FOR 1932

Secretaries Lamont and Doak Predict Improvement in Economic Status.

(Associated Press.)

While Washington made ready to give the new year a hilarious welcome, two Cabinet members last night expressed confidence that 1932 would see the country well on the road to better times.

Secretary Lamont, of the Commerce Department, said evidence was accumulating "that liquidation has largely run its course and that natural upbuilding forces are beginning to take hold."

From Secretary Doak, of the Labor Department, came an assertion that while things "are not what we would wish them to be," he thought there were "signs of improvement."

Secretary Lamont reviewed the year from the financial viewpoint.

European Crises Blamed.

"Most of our domestic difficulties could have been corrected prior to this time had it not been for the destructive effect upon our own economy of a series of financial crises abroad," he said. "In the early months of the year we made distinct recuperative progress resulting in an upturn of more than seasonal proportions in industrial output, accompanied by increased employment and improvement in security markets. Gains in principal industries producing consumers' goods were pronounced and these were subsequently held to a greater extent than were those of the heavy industries. This expansive movement, however, was stopped by the crisis which developed in Central Europe in May and June.

"That crisis created apprehension and fear in the United States which resulted in currency withdrawals and bank failures, besides reversing the upward trend of industry and commerce. The year's postponement of intergovernmental debt payments at the initiative of the United States prevented impending catastrophe and the situation was further relieved by the agreement by which Germany's short-term obligations were extended to the end of a six-month period also at American initiative.

Favorable Effect Vitiated.

"The favorable effect of these agreements upon world business were vitiated by lack of cooperation in Europe, which resulted in the crisis culminating in September in the suspension of gold payments by Great Britain and later by other European countries. The fear and apprehension caused by this crisis, both abroad and at home, resulted in enormously increased hoarding and domestic bank failures and unprecedented withdrawals of gold from the United States by other nations fearful of a repetition of the British action. A financial crisis rapidly developed in the United States which was again arrested on October 6 by the action of the President in creating the national credit corporation and by other economic measures initiated at that time."

After reviewing the general domestic situation and the volume of trade, Lamont concluded:

"On the whole, evidences are accumulating that liquidation has largely run its course and that the natural upbuilding forces are beginning to take hold. The very extent and nature of the decline have forced drastic readjustments which are serving as correctives and are aiding in the restoration of equilibrium."

Employment Rate Gaining.

Secretary Doak said:

"There have been some indications recently of an upward trend in the employment rate. Prices in the markets, wholesale and retail, have decreased in some cases materially, and this certainly to some slight degree helps to relieve the situation.

"Employers and employes have maintained, in the main, friendly relations. Each group seems to have full realization that at this time peaceful industrial relations must be maintained. * * *

"The Department of Labor hopes, as of course all departments and for that matter all people hope, that a change in the conditions which now exist quickly will come. There are signs of such change, but it is unwise, I think, to attempt to predict with accuracy when the change will come and how great it will be. The doorway to prosperity somewhere is open and I hope, and I think I may say I believe, that before long the feet of the American people will cross its threshold."

Woman Slightly Hurt As 2 Vehicles Collide

Mrs. Elsie Gould, 26, of 208 Massachusetts avenue northeast, received a laceration to the forehead yesterday when the auto in which she was riding, driven by her husband, Murray W. Gould, 28, was in collision with a mail truck driven by William Mossie, 25, of 630 E street northeast.

The accident occurred at Twenty-fourth and Monroe streets northeast. Both cars were badly damaged. Mrs. Gould refused hospital treatment.

PINCHOT PLANS PLEA FOR FEDERAL RELIEF

Will Ask Senate Committee for Program Refused in Pennsylvania.

(Associated Press.)

Having failed to obtain from his own State Legislature the relief legislation he recommended, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, will appear before a Senate committee next week to ask for Federal assistance to the jobless.

Pinchot will go before a Senate manufacturers subcommittee which already has a record bulging with testimony in favor of direct Federal appropriations to help the unemployed.

As Pinchot is considered a possible presidential candidate, his appearance in favor of Federal aid, to which President Hoover is opposed, will be watched with an eye to possible political significance.

The Pennsylvania governor has long been an advocate of Federal aid to the unemployed and last fall urged President Hoover to call a special session of Congress to consider the problem.

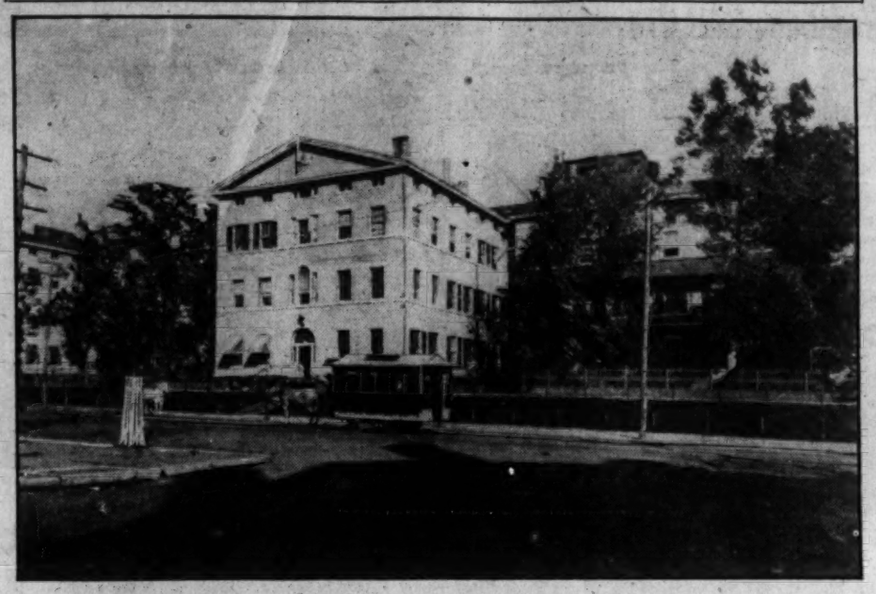
Later he called a special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature which defeated his $120,000,000 relief program and substituted a less extensive plan.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, also will testify Monday. He is expected to support the stand taken by the American Federation of Labor Tuesday in favor of Federal appropriations.

Later in the week Mayor Frank Murphy, of Detroit, and Edward L. Eyerson, chairman of the governor's commission on unemployment of Illinois, will be called.

The committee expects to conclude its hearings by the end of next week. One of the last witnesses is expected to be Walter S. Gifford, national relief director, who Tuesday reiterated his confidence that local communities can take care of the relief problem.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 151



THE above picture shows the building the Navy Department occupied from 1870 until 1883, when it was torn down and the present State, War and Navy Building built on the site.

At that time, Geo. M. Robeson was Secretary of the Navy and the office of Assistant Secretary was abolished by Congress in 1869 and wasn't reestablished until 1890. Capt. Daniel Ammen was then Chief of Bureau in charge of Yards and Docks.

It was about this time that the Navy passed through a period of stagnation due to the lack of interest shown by either Congress or the country at large. The only enlivening times were the contests between adherents of "wood and iron" and "iron and steel," as materials for construction, and steam and sail as means of propulsion.

Note the old horse-drawn street car with the destination mark on the top, "Baltimore depot and hotels," and at the bottom, "Capitol, War and Navy Dept's." Parking evils were not known in those good old days.

AMERICA WILL SHUN REPARATIONS PARLEY

U. S. Not to Be Represented Officially or Unofficially on January 18.

(Associated Press.)

High official circles made it clear yesterday that the administration does not intend to have representation either officially or unofficially at the reparations conference in Lausanne January 18.

It was pointed out that this Government has maintained the attitude that it was not concerned with German reparations and that its only indirect interest in the matter was the cost of the army of occupation which is being paid the United States by Germany. There has been no change in this attitude.

The view also was expressed that the granting of the debt moratorium had led European countries to expect that there might be an adjustment of the war debts at the end of the year, but it was added that this was based on the general situation in Europe and not upon any communications that had been exchanged.

The flat statement that America will not cancel its postwar loans to European debtors was made yesterday by Representative McDuffie, of Alabama.

The Democratic House whip assailed the tactics of England and France and declared:

"The time has come for the big giant of the Western Hemisphere to abandon its role of the Santa Claus of the world."

Of the forthcoming debt conference in Europe, the Alabama Democrat said:

"In equity and good conscience, and in the light of national as well as international morals, Europe should not ask nor will America grant its request for cancellation."

MacDonald Praises Gallantry of Masses

Says Government Faces 1932 Determined to Prove Worthy.

London, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Prime Minister MacDonald, in a New Year's message to the British people today, curtly dismissed 1931 and welcomed 1932.

"The year we have just rung out has not been one on which we shall dwell in our memories," he said. "It has been a year of crisis and hard struggle which has borne heavily on all sections of the community to prevent crisis from developing into catastrophe.

"One bright feature has distinguished the old year—the determined and gallant way in which the great mass of the people have recognized the difficulties that confront the country, and have braced themselves to face them. The government faces the new year determined to act in a manner worthy of the confidence so freely given."

Communist Interrupts Hindenburg's Address

Berlin, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—A brief break in the radio address of President von Hindenburg tonight was caused, the authorities said, by a Communist sending station, the identity of which was not learned.

As the president was beginning the passage in his speech in which he pleaded for internal unity and faith in the fatherland, he was interrupted by a voice on the air saying, "Hello! Hello! The sign of the Red front is over Germany."

WORLD IS WARNED BY VON HINDENBURG

the whole of the German people to stand together in faithful unity, no matter what destiny has in store for us," he said after a passing reference to the battle of Tannenberg.

Urges Courage.

"Let us face the coming days and all their trials and sorrows hand in hand and let us not waver. May none of us give up hope and each and every one have unshaken faith in the fatherland's destiny. The Lord has often before saved Germany from deep distress. Nor will He forsake us now."

Tomorrow will be a busy day for the 84-year-old president and likewise it will be his last New Year's Day in office, for his seven-year term expires next May. A feature of the day will be the reception of the "Halloren" for the first time under the republican regime.

The "Halloren" is composed of the salt mine workers of Halle, dressed in medieval garb, who by ancient privilege precede even diplomats in presenting new year's greetings of bread and salt to the head of the state. The last time this ceremony was carried out was on January 1, 1914, when Kaiser Wilhelm received the delegation.

Germany Pledges Private Payments

But Finance Minister Says Buying of Nation's Goods Is Vital.

Berlin, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Finance Minister Hermann Dietrich assured the world in a New Year's message tonight that Germany will never refuse to pay her private debts.

"We shall do all possible to pay the interest on them and to refund them," he said, "but it is necessary that the chance be given us to do so by the willingness of our creditors to buy our goods, for if they do not payments by Germany are rendered impossible."

In the message the finance minister said miscalculations were frequent in the lives of nations and "the greatest miscalculation in history was the World War; the peace treaties terminating it really did not deserve that name. Today once more we are in the midst of a period when political personages and peoples are miscalculating. All around we find nations erecting barriers against each by raising tariffs."

DODGE ESTATE TAX APPEAL IS REFUSED

Government Wins Case Over $4,145,635 Deficiency in Income Levies.

(Associated Press.)

Trustees of the estate of Horace Dodge yesterday lost before the U. S. Court of Tax Appeals their action to overthrow the decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue assessing the estate a deficiency in income tax of $4,145,635.

The deficiency was levied for 1925, when the Dodge Bros. corporation was sold. The commissioner held that the estate had made a profit of $33,000,000 on the sale. He based his assessment on the fact that it was agreed that the fair market value of the stock of Dodge Bros. owned by Horace E. Dodge at his death was $29,343,350 and that the estate had received $62,500,000 from the liquidating dividend of the Dodge Bros. corporation.

This contention was upheld by the board of tax appeals.

The trustees, including Anna Dodge Dillman, contended that the income tax should have been assessed on a lesser amount in that the value of the stock was greater when it was turned over to the trustees in 1924, at which time it had a value of $57,500,000.

Counsel for the executors of the estate announced when the case was argued here that it would be carried to the Supreme Court if the board decided against them.

East Side Gambler Killed in Clubroom

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Louis Levine, an East Side gambler, was shot five times in the head and killed today in the clubroom of the Pups, Inc., a social organization, in West Fifty-first street. Police found no trace of the pistol with which the gambler was shot, but in the right-hand pocket of his trousers there was a loaded revolver, of the same type with which Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambler, was slain.

About 50 persons were playing cards in the club when the shooting occurred, but when police broke into the place all of them had left.

Probe of Democratic Fund Report Is Set

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—United States Attorney George Z. Medalie tonight detailed Jacob J. Rosenblum, one of his assistants, to study the report filed by the Democratic national committee as to the 1928 campaign, with a view to ascertaining whether the Federal corrupt practices act was violated.

Mr. Rosenblum will leave for Washington tomorrow night, reporting Saturday morning at the office of the Attorney General to scan the committee's report.

H. H. Van Loan, Author, Is Divorced by His Wife

Los Angeles, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Mrs. Gertrude Campbell Van Loan obtained a divorce today from H. H. Van Loan, scenario and short story writer of Hollywood, on grounds of desertion. The suit was uncontested.

Attorneys for Mrs. Van Loan announced a property settlement has been reached, which provided the writer pay her $10,000 in installments over a period of years and $50 a month for the support of their 14-year-old daughter, Gertrude.

Washington State Area Is Jarred by Earthquake

Seattle, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—A slight earthquake jarred western Washington at 7:25 p. m. today. At Lilliwaup, on Hood Canal, it cracked the concrete wall of a new store building.

Although there has never been a serious quake in this State, Dean Henry Landes, of the University of Washington College of Science, said slight tremors are not unusual and occur about two or three times a year.

CULBERTSON LOOMS AS CERTAIN WINNER

Virtual Impossibility of His Losing Match Conceded; Play Again Monday.

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—All indications are that it will be a happy New Year for Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson.

The contract bridge match in which Culbertson, with three partners, has been engaged since December 7 against Sidney S. Lenz and two partners, is scheduled to end a week from tomorrow night. The virtual impossibility of Culbertson's losing is generally conceded.

Next Friday night, presumably, the referee will turn over to Culbertson some $10,000 of his own money and something less than half that put up by opponents and others who liked the long odds he offered, even when well behind in the first stages of the match.

All his winnings will go to charity. After the turmoil of the match and after a vacation, he expects to begin, in retirement from championship competition, the garnering of the fruits of victory.

Will Play Again Monday.

Saturday's session was canceled at a conference early this morning between Lenz and Culbertson. The next session will be next Monday night with further play Tuesday and Wednesday nights and the conclusion Friday night.

Once in a great while there has been somewhat of an agreement by rival commentators about the effect of system on bidding in certain hands. On hand 688 Liggett contracted for one spade, third hand, with no other bidding, and made four. In behalf of Lenz Walter Malowan remarked: "This is one hand where the official system is a typical misfit. Liggett's hand is, to quote him, shy for a two bid. Lenz's hand is too short for a raise." With Culbertson the distributional and honor count of Lenz's hand would have warranted a raise of one and the original bidder could then have contracted for game. The hand:

Commentators Often Agree.

Often there has been agreement by the commentators of the rival teams as to excellent play. Of hand 684 Malowan said, "Very nicely defended by Mrs. Culbertson." Culbertson commented, "Beautiful discarding. Lenz played very well." Lenz was set one trying to make three no trump. The hand:

Bank President Foils Attempt at Bombing

Los Angeles, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—An attempted robbery of Security-First National Bank failed here today when Tracy O. Hall, president, knocked down Timothy P. Blevens, 24, who threatened to discharge a bomb if the bank official failed to give him $200,000.

Blevens, an unemployed kitchen worker then vainly attempted to explode a dynamite bomb, ran from the building, and was captured by police. The bomb, in a suitcase, was declared by police to contain enough dynamite to destroy a city block.

Disabled Japanese Ship Fighting Way in Storm

Seattle, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—A message that the Tamaho Maru, disabled Japanese freighter, had arranged a temporary rig and was proceeding slowly through heavy seas off the Aleutian Islands in Alaska was received by the Coast Guard radio here tonight.

The Tamaho Maru, which had not been heard from for more than 30 hours, reported when sending distress calls early yesterday that its steering gear was disabled. An 80-mile gale was blowing, the vessel said, and fears were felt during its long silence whether it remained afloat.

GERARD HITS BACK AT G.O.P. ON FUNDS

Says Party's Accountants in 1928 Same as Foes Had in 1924.

(Associated Press.)

James W. Gerard, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, yesterday said that reports of 1928 expenditures of the committee had been prepared by the same accountants who prepared the 1924 reports for the Republicans.

His statement, issued through the national committee here, was in answer to a charge by Representative Wood that there had been concealment of expenditures by the Democratic national committee in the last campaign.

His statement said:

"I employed for the preparation of the reports the same firm of accountants who prepared the Republican report of campaign expenditures in 1924. This firm, Messrs. Lybrand, Rose Brother & Montgomery, advise that they followed exactly the same formula in filing our reports that they did for the Republicans.

"The accountants had the separate pay roll accounts with all our books, and are probably as familiar with what the law requires as Mr. Wood can possibly be. Naturally the form of the report was left to these experts. Fortunately all our vouchers have been preserved, and are available should they be called for."

Wood, who is chairman of the Republican congressional committee, charged that the lumping of pay roll totals was a concealment.

Jury Convicts Trio Of Liquor Violation

Red Top Whisky Co. Case Requires Six Hours for Verdict.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Three of the defendants in the Red Top Whisky Co. case were convicted by a jury in the United States District Court here tonight. They are T. C. Roberts, Albert Parrish and M. P. Hudgins.

All were convicted on a charge of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law. Parrish and Hudgins were convicted on separate indictments charging them with the possession of whisky and selling whisky to undercover prohibition agents. Judge Luther B. Way, presiding, immediately overruled a motion for a new trial and fixed next Monday for imposing sentences. Lester S. Parsons, defense attorney, indicated that he would take the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The jury deliberated approximatley six hours.

Moonshiners Get Federal Tax Bills

U.S. Seeks to Collect $1.10 for Each Gallon of Liquor Seized.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 31.—It's bad enough to get caught, fines imposed and your liquor confiscated, but local moonshiners and bootleggers during the past few days have been thrown into a panic as a result of receiving bills from the Internal Revenue Department for revenue tax of $1.10 on each gallon of moonshine seized.

According to information received here by counsel for liquor law violators, the Government can collect the bills, even if they have to seize property if payments are defaulted.

An effort was made shortly after the law was passed in 1926 to collect this duty, but it was dropped until recently, when liquor law violators here began receiving bills at the rate of $1.10 for each gallon seized.

Voyaging Scrubwoman Seen by Illinois Town

Chester, Ill., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Randi Lerohl, the Superior, Wis., scrubwoman voyaging down the Mississippi River to the Gulf of Mexico in a flat-bottomed rowboat, was believed to be spending New Year's eve camped at some lonely point not far south of here. Miss Lerohl rowed past Chester a 1:15 p. m., today, making about 5 miles an hour. She did not stop.

Between here and Cape Girardeau, Mo., there are few villages and the region is very sparsely settled. There were no reports available from any points below here tonight.

Threatened Radio Strike Is Called Off in Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Chicago's threatened radio strike was averted today when union musicians and broadcasting officials reached an agreement shortening the hours of work and increasing the minimum number of men in orchestras, but maintaining the same pay schedules.

The agreement assured Chicago stations of their regular orchestras for the New Year's programs.

Nine Members of Congress Sat In at Sessions in Youth

Representatives Now in Own Right, They Reminisce of Days When as Children They Accompanied Parents Who Served in Halls.

(Associated Press.)

Holiday reminiscing yesterday turned the thoughts of at least nine members of Congress back to the days when their fathers sat in the House of Representatives.

There's a quaint old Capitol custom of allowing young children to go to the floor of the House and sit with their parents on momentous occasions, so they can tell about it afterward.

And some thus acquire an ambition to follow in parental footsteps and be legislators themselves.

At the age of 6, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen sat with her father, Representative William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, and watched Speaker Crisp wield the gavel. Now her small daughter, Helen Rudd, 10, comes to sessions.

"When I get to be a representative, I'll let my little girl come too," said Helen Rudd.

There are other families with three generations which have had the privilege of the floor under like circumstances.

Representative Martin Dies, of Texas, who sat as a child of 7 with his father, Martin, now brings to the floor his two sons, Martin, 10, and Robert, 8.

Representative Grant E. Mouser, jr., of Marion, Ohio, has had at this session both his father, Grant E. Mouser, sr., and his sons, Grant 3d, age 8, and Harold, age 6.

"My father took me in there when I was a boy. I'm taking him in now," said Mr. Mouser.

Representative John William Boehne, jr., of Evansville, Ind., took the oath of office standing between his father, John William, sr., representative in 1909, and his sons, John William 3d, age 11, and Charles, age 6.

It was Representative Harry L. Englebright's younger brother who sat with his father, Representative William F. Englebright, taking time off from play with the Roosevelt boys. The younger Englebright came to Congress twenty years to the day after his father, same California district—and both by special elections.

In direct succession, after serving their fathers as secretaries, Representative Charles Forest Curry, jr., of California, and Representative Paul John Kvale, of Minnesota, entered the House.

There's a Bankhead in the Senate, John Hollis, and a Bankhead in the House, William Brockman. They're brothers from Alabama, and their father, John Hollis Bankhead, sr., set the precedent for both of them, serving first as representative and then as senator.

One of the most remarkable father-and-son combinations was the Georgia Crisps.

All the while the late Charles Frederick Crisp was Speaker of the House, his son, Charles Robert, served him as parliamentarian.

Now the younger Crisp is one of the seasoned veterans and leading Democrats. A member with Herbert Hoover on the War Debt Commission, Mr. Crisp played a leading role in the debate on the moratorium.

Shortly before the Democrats assumed control, a little note from Crisp appeared on the bulletin board of the House press gallery.

Mr. Crisp said it had long been his dearest wish to become Speaker, like his father, but that he realized it was impossible, and for party harmony he also withdrew his name from consideration as floor leader.

Conflict of Kings For 2 Girls Bared

Brides of Royal Indian Boys Sought After by Rulers of 3 Lands.

Hyderabad, India, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—A battle of Oriental kings for two Moslem princesses was revealed today as the sons of the Nizam of Hyderabad brought their brides home to a cloistered existence.

Prince Azam Jah, heir to the Nizam's vast fortune, Prince Moazzam Jah, his younger brother, and their wives, Princess Duria Shehvar and Princess Nilufar, daughter and niece of the exiled Caliph of Islam, came from Nice, where they were married last month.

King Fuad of Egypt, King Feisal of Irak, and Shah Riza of Persia, it was learned, waged a losing struggle for months to obtain the hands of the girls in marriage to their sons or relatives, believing that an alliance with the spiritual head of the Moslem world would strengthen their thrones.

Two Republicans Back Coast Democratic Bid

San Francisco, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Two San Francisco Republicans have guaranteed $150,000 to promote the city's claim to the 1932 Democratic National Convention.

William H. Crocker, Republican national committeeman, and Herbert Fleishhacker agreed to underwrite the city's bid until definite financial arrangements are completed. When Justus S. Wardell, chairman of the State executive convention committee, and Isadore Dockweiler, Pasadena, Democratic national committeeman, leave Saturday for Washington to present the petition of San Francisco for the convention, they will carry a certified check for $150,000, half donated by Crocker and half by Fleishhacker.

In his proclamation, the governor said many colored gasoline mixtures were commanding an additional price on the pretext they contained the qualities in the tetraethyl fluid whereas they were merely colored.

RESIDENTS OF DELTA FLEE BEFORE FLOOD

Hundreds Seek Refuge on High Ground as River Smashes Levees.

Glendora, Miss., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Hundreds of residents in the Tallahatchie River Valley fled to high ground and awaited rescue tonight after warnings by messengers speeding about in motorboats that higher flood waters are headed this way.

Their flight was hastened by the sight of crumbling levees that have served stubbornly but in vain to keep the muddy torrents from spreading through the streets of Glendora and the surrounding countryside.

Residents with boats volunteered their services in warning citizens of a far-flung area to seek refuge while there was time. The endangered zone includes the towns of Glendora, Swan Lake, Webb and Sumner.

More than a thousand convicts went into action along a 12-mile levee front doing what they could to hold back the water which is pouring over the dykes in many places. Additional boats will be needed to carry out the refugees from the hill crests to the towns. The first fleet sent out was merely to warn all to take to flight.

The desperate situation was not realized until today. The population was thrown into a state of panic as practically no hope was held for the miles of levees holding through the night.

A cloudburst last night sent the Tallahatchie River on a new rampage right at the time when a thousand refugees were preparing to return to their homes.

Mrs. Mollie Hodges Nicholson, field worker of the National Red Cross, left Clarksdale for Glendora today to survey the situation and determine relief measures.

Yesterday a great inland lake of flood water, stretching 100 miles in length and 50 miles in width through Quitman, Panola and Tallahatchie Counties, was beginning to recede, but the new downpour of rain started the water rising again.

Almost the entire town of Glendora, Miss., was inundated by flood waters from the Tallahatchie River and Cassidy Bayou. Hastily reenforced barriers weakened under the steady battering of the water. This aerial view of Glendora shows how a bend of Cassidy Bayou, at left, has risen until streets were flooded and the railroad line in the foreground endangered by the high water.

Navy Airships Set Training Cruises

Akron and Los Angeles to Make Several Flights in Next Two Months.

(Associated Press.)

Two months of active training flights are in store for the Akron and the Los Angeles—the Navy's giant airships.

During January and February, they will operate from the Lakehurst, New Jersey, naval air station along the Atlantic Coast after which the Akron will leave for the Pacific Coast and the Los Angeles will be overhauled.

The Akron will participate in the naval mimic warfare off the West Coast from March 8 to 23, forming a part of the defending force against an invasion of destroyers steaming in from Hawaii. Later it will take part in the fleet tactical exercises off San Pedro, returning to Lakehurst in April. The Akron's training schedule on the East Coast includes three flights, tactical exercises with the scouting force and mooring in Chesapeake Bay with the U. S. S. Patoka, prior to March 1. The seven-year-old Los Angeles will be given a five weeks' overhaul at Lakehurst after March 1 in accordance with recommendations of the Navy Department Board of Inspection and Survey.

OULAHAN'S FUNERAL WILL BE TOMORROW

Messages of Condolence to the Journalist's Family; Hoover's Tribute.

Funeral services for Richard V. Oulahan, long time dean of the Washington newspaper corps, will be held at Holy Trinity Church, Georgetown, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The burial service in Rock Creek Cemetery, following the requiem low mass, will be private.

As the funeral arrangements went forward yesterday, messages of condolence to the family and of tribute to Mr. Oulahan's long service in journalism, continued to flood into the city from all sections of the world. An unbroken stream of callers, including ranking Government officials, members of the Diplomatic Corps and newspaper colleagues of the deceased, stopped at the residence, 1518 Thirty-first street, to pay their last respects.

President Hoover's Tribute.

Mr. Oulahan died at his home shortly after noon Wednesday, following a ten days' attack of pneumonia. He was 64 years old.

Among the expressions of condolence which reached the family yesterday was the following letter from President Hoover:

"Dear Mrs. Oulahan:

"I have learned with profound regret of the death of your husband. Richard V. Oulahan was an outstanding journalist, a good friend and wise counselor. Few writers of our day have done more to disseminate truth regarding national affairs, always for the advancement of our country. He was highly deserving of the designation voluntarily given to him by his fellow journalists, 'dean' of the corps of Washington correspondents. His passing is a personal loss to me. Mrs. Hoover joins with me in expressing heartfelt sympathy to you and yours."

Among the communications received by Mrs. Oulahan was one from Chief Justice Hughes, who said, "I am shocked and deeply grieved to learn of Mr. Oulahan's death. I held him in very highest esteem and I send you my most sincere sympathy."

Many other letters of sympathy were sent to Mrs. Oulahan by members of the Cabinet, foreign diplomats and others high in official and private life.

Press Galleries Mourn.

At a special meeting of the standing committee of correspondents of the press galleries of Congress, a resolution was passed lauding Mr. Oulahan's "fine spirit of friendship, his uniform courtesy and his scrupulous adherence to the ethics of his profession." This resolution, which was communicated both to the family and to the New York Times, which Mr. Oulahan had served for 20 years, expressed sorrow for the loss "of one of the most notable figures in the history of the galleries."

Every journalistic organization in the Capital has appointed a committee to represent its membership at the funeral services.

The Overseas Writers, of which Mr. Oulahan was one of the founders and former chairman, yesterday adopted a series of resolutions honoring their dead friend. The group commented upon the honor he had reflected on the writing profession, upon his honor and high standard of journalistic ethics, and that "it is the sense of the membership of this organization that we have lost a most valued member and journalism has been deprived of a great asset."

JUDGE DENIES RELIEF IN EDITOR'S JAILING

Petersburg Court Refuses to Set Aside Mapole's Contempt Sentence.

Petersburg, Va., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—J. W. Mapoles, editor of the Hopewell (Va.) News, today lost his first legal skirmish in an attempt to have set aside a 30-day sentence for contempt of court.

Judge R. T. Wilson, of the Petersburg Hustings Court, dismissed a writ of habeas corpus and no authority to alter the contempt sentence imposed by Judge Thomas B. Robertson, of the Hopewell Corporation Court.

Counsel for Mapoles quoted from the Virginia Constitution to support their contention that Judge Robertson exceeded his legal authority in imposing more than ten days' imprisonment. Judge Robertson ordered Mapoles to be placed in jail for 30 days or until he revealed the identity of the authority of a published letter held to be in contempt of court.

Judge Wilson declined to hear testimony on the merits of the case or to permit introduction of affidavits of attorneys who claimed there was no contempt involved.

He said he was passing solely on the habeas corpus petition, and was not interested in the guilt or innocence of the petitioner. "I am interested solely in the question whether the petitioner was restrained without due process of law," he said.

After the hearing counsel for the editor asked Judge Robertson to bail Mapoles pending an appeal to the Supreme Court of Appeals. He declined to say whether he would release the prisoner on bond, but promised to decide Saturday.

Meanwhile, attorneys said they were considering other action including the petitioning of Federal Judge Luther B. Way, on the ground that Mapoles was imprisoned without due process of law, in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the United States Constitution.

Fines of $10 each were imposed on Mapoles and Chief of Police C. H. Sheperd, of Hopewell, on charges of contempt of court in connection with the publication by Mapoles' paper of an item which Judge Robertson said created the impression he had dismissed "a big bootlegger."

Seventeen of Hopewell's 24 lawyers signed a demurrer in the Sheperd case.

King Urged to Support Filipino Exclusion Bill

San Francisco, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—In a letter to United States Senator William H. King, of Utah, the California joint immigration committee, through V. S. McClatchy, its executive secretary, today urged him to support measures providing for exclusion of the Filipinos.

McClatchy took notice of the senator's assertion he could not conscientiously vote to exclude from this country any people living under the American flag. The joint committee suggested in reply that it could not consider such matters as independence, as it was organized solely to concern itself with exclusion of aliens ineligible to citizenship. The letter suggests to Senator King that it would be for the best interests of both Americans and Filipinos if the islanders were kept at home, where it is held they are needed.

BYRNS SAYS HOUSE 'WILL CUT TO BONE'

Only Billion of Budget Can Be Touched, However, Chairman Explains.

(United Press.)

Chairman Joseph W. Byrns, of the House appropriations committee, announced last night a policy of cutting all appropriations bills "to the bone" in meeting President Hoover's desire for rigid economy of Government expenditures.

"How much we can save I don't know," Byrns said, "but we are going to cut to the bone. If Congress does not add a great many new activities, we can make substantial savings."

Byrns, however, warned against too much optimism about reduction of expenditures on account of obstacles which confront his committee. He explained that cuts can be made only on about $1,000,000,000 of the $4,601,000,000 budget submitted by President Hoover, as the rest is for essential standing expenditures that can not be reduced.

In the latter class he listed $1,072,000,000 for war veterans' care and compensation and expenses of its administration; $1,100,000,000 for the sinking fund and interest on the public debt, and $800,000,000 for the Postoffice Department.

Even beyond that, there are other necessary expenditures, including $120,000,000 for public buildings and $60,000,000 for roads, which Congress can not very well reduce, Byrns explained.

Edmonds each brought his wife and three children. Lots were drawn for another flower prize which Mr. Briggs won. Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, wife of the retiring president of the club, welcomed the guests.

A musical program was offered under the direction of Gertrude Lyons, president of the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs. Those appearing on the program included: Gertrude Russell, soloist; Gertrude Dyre, accompanist; Richard Davis, 14-year-old violinist, and Jeanne Reade and Irma Norwood, 11-year-old members of the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church Junior Choir, who sang duets, accompanied by Mrs. S. E. Moore.

Boy Victim of Gun Likely to Lose Eye

13-Year-Old Was Hit by Shot From Gift Air Rifle.

Physicians at the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital yesterday indicated that hope of saving the left eye of Robert Husband, 13 years old, of 1235 Oates street northeast, struck with a Christmas air gun pellet Wednesday, was fading.

X-ray pictures of the injured eye have shown that the small missile passed either through the optic or glanced off that part of the eyeball, causing contusions which will probably deprive the lad of the sight of that eye.

Robert was taken to the Episcopal institution after first aid treatment at Casualty Hospital Wednesday. The injury was inflicted as he played on a vacant lot near his home with two friends.

Big Ben Rings Knell Of 1931 in England

London (Friday), Jan. 1 (A.P.).—Twelve deep sonorous strokes, booming out over a fog-shrouded London from Big Ben, the famous bell at the House of Parliament, rang the death-knell of 1931.

Two million radio sets picked up the great bell's message in all parts of the country. In the luxurious hotels along the South Coast revelers paused in their dancing to greet the new year with cheers and songs.

5 KILLED, 60 HURT BY DIXIE STORMS

Havoc Is Wrought by Freak Winds in Parts of Four States.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Freak wind storms in widely scattered sections of the Southeast last night and today left at least five persons dead and 60 injured, and extensive property damage.

Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Florida areas were affected by the storms. All of the fatalities and 53 of the injuries occurred in Simpson and Covington Counties, Miss.

Mrs. Anse Everett, 25, was crushed to death as she held a baby in her arms at her home near Magee, Miss. The house was demolished but the infant was unhurt.

Paul Brown, 2, was killed in the collapse of the farm home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Brown, near Magee.

Two Negroes, Hattie Lee, 22, and Nannie Lou Lee, 16, perished as their farm home near Magee collapsed and the 2-year-old son of Aaron Smith, a Negro, was killed at a turpentine camp nearby.

Three Gravely Hurt.

The critically injured are William Lee, his wife and one son.

John Rankin, Magee farmer, whose home was blown 2½ miles to a point where it blocked a highway, was found with his family today. His wife was seriously injured. All the injured were caught by the wind on plantations near Greenville as twisting winds uprooted trees and tore down buildings over a 5-mile strip several hundred yards wide.

Three homes were demolished and others damaged at Riverview, Ala., near the Georgia line. There were no injuries there, but a baseball park grand stand was deposited on a cottage and a child ill from pneumonia barely escaped as the brick house in which he was lying was demolished.

Telegraph, telephone and electric service was disrupted over large areas in Alabama. Millbrook, north of Montgomery, was visited by winds that damaged several houses, and Selma was without electric service for some hours. Eutaw, west of Tuscaloosa, also was hampered by high winds.

Injured Taken to Hospitals.

The only other injuries reported occurred near Monticello, Ark., where several farm houses were demolished or damaged last night. Three injured persons were brought to Monticello hospitals.

A "southeaster" tore in from the Gulf of Mexico this morning, damaging a number of homes and other buildings at Quincy, Fla., and ripping a path northward toward Alabama. A church was blown down, but no injuries were reported. Several tobacco warehouses were unroofed.

A 60-mile wind and torrential rain struck the Mississippi Gulf Coast last night, sweeping some distance inland, uprooting trees and damaging small buildings and a few light and telephone wires. Small boats and fishing craft near shore were damaged and the pleasure boat Sea Wing sank in the Gulfport Basin. No casualties were reported.

Firehouse Award Is Given to Rose

Gets $152,800 Contract in Spite of Protests Over Wage Scale.

Over the protests of local union officials, the District Commissioners yesterday awarded the contract for contsruction of a firehouse on Thirteenth street, between K and L streets northwest, to the W. P. Rose Co., of Greensboro, N. C., on its low bid of $152,800.

The award was made after Corporation Counsel William W. Bride had effected a settlement regarding charges of failure to pay the required District wage scale on the Woodridge School job and after several workmen had been reemployed by the Rose company following the filing of charges by union officials.

The new firehouse will accommodate No. 3 Truck and No. 16 Engine companies, which will be deprived of homes by the Mall Triangle construction. The third floor of the new building will be devoted to a medical clinic for the Police and Fire departments.

The bodies were taken to Rural Hall today. Moore formerly lived in Winston-Salem, N. C.

Man Held for Jury On Girl's Charges

Attempted Assault During Trip to Virginia Is Alleged.

Milling Underwood, of 1926 New Hampshire avenue northwest, was ordered held for the grand jury at the January term of the Fairfax County, Virginia, Circuit Court, yesterday morning by Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie, on a charge of attempted assault. Bond was set at $1,000.

Underwood was arrested the night before by Washington and Fairfax County police on a warrant sworn out by Helen Young, 23, of 1008 K street northwest. According to the police the alleged offense took place earlier in the week near Seminary Station just outside Alexandria.

The girl told police she had known Underwood for about three months under another name. Monday evening, accompanied by another man whose name she did not know, they went for an automobile ride. The trio were to pick up another girl in Alexandria. Instead, Underwood drove the car to a lonely place near Seminary and there attempted to assault her, striking her with a blackjack. She managed to escape from the car and phoned the police.

18 Roads May Lose Share in Rail Pool

But Credit Corporation Says Final Decisions Are Not Yet Reached.

(Associated Press.)

The New Railroad Credit Corporation has not yet completed its listing of railways eligible for loans from the pool of recently authorized rate surcharges.

Publication yesterday of a tentative listing of the Chicago and Erie as ineligible because of interest defaults resulted in a denial from those interested in the road that such defaults existed. Altogether eighteen class one roads had been tentatively listed as unable to receive the loans because of defaults, receiverships, or for other reasons.

Yesterday's publication of the names of the eighteen was declared at the offices of the Credit Corporation to have been "unauthorized." It was said also that inaccuracies in the tentative list were inevitable, as revisions constantly are found necessary on the basis of more complete information.

La Fontaine Goes To Jail Tomorrow

Is Scheduled to Appear in Baltimore to Serve Tax Sentence.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 31.—James C. (Jimmy) La Fontaine, Washington gambler, recently sentenced to nine months in jail after pleading guilty in the United States District Court to evading income tax payments, is scheduled to appear here Saturday to begin serving his term.

Judge W. Calvin Chesnut, who sentenced La Fontaine December 4, deferred serving of the term until Saturday, so the 63-year-old defendant could spend the holidays with two young nieces.

A fine of $1,000 also imposed on the gambler was paid at the time of its imposition, and La Fontaine was released in $10,000 bail.

Dempsey's Former Wife Gets $30,000 and Home

Los Angeles, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Details of the property settlement between Estelle Taylor, film actress, and her former husband, Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, were revealed today in a document filed with the county recorder.

It disclosed Dempsey gave Miss Taylor the Los Angeles residence, $30,000, and $10,000 as a fee for her attorney, Joseph Scott. The agreement disclosed that Dempsey would pay the actress $10,000 cash and give a note secured by a mortgage on real estate for $20,000 more payable in installments of $5,000 every 60 days.

RIVERO IS PROMOTED TO FIRST SECRETARY

Venezuelan Legation Attache Honored by Government; Here Two Years.

An announcement of diplomatic importance received yesterday in Washington was that of the promotion of Senor Pedro Rivero, for two years civil attache and acting secretary of the Venezuelan legation, to the post of first secretary.

Senor Rivero, internationally known as a newspaper man, author and diplomat, has served in the Venezuelan ministry of foreign relations and later in his country's consular and diplomatic services. He is a graduate of the School of Political Sciences, of Caracas, Venezuela, where he studied diplomatic law.

He has served in several capitals on the European continent, besides representing Venezuela throughout North America. Senor Rivero has had considerable experience as a foreign newspaper correspondent and has recently written considerable poetry that brands him as an outstanding man of letters of the contemporary movement in Spanish literature.

He is the author of a dissertation on Simon Bolivar, the Liberator, and presented this important work as a lecture at the University of Pittsburgh and the Foreign Service School of Georgetown University.

Regarding his promotion, Senor Rivero said: "I feel most honored and very happy indeed about this personal event. I have always loved Washington and its charming hospitality. Further, I have faith in the destiny of the American people as a mighty factor in the material as well as the moral progress not only of the Americas, our continent, but of the whole world. And Venezuela is a traditional friend of the United States."

any civil disobedience movement if it should start again.

Gandhi was shocked at the tone of the telegram. Vallabhai Patel, president of the congress party, called it "insulting." Said another of Gandhi's advisers, "This means war."

Gandhi Expects Arrest.

During the period of evening prayer the mahatma indicated that he expected to be arrested within 48 hours for commanding his people to embark on a civil disobedience campaign and a boycott of British goods more intensive than ever.

Said Vallabhai Patel, "This time it's a fight to the finish."

It was just two years ago tonight that Gandhi declared for India's unequivocal independence and the government forbade a meeting of the congress party working committee to indorse his declaration.

Tonight while the European community was ringing out the old year and ringing in the new at the fashionable clubs and hotels, Gandhi sat under an old tattered tent, laboriously writing his answer to the viceroy by the light of a flickering lantern.

Squatting around him, mute and grim, were the members of his "cabinet." At frequent intervals the white-robed, hooded figure of Miss Madeline Slade slipped in to attend to Gandhi's wants.

In the midnight stillness there was not a sound except the scratch of Gandhi's pen.

Willing to Meet Mahatma.

It was said that Lord Willingdon informed Mahatma he was willing to talk to him about matters arising from the last round table conference but that he could not permit discussion of matters pertaining to the provincial ordinances.

These major developments came simultaneously with an act of violence in Calcutta which recalled the bitter days of the "Black and Tan" trouble in Ireland.

A Pencali youth named Neogy was shot to death on his own doorstep after some one called him out of bed. The slayers escaped.

Neogy was a crown witness in the recent trial of several Indians charged with robbery.

THE TAKEOUT DOUBLE.

EFFECTIVELY and correctly used the Takeout Double is one of the most important weapons in the arsenal of the Defending Hand at Contract Bridge. Hand No. 2 of Rubber No. 9 in our match with Messrs. Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, gave me the opportunity to use this weapon, not once, but twice and thus reach the best final declaration on the hand. I held a very powerful hand, containing a six-card suit headed by the ace-king., but my non-vulnerable opponent had opened the bidding with one notrump, after my partner had passed. A jump overcall would be ineffective under these conditions, as my vulnerable partner might elect to pass. I knew her hand was weak, probably containing less than 2½ honor-tricks, and it might well be much less. A simple overcall of one heart would far from picture the strength of the hand. Hence, as a jump overall might risk a pass on a hand of game strength and a simple overcall would almost certainly result in a pass unless Mrs. Culbertson held far greater strength than I had a right to anticipate, I had left to me only the takeout double as a means of reaching the best declaration. A study of the hand below is, I think, an effective lesson in the use of this weapon.

3♣	Pass	3♡(4)	Pass
4♣(5)	Pass	5♣(6)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—In keeping with the policy outlined above.

2—Mr. Lenz, by bidding, has made unnecessary a response to my partner. The pass is quite correct under the scoring situation.

3—I still insist upon my partner making a response. Hence, the second takeout double.

4—The fact that I have twice used a takeout double and now bid a suit, gives to my partner a picture of my unusual strength. This bid is a clear invitation for her to assist the heart bid with a weak hand, or to rebid clubs. She knows that I am not deliberately inviting a penalty to prevent a score by opponents, but that I believe our combined holdings are of game strength, if we reach the correct contract.

5—Mrs. Culbertson correctly rebids her clubs. Although game is possible at hearts, the distribution is such as to make reaching it difficult.

6—I decide to play for game in clubs, as I am sure we have more clubs than we have hearts and a much better distribution of the suits.

Mrs. Culbertson played this hand very skilfully in order to make her contract. The opening lead was the ace of spades, which, of course, made it impossible to prevent the loss of a trump trick. By careful play, she succeeded in making her contract and thus in winning the rubber.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: How many honor-tricks are considered necessary to make two notrump?

Answer: Five honor-tricks.

Jane Corbin Interprets the Mode

Velvet and lace combined to make a Sunday night frock of great loveliness and practicability.

New York, December 31.

IF YOU wouldn't be entirely passe—o-o-o-oh quite completely passe—in your nightie, if you wear such a thing, you'll make very sure that it's entirely hand-made before you fall prey to its beauty and buy it. No, I'm not exaggerating. The head of a large department store told me the other day that sales of handmade nightgowns were booming, but that machine-sown ones, no matter how attractively colored, or of what rich fabrics, just didn't click.

And nowadays, we are all lucky, for those of us who just can't make tiny, fine stitches in a tiny fine seam, no matter how bad we want handmade nighties, can buy them for not so awfully much, which is a direct result of unemployment, strangely enough! The reason these nonsewing ladies can get such lovely hand-made lingerie for such very reasonable prices is that women are making these fripperies and fancies at home, to earn a little spare money, 'N' you can imagine that when a store can get handwork for what it used to pay for machine-work it's going to turn as many of such things as it can to the women of the Nation. 'N' seriously, isn't it the most downright luxurious feeling to cuddle down in a nightie, the like of which used to come only from France, at a fabulous price.

I saw three exquisite examples of this fine art the other day—all given names like the most famous gowns! The first, Conchita, was of azure blue silk voile, Chantilly lace incrusting the fichu collar, which is cut in a deep V-front and back; Ambre Royale, the name of a lovely princess gown of amber satin and deep ochre lace, and Fleurs d'Amour, a confection of palest orchid chiffon with an incrusted collar and belt of dark lace, and a hem all pointed hemstitching. Oh me!

* * * *

Lace in cape effects is the truly elegant touch for velvet, and velvet is just about the ideal for the type of gown I illustrated for you today. And this type of gown has ever so many uses this season, as every woman knows by just loking at it!

Lace again hides its shy elegance beneath our frocks in undies—so I just illustrated a cup-shaped brassiere and some tiny ruffled panties in black valenciennes lace.

* * * *

Do you use foot warmers? Good heavens, not in these modern and enlightened days, I can hear you say! But that's just where you're wrong, because it is precisely in these modern and enlightened days that lovely ladies have discovered that they absolutely must have fresh air and plenty of it at night while they sleep, if they would be healthy and beautiful! And if you would be healthy and beautiful you can't let this same fresh air kill you, either, so what ever else are you going to do but take a lesson from our lovely Russian friends and wear foot warmers? But chic foot warmers, my dear! And these you are goin to learn how to make by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post, for the illustrated leaflet telling you how to make them. And how to make a lot of other indispensable aids to winter beauty and charm, too. Some charming bed jackets which you just know you're going to need when you have your winter colds, if not for your morning cup of tea, for instance.

Au Revoir.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

COLORFUL CROTONS.

OF ALL the plants that are grown for their foliage, there is none that excels the beauty and richness of coloring found in the crotons. There are no two alike. On the same plant you will find leaves that have touches of brown, green and yellow, and you will find other leaves of orange, dull green and, perhaps, long streaks of scarlet. The texture of the leaves is good, being almost as firm and much more glossy than those of the rubber plant.

The leaves of the crotons are borne in great profusion and their compact arrangement always prevents the straggling appearance which detracts from so many foliage plants. A small croton can lose six leaves and never show the loss.

The croton comes from the tropics and therefore must be given a great deal of heat, sun and water.

Frequently, when you first bring them from the garden into the house, the crotons will begin to shed a leaf or two. When they do this, it is a sure indication that they are not receiving sufficient heat or humidity. Many fail with the crotons in the house because they do not give them sufficient heat at night. The plants resent this, so if you would be successful with them, during the night put them quite near to a warm radiator.

A florist keeps his steam up day and night, while in the average house the steam is shut off almost entirely at night. This is the reason so many people fail with tropical and subtropical plants, such as rubbers, palms and crotons.

When you water a croton, as you must every day, give it enough to wet every particle of soil. Then, in addition sprinkle the top very thoroughly. This treatment will prevent the pores from becoming choked with dust and will keep the plant in a state of perpetual health. Sprinkling the foliage also adds to the general appearance of the plant.

While the initial cost of a croton may seem a bit high, when you consider that a plant enhances in beauty as it ages, and that the same specimen does duty both in the living room and in the garden, it is not an expensive plant.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

WILL WE ESCAPE MENINGITIS?

A STUDY by A. W. Hedrich of the prevalence of meningitis lends support to the hope that we may not have much of the disease next spring. March is the month of maximum prevalence of the disease, and the months immediately preceding and following the one of maximum prevalence contribute toward making early spring the time of meningitis peril. However, the disease never disappears entirely. Beginning with the onset of cold weather it lays the foundation for the conditions that prevail in the spring.

It is the carriers that constitute the basis of the menace. In the midsummer about two persons in each hundred carry meningitis microbes in their throats and noses. As winter progresses this proportion mounts. There is not much danger so long as fewer than one in ten carry the microbe. But when it passes beyond this limit of prevalence danger threatens. In certain circumstances the proportion of carriers has been as high as seven out of ten. This is what is called a carrier epidemic, as contrasted with a case epidemic. Case epidemics commonly follow carrier epidemics, and they have been referred to as foam on the carrier wave.

To prevent this evolution health officers advise people against crowding, especially from February to May. Crowding in indoor places is dangerous. There is not much possibility of outdoor crowding under the weather conditions that prevail in this period. The worst crowding of all is that in sleeping quarters—lodging houses, barracks and dormitories. The danger is at its maximum in cold, rainy weather that drives people indoors and causes them to put down the windows and turn on the heat.

For about four years there has been an unusual prevalence of meningitis. Hedrich's study indicates that we may have passed the peak. At the time his study was made epidemic conditions were very much better in the Pacific and Rocky Mountain regions, and they were somewhat better in other sections of the country.

Nowhere, except in the central and south Atlantic States, did it appear that the peak had not been passed at the time the study was concluded. Furthermore, history shows that waves come about eleven years apart, or perhaps the interval is even longer. The last considerable wave was that of 1917-18. If we repeat the history of the past we should be fairly free from the hazard of meningitis next spring. If the people will take heed of the advice to keep out of crowds, the margin of safety will be even greater.

FRACTURE OF NOSE.

A. J. writes: Can any one tell, without an X-ray, whether a child's nose is broken? My little boy, 1½ years old, was standing on the back seat of the car when we came to a sudden stop. He fell to the floor and skinned his nose. The top of his nose feels soft to the touch, and I am worried for fear it is broken. If it is, can anything be done so that it won't be deformed?

REPLY.

As a rule, a fracture of the nose can be detected with the fingers. X-ray is not often necessary for diagnosis. As a rule, the broken bones can be put in place and held there. Usually a person with a broken nose will not wear a dressing long, if at all.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:40 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:20 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Astrological influences January 1 will be of a buoying nature and spirits will rise above petty annoyances, minor disappointments, or approaching troubles. It will be a time when desire may eat through the better part of caution, and stimulated emotions will get out of bound.

The child born January 1 will have a shrewd, calculating and rather cold nature. It will be sensitive and easily offended. It will be a loyal but not affectionate friend. It will not be communicative and will suffer much in uncomplaining silence.

Born on January 1, you are a giver, but considerable more of a taker. Your intentions are of the best, but your execution is feeble. Your forgettery is more on duty than your memory, and you have become clever as an alibi giver.

You are extremely clever, but in the real sense of the word you are a non-producer. You will remain a "could be," a disappointment to yourself and to those who had the right to expect more from that brilliant brain of yours. You are supercritical, without being profound. You lack enthusiasm, ambition or purpose, without which your talents will remain dormant.

If you be a woman, you live in a world of superficial interests, and are a chaser after false gods. You care for few things that make life worth living. Some event or some person will eventually make you take a tumble to yourself, and you will come to earth with a thud. When you become less self-ful, your better nature will have a chance to come to the front.

If you be a man, you amuse, delight and fascinate, especially those of the opposite sex. You are full of power to be many things which you are not. Your selfishness is offset by your charm, and your indiscretions are hidden by good luck.

Successful people born January 1: Paul Revere—Revolutionary soldier. Constantine Hering—Physician. Lew Fields—Actor. Clarence R. Edwards—Major General U. S. Army. James R. Randall—Song writer.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Very Worried Young Man.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Your column is very interesting. Not only to me, a bachelor, but to my aunt, with whom I live. It has been the instigator of many discourses at the supper table and often causes the neglect of her digestion tablet?

We are plain people of moderate circumstances and are just two who are left of many relatives in this world. So we have a few things in common.

But I intended to write about a notion, perhaps fantastical or corrupt or whatever, which has been furtively suggesting itself for some time past. It is precisely this: How far can the girl of today go in her petting and if she oversteps the margin (which seems to be nothing unusual any more from the source of every day information) is it fair and honest to consider seriously some other man in marriage? And after that marriage when the facts are discovered what is the attitude to take? Between the ages of 16 and 22 I found girls worthy of all my deepest respect, everything in this regard seemed to be good, clean, fine and beautiful; but now I am 26 and it all has changed for me. Every woman, it seems, is the same. It depends, of course, upon the right circumstances, the right occasion, and the right individual. But none seem above temptation.

Miss McDonald, I beg your pardon if this is brazen, for I am very ignorant. My education is of no consequence. I have only muscle to work with and because of hard work have a nice, comfortable, little home, all free of obligations and ready for some one to step into. Except for the idea that prevents it.

Although I have read the biographies of 62 famous men and most of them have preached or philosophized about virtue perhaps I have failed to read between the lines. I have in my possession a rare book on Magdalene and she never did marry after her discovery.

As I have passed the mental paradise of my teens, will I also pass this state into one of complacency and understanding? If I stumble into this proposition when I marry, can there be any happiness with the condition of my mind? I half believe I would rather go on as I am at present, with just we two and after that continue alone. But I don't know about that either.

TITUS.

To begin with, you are vastly mistaken when you believe it is "nothing unusual" for a girl to hold her honor lightly. Girls today suffer quite as much as ever over such misfortune. And if your acquaintances come to the circle that have enjoyed home training, any such incident in the girl's life would be regarded by her as a distinct tragedy. That fact should shape your course in facing it with her. Had she suffered some physical injury in life you should not ask how to regard it. You should accept it in accepting her, and never refer to it. Why then differentiate when the injury life has brought happens to be both spiritual and physical? And when we say "spiritual" injury we do not even mean that she is by reason of her step, spiritually inferior. We mean merely that she is spiritually hurt. She may be the superior of all other girls that you have met—and still have suffered a tremendous hurt to the spirit. She is therefore more than ever the claimant upon your chivalry. Your course is to endeavor to reestablish her respect for your sex, and rehabilitate her confidence in herself as a woman.

If, however, you are thinking of any girl who has disregarded right and left the decencies that differentiate the human from the animal, then our answer is that such a girl is unsuited to the married state, and should not be even considered as a wife—for reasons too obvious to catalogue.

Have we answered your doubts? If not, come again, as we hate to think any young man should hold the opinion you do of girls in general. Nothing could be further from fact.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A really delightfully lovely dress in printed crepe silk in dark brown ground.

The vertical line created by the plaits at the front of the skirt and the deep "V" of the bodice, give charming height to the figure. The dip in the hip seaming reduces its breadth.

It's a dress you'll find so much use for general wear for now and all spring.

Style No. 538 may be had in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52-inch bust. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 39-inch contrasting and 1 yard of 6-inch lace.

It's extremely fascinating in black crepe silk with the vest of white silk crepe.

FOR A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

After a year of hardship and depression, Americans turn with hope and unconquerable will to the year 1932—a year that holds infinite possibilities of betterment.

It was fashionable during 1931 to be pessimistic. This fashion is going out. Courage, faith and optimism represent the true American spirit, and these qualities are becoming more potent every hour.

In contrast with the rest of the world, the United States stands out as fortunate, strong and resourceful. Its natural riches are unimpaired. The people are industrious and enterprising. Nature has been benevolent. All the elements that make for national and individual welfare are ready for action.

The paralysis that holds America in its grip can and will be shaken off if Congress will cooperate with the President in enacting the reconstruction program. After consulting men in all important branches of American life, after assembling all the information and all the facts relating to the situation, President Hoover has formulated a program which, if adopted, will mobilize the Nation's resources and energize all industries and activities. It will liberate credit, prevent foreclosures, protect agriculture and the railroads, expand the usefulness of building and loan associations, utilize securities now unavailable, and set up powerful agencies to sweep aside the psychological obstacles to progress.

This program is national, applying to all activities and all sections.

It is the only program that has been formulated, and there will be no other, since it is the only program that can be effective. It meets any test that can be applied to it.

The best New Year gift that Congress can make to the American people is immediate enactment of the measures which embody the President's program.

The most injurious blow that can be inflicted upon the people at this juncture is partisan obstruction resulting in delay, distortion, or defeat of the plan. Partisan opposition to this program is a denial that the President is acting for all the people. Yet no one can honestly hold that any President, charged with responsibility for the welfare of the United States, could or would traffic in the people's business for his political advantage. The national scope of President Hoover's program and its universal application to every citizen is proof enough that he is acting for all the people.

If Congress will now rise above partisanship and act with the same good faith and national purpose, the President's program of relief will be enacted without undue delay.

The conviction that Americans must work out their own salvation is universal. The people are determined to go forward, without regard to happenings in the rest of the world. They feel that when they renew the vigor and activity of the United States they are contributing best to the welfare of all nations. Unless the United States exercises its forces it will be idle to expect world betterment; but with this favored Nation leading in the restoration of prosperity, all peoples will take heart and labor for their own salvation.

As the world swings into a new year the opportunity of Americans coincides with their duty—the opportunity and the duty to unite in the restoration of prosperity. United, they can make 1932 a Happy New Year.

PURE AIR FOR HOMES.

For thousands of years man has been warming indoor air in his home during cold weather. Now science promises to cool his home during the summer. Apparatus for conditioning the air in small houses is being perfected. Homes can be equipped with the means of regulating the temperature in all seasons, as well as keeping the air moist and clean.

The new machine takes up about 9 square feet of space and is used in combination with the hot water or steam home heating plants. It has two silent fans operated by electricity, which draw the circulating air through a copper mesh filter and force it through a series of fine sprays of water. This operation removes from 98 to 99 per cent of the dust and germs. The air is then propelled through the eliminator, which removes the surplus water, leaving exactly the right amount of moisture for health. The air is then warmed or cooled in a temperature chamber, from which it is forced on by the fans to circulate evenly throughout the rooms.

With the aid of this air conditioner it is possible to have even purer air in a city home than in the country. Country air is laden with particles of earth, decayed organic matter and pollens, while city air contains specks of steel, rubber, stone and virtually every substance used in industrial activity. As air travels enormous distances, bits of volcanic ash and pollen from Alaska have been found in air over the United States. It is thus, too, that disease germs are transmitted from one part of the earth to another. Germs are carried on every particle of dust, though not all of the germs thus transmitted are harmful. It is estimated that the dust in the air over most of the large cities approximates 200 tons to the square mile. For this reason it is believed the average person inhales 1½ pounds of dust annually in industrial centers.

The new device, if generally accepted and found efficient, ought to do much toward eliminating respiratory diseases. The extremely dry air of modern homes and life in industrial centers tends to aggravate these ailments. As 90 per cent of the modern man's time is spent indoors, it is the indoor air that is most important. By having it properly conditioned he can sleep with but a light covering, with the windows closed, and enjoy better health than under the old method of using heavy covers in winter when the outdoor air is admitted.

THE CAPITAL GAINS TAX.

No more complex problem awaits Congress than the capital gains tax. On several occasions President Hoover has recommended that the existing statute be changed, but Congress has been loathe to tackle such an intricate fiscal matter. As a result, the capital gains and losses provision of the income tax remains in full effect, and it will probably cost Uncle Sam $400,000,000 in revenue this year.

Under the present law capital net gains are taxable at 12½ per cent. Taxpayers suffering net capital losses are entitled to a corresponding reduction in computing their taxable income. One effect of this law is to swell tax receipts in prosperous times when security prices are rising and to make drastic inroads into Federal revenue in depression periods. During the last two years the capital gains provision has been inactive. Taxpayers have been taking full advantage of the capital losses section, however, and it is estimated that two-fifths of the falling off of revenue may be traced to this source.

Some Democratic members of the House of Representatives have advocated outright repeal of this law. If Congress withdrew the privilege of deducting capital losses from tax returns on 1931 incomes it is estimated that the Government would save about $400,000,000. But such action would be extremely unfair to taxpayers who paid heavily under this law during the period of rising security values. Taxpayers depend upon deducting capital losses as the existing law prescribes. Retroactive legislation ought to be avoided wherever possible.

Yet if Congress repeals the law while the depression is at its nadir it will be closing the door after the horse is gone and thus preventing its return. When security values again begin to climb the capital gains tax should once more become a considerable source of revenue. It is improbable that Congress will allow taxpayers to take full advantage of the law during the period of liquidation and then deprive the Government of its benefits when the tide turns the other way.

Capital gains should be taxed. It is inconsistent to tax earned incomes and business profits and make no demands upon the so-called unearned increment resulting from appreciation of security values. This is another reason why Congress probably will not wipe out the capital gains tax.

On the other hand, the existing statute has an uneconomic aspect that ought to be studied carefully. In boom years investors hesitate to sell securities and take their profits, because they have to pay a stiff tax on their gains. This tendency was no doubt a considerable factor in the inflation of stock values just before the depression set in. Now, that security prices are far below normal, investors are selling so that they may deduct their capital losses from their taxable incomes. As it stands the capital gains and losses tax is an unstabilizing factor.

This issue is a vital part of the tax problem confronting Congress. It will not be disposed of easily. The tax experts of both houses ought to study it minutely before the final program of new taxes is formulated.

GOV. PINCHOT REBUKED.

A sonorous wailing from the executive mansion at Harrisburg marks the end of the special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature called by Gov. Pinchot to relieve unemployment. Gov. Pinchot is even more bitterly disappointed than he was when his efforts to secure a dole from Congress failed. His radical program has been rejected by his colleagues and his former friends. Alone among the ruins of a shattered program he still wails for a dole.

Gov. Pinchot asked the Legislature to provide $120,000,000 for unemployment relief. If his liberal estimate of idle men in that State is correct that sum would amount to about $120 each. But it is absurd to suppose that all of the unemployed are dependent upon charity or desperately in need of aid. Furthermore, vast sums have been raised by private enterprise and the municipalities have supplied funds from their own treasuries for emergency relief. It is not surprising that the Legislature flatly rejected the so-called progressive governor's plan.

Instead of appropriating $120,000,000, the Legislature provided about $19,000,000 for direct relief, hospital construction, &c. Interest rates on delinquent taxes were reduced and the sale of property for tax purposes was postponed. No doubt this program leaves much to be desired. The Legislature engaged in an acrimonious political feud with Gov. Pinchot. By trying to force a series of exorbitant measures down the throat of the Legislature the governor defeated his own purpose. Some of the relief measures that were adopted are involved in legal difficulties and may be ruled unconstitutional by the courts.

Pennsylvania's experience offers further evidence of the public revolt against political quackery in dealing with depression problems. The people have had enough of utopian ventures. They demand something more solid and substantial. Even the unemployed themselves realize that their troubles can not be cured by expanding the public pay rolls and increasing taxes.

In Wisconsin the Legislature has just rejected Gov. La Follette's $17,000,000 unemployment relief bill. No doubt the Legislature will furnish necessary relief, but even Wisconsin is not ready to taint its people with socialism.

These achievements are comparable with the defeat of the "Alfalfa Bill" Murray program in Oklahoma. Radicalism has suffered a severe jolt. Most State Legislatures are strong enough to resist the advice and the ranting of quack politicians when they come face to face with an emergency. The rebukes that have been administered to America's trio of demagogues in Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Oklahoma constitute a hopeful sign for the new year.

LINCOLN'S TIME AND NOW

By WILLIS J. ABBOTT in the Christian Science Monitor.

In the diary of John Hay, private secretary to President Lincoln, under date of November 11, 1864, appears this note concerning an incident of that day's Cabinet meeting:

> The President took a paper from but his desk and said: "Gentlemen, do you remember last summer I asked you all to sign your names to the back of a paper of which I did not show you the inside? This is it. Now, Mr. Hay, see if you can get this open without tearing it." He then read as follows:
> Executive Mansion.
> Washington, Aug. 24, 1864.
> "This morning, as for some days past, it seems exceedingly probable that this Administration will not be reelected. Then it will be my duty to so cooperate with the President-elect as to save the Union between the election and the inauguration, as he will have secured his election on such ground that he can not possibly save it afterward."
> A. LINCOLN.

I am quoting this letter now to call attention to the fact that the prophecies of the impossibility of Lincoln's reelection in 1864 were so general and so emphatic that even he despaired of success. The enthusiasts who had supported his first candidacy turned upon him because he had not accomplished the impossible. William Lloyd Garrison denounced him as "the slave hound from Illinois," and sought to rally the Abolitionists for his undoing. They called Lincoln scornfully "the great political shuffler." The practical politicians were equally hostile. "The people," declared a leading Republican journalist, "does not support Lincoln's shiftless, heartless, incapable administrations." But the people on election day surprised the journalists.

On August 9 of the electoral year Horace Greeley declared that if the election were held the next day New York and Pennsylvania would go Democratic by 100,000. (How familiar that sounds in this year of the drive on Hoover!) Thurlow Weed told the President that his reelection was impossible. (That eminent New York politician would be quite at home today with some Republican members of the Senate.) Attorney General Bates, from his coign of vantage in the Cabinet, wrote, "The President knows what is right as well as any man and will be glad to see it done, but unhappily lacks the nerve to do it." The date of that document was August, 1864, not December, 1931, but the substance of it can be heard in Washington any day.

There is a striking coincidence between the attitude of politicians toward Abraham Lincoln on the eve of his triumphant reelection and that shown toward Herbert Hoover. John T. Morse, one of the ablest biographers of Lincoln, writes: "The dislike toward the President flourished chiefly in two places, and with two distinct bodies of men. One of these places was Missouri. * * * The other was Washington, where the class of 'public men' was for the most part very ill disposed toward him." Julian, of Ohio, records that of the "more earnest and thoroughgoing Republicans in both houses of Congress not one in ten really favored" the nomination of Mr. Lincoln.

One could continue almost without limit quotations from the diarists, journalists and political writers of Lincoln's day showing the melancholy fallibility of such prophets. The people looked beyond the clamor of interested politicians and discerned the man sitting quiet and intellectually alone in the White House working out in his own way the great national problem of the day. His way happened to be more cautious, more deliberate, than many of the solutions which the enthusiasts urged. Unable to understand his methods they turned upon him, honest in their belief of his incompetence, and would have destroyed him politically save for the cool and saving common sense of the American electorate, which has never yet failed in a great issue of this character. The professional politicians no more than the idealistic radicals were able to comprehend the hold which Lincoln had upon the plain people.

It is not my purpose to draw a parallel between Lincoln and Hoover. They are as different in thought and methods as the great problems with which they have had to cope differed in character. But a parallel between the political conditions confronting the President today, and those which beset Lincoln in 1864, is valid.

THE NEW YEAR.

You come into a world today
O'erclouded with despair,
Where men trudge slowly up the way,
'Neath heavy loads of care,
And as through doubt and fear they grope
Bewildered in the dark,
God grant you bring to them new hope
And pluck's inspiring spark.

Here is great need for sunnier skies,
And springtime's wealth of bloom,
We've lived too long with sorrow's sighs
And faces gray with gloom,
We need one clear inspiring call
To build our dreams anew,
Reviving courage in us all.
God grant it comes with you!

Young year we need to glimpse once more
The better things to be,
The glorious goals to struggle for,
Which now we fail to see,
We need more laughter, more of mirth,
And more brave songs to sing,
God grant, that, as you come to earth
These joys for men you bring.

Yours is a golden chance to be
A long remembered year,
You find a world, as soon you'll see,
Beset with doubt and fear,
Mankind needs hope and faith today,
And courage to pursue
The dreams that lie not far away,
God grant they come with you.

Machines Can Produce Everything Except Customers for Their Products

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is a fable that all little boys and girls must know if they would be educated.

A certain land named Usa was ruled by a king and skinned by noblemen. The common people spent their time working for the king and the noblemen and were called yokels.

Usa was a sheep country. Sheep grazed on all the hills and their wool was the country's chief product.

The wool was clipped in a great shed adjoining a factory. Inside the factory there were carding machines, spinning wheels and looms, all operated by hand, and here the yokels worked.

Of course, the factory was owned by the king and the noblemen, who also owned the clothing store, the furniture emporium, the grocery and the drug store. And, of course, the yokels who worked in the factory spent their wages at the stores owned by their betters, for there was no other place to spend money.

Thus the king and the noblemen eventually got back all the money they paid out as wages, but they were not satisfied.

"We aren't making enough profit," said the king, "because our labor cost is too great. We need a machine to replace man-power."

So the king, who was a genius in his way, invented a great machine. It did everything. It clipped the fleece from the sheep, prepared and dyed the wool, and delivered finished garments ready to wear. It required no attention except that of a button pusher, who started it.

When the great machine started, the king fired all the yokels. He had reduced production costs to zero and was very happy.

Six months later a committee of yokels appeared before the king and said: "We are jobless and our money is gone. What can we do?"

"You can go to thunder," said the king. "I don't need you."

But soon the noblemen began to grumble. "We're producing a lot," they said, "but it doesn't sell. And the stores are doing no business."

The king began to think and soon had an idea.

"I have it," he cried: "We need consumers."

"Fine," agreed the noblemen, "but we are consuming all we can and the yokels are busted."

"They must be unbusted," said the king. "I had the wrong idea about them. I thought they were just a labor expense, but they were also cash customers."

"But how can they get any cash?" asked the noblemen.

"Why, you poor saps," said the king, "they must get it by sharing the profits of the machine that took their jobs."

Moratorium for Congress?

Burlington Free Press.

It is to be hoped that certain members of Congress have worked off most of their pent-up emotions at the short session which has just closed, so that when they come back after Christmas they may be able to put aside grudges and personalities and settle down to important business of the session. Otherwise there is likely to be a growing feeling that a moratorium on Congress should be made effective as an economy measure.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Few New Year Resolutions for the American People.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The following are a few New Year resolutions for the American people:

1. That we will return to the wise counsel of George Washington and no longer flounder in the maze of European entanglements.

2. That we will salvage what we can from our crusade into European wars and finance and return to our own country poorer but wiser.

3. That we will get out of Europe and leave her to solve her own problems, as we have problems in America requiring all of our brains and resources.

4. That America's problems can not be solved in European conferences, but must be faced and tackled right on the ground at home if they are to be solved at all.

5. That it is far more vital for America to devise means of scaling down her internal debt of over $100,000,000,000, which is crushing out her economic life, than worry about what Europe is to do with her debt.

6. That we do firmly resolve, individually and collectively, to devote all resources of which we may be possessed of mind, heart and spirit and capital to restoring the prosperity and well being of the United States.

W. F. WILMOTH.

Salary Cut of Federal Employes Would Be Discriminstory Tax Upon Them.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In my estimation the talk of public leaders in favor of slashing the wages of Government workers as a hard-times palliative is a sample of legislative claptrap at its worst.

It is as bad as the demand for a Government dole based on the dismal estimate of 7,000,000 unemployed and hopeless workingmen, from which we are, of course expected to visualize 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 men, women and children who must face the winter's cold, scantily clad, shelterless, shivering and unfed unless taken care of by charity.

Depressions come and depressions go, and even if the present one should be still further long-drawn-out, the proper American attitude would be that of faith, fortitude and local self-help. Federal legislators who fail to see this, have got out of touch with the history of their country.

Federal employes pay regular taxes and have been taxed 1 per cent additional for the Community Chest. If they are taxed 10 per cent to help wipe out the Treasury deficit, why are not other American citizens taxed as much? Is it proposed that a special class of Amerian citizens shall be taxed more than others?

Man in Hard Luck Tells How He Was Helped by Red Cross.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I came to Washington the latter part of November looking for work, and obtained three days' work just a few days before Christmas. I received a letter from my wife that one of my children was taken with scarlet fever. My clothes were dirty and worn out, so I went to the Red Cross and explained things to them, as I hated to return home looking like a tramp. They gave me clothes, and Mr. Grassmeyer, of the Red Cross, gave me two pairs of his own shoes. His wife also sent my wife and children a nice Christmas package.

I want to send my thanks and appreciation to the Red Cross. The Red Cross is certainly a wonderful organization and will help any one who is deserving of help. I also want to thank the two young ladies in the Red Cross who personally helped me. I do not know their names. My slogan is "Long live the American Red Cross," for it is a great organization for the people in time of war or in time of adversity.

Wife of Federal Employe Complains of Cut in Salary After Faithful Work.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with interest the articles in your paper concerning reduction of salaries. I wonder if some of the representatives realize the strain and worry some of us are having in trying to rear a family and save some for necessary doctor's bills. My husband has worked hard in the West for the Government, but our salary instead of being raised as we grew older was cut for no reason whatever. Why does the Government send out circulars begging young people to take up Government work with the hope of a steady advance in salary, when it means nothing at all? A man's conscientious work is not rewarded as it would be if working for a business firm.

A DISAPPOINTED WIFE.

THE NEW YEAR.

By KATHLEEN COONEY.

I wonder why they dream me young of heart,
With charm of person to begin my sway
Upon this all but unbeginning day,
For I am old, too old for gallant's part;
Too old for the disguising gifts of art
That else my tire of living might allay,
As I begin again my strenuous way.
Yes, I am old, so old again to start
Into the maelstrom of the world's unrest,
Yet through the ages I have walked confessed
Champion of the better times to fall,
Answer to the keen questionings that call;
So must I walk, each valiant spirit near,
While youth shall dream, nor shall age harbor fear.

DAUGHERTY ASSERTS HE STOPPED WATSON

Cleared Field for Coolidge Nomination, Says Book Soon to Be Out.

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Harry N. Daugherty, former Attorney General, says in his memoirs to be published next month that he cleared the field for Calvin Coolidge's nomination for the Presidency by demanding that Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, announce he was not a candidate. He declares Watson immediately complied with the demand.

Daugherty, who was afterward driven from public life by a storm which culminated in a request for his resignation by President Coolidge, declares he was hurt by the resignation demand and attributes it to political pressure.

The former Attorney General, now an old man living in retirement in Ohio, entitles his book "The Inside Story of the Harding Tragedy," and discusses virtually every scandal stirred up after the death of that President. He defends Harding's record. His collaborator was Thomas Dixon, novelist and scenario writer who wrote "The Birth of a Nation." It was Mr. Dixon who announced some of the contents of the book today.

Fall Is Accused.

Dixon said Daugherty accuses Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, of securing his Cabinet post through a forged telegram. This charge brought ridicule from Fall's relatives in El Paso, who branded it untrue and "not worth answering."

Dixon said the book would describe the Senator Watson incident as follows:

"As soon as the new president (Mr. Coolidge) was settled in office I offered my resignation as his Attorney General. He refused to consider it for a moment and so I made another blunder. I stayed.

"Mr. Coolidge and I become close friends and I blocked out the schedule for his nomination at the next Republican convention.

Watson Is Threat.

"Watson, of Indiana, was the only man who might give him real trouble. He was beginning to work his way into the campaign. I met Senator Butler, of Massachusetts, and Mr. Stern in conference at the Willard. They were worried over Watson's attitude. I seized the telephone and called Watson to come down to the hotel. We had been friends for years and I jumped on him without ceremony:

"'Your suspected candidacy against Mr. Coolidge is embarrassing us all and I want you to make a speech in the Senate and announce you are for the President to succeed himself.'

"Watson frowned and then laughed:

"'You go right after things, don't you?'

"'That's the only way,' I replied. 'Will you make the speech?'

Senator Agrees.

"'Yes,' he answered, squarely.

"When I got out of the elevator on leaving the conference I found him in the lobby making a speech to a crowd of newspapermen. He had announced at once he was not a candidate, but was heartily in favor of Mr. Coolidge.

"There was now no opposition and the field was clear. The President thanked me cordially for what I had done."

Regarding Fall, Daugherty says he believed President Harding felt "the unspoken antagonism" between Fall and Daugherty and hesitated to appoint Fall to the Cabinet.

"Fall met the crisis in his usual bull-headed fashion," he declares. "He sent Harding an urgent telegram asking his immediate appointment and signed my name to it without phoning me, wiring me or in any way hinting his purpose."

Bicentennial Group Makes Available Initial Lot of New Postage.

Under a special order by Postmaster General Brown, the first of a series of postage stamps, honoring the name of George Washington, will be placed on sale here today. The new stamps are made available by the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

Stamp collectors from all sections of the country are expected to be on hand when the new series goes on sale at the City Postoffice at 7:30 a. m. An extra force of clerks will be pressed int service to cope with an extraordinary rush of business.

The Washington City Postoffice will be the only office in the United States to retail the stamps today. It is estimated that 2,500,000,000 stamps are ready for distribution and will be placed on sale throughout the country tomorrow.

High interest is being shown in the new stamps by students of philately everywhere. It was declared by postal officials that if any one of the stamps got into circulation before the release date, the canceled stamp would be worth a small fortune. Collectors who wish to obtain "first day covers," or cancelation of the stamps on their first day of issue, will find this service in the lobby of the postoffice.

Each stamp will bear a different likeness of George Washington.

JAPANESE FORCE WITHIN 15 MILES OF CHINCHOW

utely carried out all instructions for dealing with the Japanese government in presenting America's position.

When the ambassador returned on a leave of absence just after the first outbreak between Japan and China in September, an impression became current at the State Department that he would not return to Tokyo. With the increasing seriousness of the Manchurian troubles, however, he did return and the question of his resignation did not come up until the evacuation of Chinese troops from Manchuria.

Chinese in Full Retreat.

Chinchow, Manchuria, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Japanese troops were only 15 miles away from this walled city tonight and the Chinese army was pouring out in disordered retreat.

Storekeepers had nailed their doors and windows shut, fearing looters, and ordinary civilians remained indoors as the soldiers hurried through the streets to the railroad yards. They coupled box cars into long trains, three locomotives to a train, crowded into them and rolled on down toward the Great Wall.

Once a squadron of Japanese airplanes flew over and the panic-stricken soldiers, expecting bombs, raced for dugouts built within the last few days. The entrances were narrow and sometimes there were desperate fights to get in. The planes looked the town over, circled and headed north.

Most of the railway employes have quit, and one telegrapher who stuck by his post asked anxiously if the Japanese were likely to kill the railroad crews when they took the town.

Gen. Yung Chien, whom Marshal Chang placed in command of the Chinchow force, was back in town today from Peiping, but he shut himself up with his staff officers and paid no attention to the speculation which his return had caused.

Chen Threatens Resistence.

Nanking, China, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Eugene Chen, China's new foreign minister, told the Associated Press today that the government is determined to defend Chinchow against any Japanese attack.

Manchuria never can be independent, he said, because the 30,000,000 Chinese who produce the wealth of that territory have made it so vital a part of China that it never can be separated.

"We will assume all the responsibility for the Manchurian affair," he said, "and after the cabinet is inaugurated tomorrow we will repeat our order to Chang Hsueth-Liang to stand his ground at Chinchow."

(United Press).

The Chinese government appealed to the United States yesterday to prevent aggravation of the situation in Manchuria, now dominated completely by the Japanese.

In the absence of Secretary of State Stimson, other State Department officials would not predict America's response. They said, however, that no new instructions for dealing with the Manchuria quarrel had been sent to Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes in Tokyo.

China's informal note, delivered to the State Department late yesterday, charged Japan with violation of treaties. It referred, presumably, to the nine-power pact, guaranteeing China's sovereignty and the Kellogg multilateral peace treaty.

Bandits Called Pretext.

China called attention to Japan's alleged renewal of aggression. Japanese troops recently moved into the Chinchow area, ostensibly to hunt down "bandits." Marshal Chang Hsuh-Liang's forces evacuated the city.

Nanking held that this aggression has aggravated the Manchurian situation, contrary to the League of Nations resolution of December 10, which called for a cessation of hostilities. As for Japan's claim that it had to eradicate bandits, China branded that a mere pretext for a military advance.

The communication also called attention to the dispatch of Japanese forces from Korea to Manchuria and warned that this increase of troops would lead to serious fighting.

Chinese sources here also understood that Nanking had lodged a protest with Japan as a result of the recent fighting in Manchuria.

1931 Farm Income Is Near 7 Billion

Total Is Lowest Since 1911 Because of Decrease in Prices.

(Associated Press.)

The Agriculture Department yesterday said preliminary estimates indicate a total gross farm income of $6,920,000,000 for 1931.

This is 26 per cent less than the gross returns of $9,300,000,000 for a year ago and 42 per cent below 1929. The estimate includes the value of farm products sold and those consumed in the farm home.

The total value of 1931 crops on the basis of December 1 prices has been estimated at $4,123,000,000, or $1,700,000,000 less than the 1930 crops. The department said the gross farm income for the United States in 1931 was probably equal to the pre-war 1909-1913 average and is the lowest since 1911.

Wrapper Tobacco Embargo Refused

Efforts of U. S. Growers to Bar the Netherlands Leaf Declined.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mellon has turned down the plea for an embargo on wrapper tobacco. Senator George, of Georgia, was informed of the decision yesterday in a letter from Assistant Secretary Lowman, of the Treasury.

"The Secretary has decided," wrote Mr. Lowman, "that he must adhere to the previous conclusion that sufficient wrapper tobacco is not produced in the United States to meet the consumptive demand and therefore he is not warranted in rendering a decision barring wrapper tobacco from the Netherland East Indies on and after January 1, 1932."

Tobacco growers of Southern Georgia, Northern Florida and Connecticut had joined in the plea to the Treasury for the embargo.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

SOCIAL TREND STUDY PROGRESS REPORTED

Hoover Commission Will Complete Extensive Survey in Fall.

Completion of one of the first extensive studies of social changes in the United States will be reached next fall, it was announced yesterday, at the conclusion of an all-day conference of the President's research committee on social trends at the Cosmos Club.

Social changes in recent years, especially in 1931, are being recorded by men and women making the inquiry, many of whom are eminent authorities in the field of science. The survey was started in December, 1929, when the committee was created through appointments by President Hoover.

From the progress made thus far, it is expected that a group of systematic facts hitherto undiscovered relating to social problems will be disclosed in the committee's report.

Subjects under scrutiny include: Improvement of national health and vitality; effect of city life upon the minds and occupations of the population; the many problems arising from changes in occupation; study of occupations likely to increase or diminish in importance; changes in family life, in housing and education; the effect of inventions upon the life of the people and many other factors that may indicate significant social trends.

Members of the committee are: Dr. Wesley C. Mitchell, chairman; Dr. William F. Ogburn, director of research; Dr. Howard W. Odum, professor of sociology at the University of North Carolina, assistant director of research; Dr. Charles E. Merriam, professor of political science, University of Chicago; Shelby M. Harrison, general director of the Russell Sage Foundation; Dr. Alice Hamilton, assistant professor of industrial medicine, Harvard Medical School, and Edward Eyre Hunt, executive secretary of the committee.

Thirty-four well known workers in various branches of social science are carrying on the investigations. The investigations are being financed with funds provided by the Rockefeller Institute.

ROVER'S DRIVE BARS RISQUE PERIODICALS

study. Glancing idly through a magazine, he was surprised at some of the published matter as distinguished from the advertisements, many of the latter of which either were openly improper or pretended to conceal their propriety under thinly veiled language.

Indignant, Mr. Rover queried the proprietor as to why he should "litter up his store with such rot," but was told that the druggist, acting in good faith, merely accepted for sale such magazines as were sent him by the dealer, without knowing their contents. On examination, he expressed irritation and said he would order the particular publications dropped from his list.

Aiming at the distributing source within his jurisdiction, Mr. Rover not only contemplates the arrest and prosecution of individual dealers, but is contemplating seeking indictments by the grand jury against the large wholesale distributors of risque publications.

The wording of the District law permits action not only against the retailer but against the wholesale distributor, and both will be held responsible for the character of the reading matter they offer to the public, the district attorney said.

Hereafter, each new issue of magazines will be scrutinized and they will be proscribed if they fall within the limits of the statutes. It will be necessary to act from month to month because some issues may not be obscene under the law.

A tour of the city yesterday by a Post reporter brought to light stocks of the vulgar magazines at many stores in the vicinity of the high schools and grade schools.

New Mount Vernon Road Link Planned

Highway Commission Asks Bids on Work in Fairfax County.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—The State highway commission today issued a call for bids for construction of a new and short highway route connecting Mount Vernon boulevard and the Richmond-Washington highway, indicating inauguration of the work early in the new year.

The new route, 3.089 miles in length, lies in Fairfax County, extending from Mount Vernon to a point about three-quarters of a mile north of the entrance to Fort Humphreys. Construction will be chiefly of gravel.

The department announced the project was pending during recent hearings on highway allocations for the next fiscal year, and expressed the belief that the new route would materially reduce congestion on the northern section of the Richmond-Washington route.

A Challenge for The Bicentennial Year

Challenges of the present day recall the challenges arising out of the uncertainties of the beginnings of our Federal Government. It will help to recall, in the beginning of this Bicentennial year, the words the Father of Our Country uttered as he retired from the presidency—

"Be united—be American—Citizens by birth or choice of a common country, that country has a right to concentrate your affections. The name of American, which belongs to you in your national capacity, must always exalt the just pride of patriotism more than any appellation derived from local discriminations. You have in a common cause fought and triumphed together. The independence and liberty you possess are the work of joint councils and joint efforts—of common dangers, sufferings and successes. Beware of attacks, open or covered, upon the Constitution. Beware of the baneful effects of extremes in party spirit. Keep the departments of government separate, promote education, cherish the public credit. Observe justice and good faith toward all nations; have neither passionate hatreds nor passionate attachments to any. In one word, be a nation, be American, and be true to yourselves."

Woodward & Lothrop considers it a privilege to present this New Year's Greeting from Dr. Marvin, chairman of the District Bicentennial Commission, and to join in urging the co-operation of every citizen in contributing generously of his time and effort—in making this the finest celebration ever accorded the memory of a great man.

A preview of the George Washington motion picture, sponsored by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, was given yesterday afternoon in the cabinet room of the Willard Hotel.

The film is composed of four 15-minute reels and depicts the life of George Washington from boyhood to death. The picture will be shown in every part of the United States during the nine months' celebration this year. Special guests at the preview yesterday were members of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association of the Union.

The picture was produced by the Eastman Teaching Films, Inc. Those who saw it yesterday remarked particularly on the adherence to historical facts, in costumes, story and setting.

FRIDAY JANUARY 1, 1932 SPORTS

TULANE AND TROJANS PRIMED FOR BATTLE TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

MR. E. K. HALL, chairman of the football rules committee and, as such, chief surgeon of the gridiron clinic in New York this week that has the game under its microscopic eye with a view to rooting out the evil influences, has submitted a very circumspect report, indeed, to the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Mr. Hall takes cognizance of the 50 deaths that have occurred as the one regrettable feature of the past season, but defends the rules of the game with the observation that for 26 years it has been the object of the committee to keep the game both interesting and safe for boys who play it. •In every case where interest and safety have seemed to clash, the decision of the rules body has been on the side of safety.

If the projected investigation of the committee seeking specific causes for the inordinate total of deaths and injuries learns that certain styles of play develop new sources of danger, Hall declare that his body will not hesitate to add or modify rules.

Mr. Hall notes a wholesome change in attitude toward football that is encouraging to friends of the game. Under the caption "Game Returning to Its Proper Place," Hall makes the following report:

"For many graduates, football became their one connecting link with their alma mater. They assumed that if the football team came through the season unbeaten the affairs of the old college were being administered successfully, and they had little or no concern as to what kind of graduates were being turned out as long as winning football teams were forthcoming.

"With the example of the old grads before them, the perspective of the undergraduates gradually got out of focus and the success of the varsity team became a matter of prime and consuming interest. In rarer instances the perspective of even the college administrators went wrong. They read with apparently envious eyes of the glowing publicity enjoyed (?) by other institutions whose teams were unbeaten.

"Entirely forgetting that football is only a sport for the boys, some of these authorities proceeded to make football a part of the business of the college or look the other way while others proceeded to do it for them."

One of the most gratifying results observed by the rules chairman was the way in which the fumble rule is beginning to accomplish its purpose in broadening the strategy of the attack by reason of the relative safety with which the ball may now be handled behind the line of scrimmage.

The rule prohibiting a defensive team to advance with recovered fumbles affords the team in possession of the ball wide opportunity for developing either direct or deceptive attack. Captains and coaches throughout the country are coming more and more to realize these possibilities and the last season has seen a marked increase in the use of the lateral pass and the double and triple pass behind the line.

At the time the fumble rule was adopted it was feared that it might lead to careless handling of the ball and consequently more fumbling, but Mr. Hall observes that the exact contrary has been tried and that never has the ball been handled more cleanly or more deftly.

Another pleasing result of recent rules changes has been the increased use of the good from field.

When the posts were moved back 10 yards behind the goal line, the field goal went into a gradual decline because of the added 10-yard hazard, but the past season has demonstrated that it is regaining its popularity as a scoring weapon. On one Saturday during November, the field goal was used by Yale to beat Harvard and by Southern California to beat Notre Dame.

The field goal was a decisive feature in several other important games, being brought into play frequently as a result of the highly-developed defense against the deep forward pass, which lessened the efficiency of the aerial game.

Megaw-Pacini Win Special Pin Match

Reds Megaw and Ollie Pacini maintained the winning pace they showed in the first block by taking the second and final five games from Eddie Espey and Paul Harrison last night at Arcadia Alleys to conclude a special match. The final score was 2,523 to 2,362.

Last night's block resulted 1,219 for Megaw and Pacini to 1,167 for their opponents. Espey, after rolling a first game of 97, came back to record high game of the match with an 154.

The final block:

They will oppose each other in the finals Saturday.

Miss Winthrop defeated Louise Harding, Brookline, unseeded, in straight sets, 6—4, 6—2. Miss Jones defeated Virginia Arnold, Boston, seeded second, also in straight sets, 6—2, 6—1.

Hunt Reaches Boys' Tennis Finals

Capital Star to Face Sheim for National Indoor Title.

Rallies to Eliminate Kaufman, Baltimore Hope, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 31.—Washington D. C.'s lone entrant in the national boys indoor tennis championship, Gilbert Hunt, of Eastern High School, stamped himself rightful owner of the high seeding honors in the tourney today by beating his way into the final round, on a thrilling three-set victory over Frank Kaufman, Baltimore's dark-horse entrant in the joust.

Hunt had to raise his game to peaks unlike he has shown to date to down Kaufman today, 3—6, 6—2, 6—4, and actually won only 12 points more than the boy he beat.

First Indoor Set Lost By Hunt.

Kaufman's 6—3 victory in the first set was the first time that Hunt has ever lost a set indoors, in a career dating back to the Evening Sun Boys tournament last winter. Kaufman was much the steadier throughout the opening set, while Hunt was having trouble controlling his service.

But with the start of the second chapter the Washingtonian's game developed immediately. Advancing to the net behind acutely angled ground shots, Hunt had matters his own way, and won the first four games. Service held sway in the third set until 3—2, when a severe counter attack gave Hunt a break through Kaufman's delivery. They traded serves thereafter, and Hunt coasted home.

Pitted against the D. C. boys champion today in the final round of the national event will be Howard Schein, of West Side High, Newark, N. J., who advanced to the title round today by downing Nate Friedman, New York, 6—3, 6—4.

Hecht, Donovan Junior Finalists.

Mark Hecht and E. Ramey Donovan, of the Universities of Pennsylvania and Fordham, respectively, emerged finalists today in the junior end of the tournament. Hecht beat Bernie Friedman, Philadelphia, 6—2, 6—1. And Donovan downed Jack Nogrady, C. C. N. Y., 6—2, 6—2. Hecht, defending champion, is favored to win today.

Little is known of the true caliber of Hunt's opponent, Schein, but the Washingtonian rules a popular favorite to win. In the doubles finals today, after his singles match, Hunt and Lyman Grossman, jr., of White Plains, will meet Kaufman and G. B. Dunn, Philadelphia.

Freeman-Kirilenko Signed for Mat Bout

The sensitive chassis of Herbie Freeman was added to the rassling show to be held next Thursday night at the Washington Auditorium yesterday when Matchmaker Joe Turner signed up the big Joosh gentleman to match muscles with Matros Kirilenko.

It will be one of the preliminaries to the opening show of 1932, which boasts of Jim Londos in the main event, Londos' opponent is Sandor Szabo, who has become a prime favorite among the good burghers for his clear cut style of wrestling and the manly presence.

Rudy Dusek, who is so tough he can beat Chief White Feather, will be another local favorite on the bill, which, if it does not draw a capacity house will prove something or other. Dusek probably will meet Jim Corrigan, a California collegian.

146 Golfers Entered In $15,000 Agua Play

Los Angeles, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—The list of entries for the $15,000 Agua Caliente, Mexico, open golf tournament stood today at 146. Fifty golfers qualified for the event here yesterday out of a list of 104. In San Diego, nine other players qualified yesterday. There were 87 golfers exempt from the qualifying test.

Dick Metz, of San Angelo, Tex., and Ray Mangrum, a former Texan now residing in Los Angeles, tied for low score in Los Angeles, each having 148 strokes for 36 holes. In the San Diego test, Ben Hogan, 19-year-old professional from the Glen Gordon Country Club, Fort Worth, Tex., led the field, also with a 148.

Sixth Pinehurst Title In Row for Dunlap

Pinehurst, N. C., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—George T. Dunlap, jr., of New York Princeton senior and intercollegiate golf champion, today added to his long string of titles the championship of the twenty-ninth annual midwinter tournament here. By defeating Richard Wilson, of Southern Pines, former G. U. golfer, 1 up in the 18-hole final round, the slender collegian won this event for the sixth consecutive year.

The failure of Wilson, a member of the Georgetown University golfing team until his graduation last spring, to sink a 4-foot putt on the home hole gave Dunlap a chance to end the match without going into extra holes.

Ohio State Courtmen Handed First Setback

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Ohio State University lost its first basket ball game of the season here tonight, bowing to Vanderbilt, 28 to 27. At the outset the battle was a listless, uninteresting affair, but developed into one of the hardest-fought games seen here this season in the last half.

Trailing, 28 to 19, with 3½ minutes remaining, the Buckeyes, led by Colburn, started putting the ball through the basket with regularity, but the rush fell short. Ohio State was in the lead, 12 to 7, at half time.

ALUMNI FIVE WINS OVER WESTERN

Varsity Is No Match for Grads, Bowing by 52-26 Score.

WESTERN HIGH'S aggregation of former basket ball stars, now firmly established in the college court world, returned to the old gymnasium yesterday and administered a sound 52-to-19 licking to the current Western team.

Throughout the major portion of the game it was no contest. The opening Alumni outfit was Jimmy Thompson and Don Garber, of Duke; Bob Freeman, Penn; Warren Rabbitt, Maryland, and Herb Thompson, Duke. They were removed at the end of the first quarter, leading the varsity, 24 to 5.

Varsity Makes Gain in Second Quarter.

Western's varsity, with Latona and Payne carrying the brunt of the work, moved up a mite during the second quarter against the combination of Roy Yowell, Ray Garber, Maurice Goubeau, Reds Summers and Herb Thompson. The score at half-time was 35 to 18.

But with the reentrance of the first Alumni combination, at the third quarter, the game once more developed into a rout, engineered largely by the shooting of the Thompson brothers and the able floor play of Warren Rabbitt.

Hyattsville Bows To Central Five

Burke and Swift Star as Marylanders Are Easy Victims, 33 to 9.

Central High's basket ball team, the victims of a bad flogging their last time out, against the G. W. freshmen, got back in the winning saddle yesterday by trouncing Hyattsville High, 33 to 9, at Hyattsville.

It looked almost as if Central was going to shut out the Hyattsville boys. Not until half of the third period had ticked away did Hyattsville score a point, that coming when Kidwell sank a long field goal.

Leading, 14 to 0, at the half, mostly on the work of Bill Burke and Gene Swift, Central maintained its pace through the remainder of the tussle. Big Bits Keyser took matters in his own paws during the second half, scoring all of his 12 points.

Hyattsville was lost in an attempt to stop the passing attack of Central, which features, short, hard tosses and acute breaking. Offensively, Hyattsville was all but nil. The man-for-man defense which Central features squelched passes galore and hampered the play of the losers at all times.

Penzoils Promise Skinkers Trouble

A basket ball team that participated in no fewer than 93 games during 1930-1931, and which won 82 of these, will perform here Sunday when Cleveland Penzoils, sensations of the midwest, step into action against Skinker Eagles at Boys Club.

In the game starting at Boys Club, 3 o'clock promptly, the Clevelanders are to uncover a galaxy of standouts. The high scoring ace of the lot is Sid Ross, former Chicago University sensation, who is counted among the finest shots in the Ohio District.

A preliminary to this top spot sends Tremonts into action against Delaware and Hudson at 2 o'clock.

ALUMNI TILT FEATURE AT CENTRAL

Court Game Tops Varied New Year Day Sports Program.

ONE of the feature basket ball games of the year, the Central-Alumni tussle, will be played this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Central as the opening note on a lengthy program of events commemorating the twenty-second annual reunion of the alumni association of the school.

Forrest Burgess, Everett Cross and Otts Dezendorf are expected to lead the Alumni five today against the smooth team which now carries the Blue and White. The varsity, composed of Bill Burke, Bits Keyser, Gene Swift, Sid Sidell, Buddy Nau and other luminaries, is a favorite.

Following the basket ball game, in the order named, will be a girls rifle match, against the alumnae, a girls swimming meet, and boys swimming meet, a boys rifle match, all featuring alumni-varsity competition, a meeting of alumni association, dancing and the George Washington Troubadours.

Happy New Year Predictions

By ALAN GOULD.
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Paste these predictions in the hat for a Happy New Year along the warfronts of sport:

1. Jack Dempsey to knock out Max Schmeling for the world championship.
2. Paavo Nurmi to win the Olympic marathon in world record time.
3. Ellsworth Vines to lead a victorious American campaign for the Davis Cup, notwithstanding Henri Cochet, the lone hope of France.
4. The Cardinals and Athletics to repeat in the Major League baseball races, with the Giants and Yankees in hot pursuit.
5. Babe Ruth to take a $10,000 salary cut and still bang more baseballs out of the lot than anybody else in either big league.
6. Army and Navy to close their athletic breach.
7. Cornell to regain the college rowing crown at Poughkeepsie.
8. Bobby Jones to consider a golfing come-back in the U. S. open.

Gate Receipts Due To Show Increase.

Nineteen thirty-two should bring about one of the greatest competitive years in the history of international athletics. Sharp economy will rule nearly every sporting roost. College football has yet to answer definitely the challenge thrust upon it by nearly 50 deaths. Gate receipts, however, likely will show some revival, especially in the professional sports of baseball and boxing.

Dempsey's come-back is the biggest individual prospect of the new year. He is the only performer in any sport capable of attracting a million-dollar "gate." His chances of whipping Schmeling on a pair of ancient legs depend on how quickly he can connect effectively with the German's tough jaw. Schmeling does not figure to have much difficulty beating Mickey Walker.

The Olympics at Los Angeles, as well as Lake Placid, will bring to this country the greatest assembly of amateur athletes in history.

Youthful Golfers Menace Ouimet.

Golfers will have another new, heavier ball, as well as their club dues to worry about. Youthful players such as Billy Howell, of Virginia; Gus Moreland, of Texas, and Charley Seaver, of California, are likely to make it difficult for Francis Ouimet to repeat his amateur victory of 1931.

The professionals, while seeking the scalp of Billie Burke in the national open, may hear again from their old Nemesis, the great Robert T. Jones, jr. Jones is too young and good to retire altogether from tournament play, although he has yet to make up his mind to reenter competition at any specific time.

TEMPLE PIN TEAM WINS MATCH

Beats Connecticut Stars; Doubles to Visitors.

THE victorious march of the visiting Connecticut Blue Ribbon team through the ranks of the District's leading bowlers was abruptly halted last night at Temple when "Red" Megaw's Temple All-Stars won a three-game match by a score of 1,845 to 1,763.

Temple's victory was a popular and well deserved one. The Northeast crew assumed the lead at the outset of the contest, increased its margin in the second game and made a garrison finish in the final tilt to stave off one of the New Englanders' famed rushes.

Pacini's 421 Set, 160 Game Top Scoring.

Ollie Pacini's 421 set, featured by a game of 160, topped both teams in scoring. Brad Mandley and Earl McPhilomy also did well for the locals.

The day was not entirely devoid of Blue Ribbon triumphs, however, as earlier in the afternoon Nick Tronsky and Bill Tato had staged one of the most dramatic comebacks ever witnessed to overcome a 40-pin handicap and win by 20 pins in a four-cornered match with Washington, Hyattsville

Death Causes On Gridiron Probed

Rules Body Finds Only 2 Fatalities on Major Teams.

Promises Changes, if Needed, at Coming Meeting of Body.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—The harassed football world, stumbling over itself in eagerness to find the causes and do something about the deaths and injuries that haunted the game last fall, hailed with relief today the constructive efforts of Edward K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee.

In his annual report to the national Collegiate Athletic Association today, Hall promised all possible aid in the matter of rule changes if any need is found for revision. His chief contribution toward a return to sanity in searching for the causes of casualties in football was the announcement of a Nation-wide examination of the problem under the joint auspices of the school of education of New York University and the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, in collaboration with the Coaches Association, College Directors Association and the rules committee.

Only Two Deaths in Major College Games.

Already, he said, preliminary results of a study that started nine months ago shows that only two deaths occurred in major colleges, six in minor colleges and the remainder in high schools or sandlot games, where supervision of authorities was at a minimum. He said the study was developing rapidly under the direction of Frank S. Lloyd, associate professor of education at New York University, and the results would be available by the time the rules committee meets in February or March for annual deliberation on changes in the code.

Specifically, he placed responsibility for the half hundred deaths and countless injuries on authorities in charge of organized elevens and the parents of high school or sandlot games, where there was little or no official supervision.

In every other respect, he said, the football season of 1931 had been most satisfactory.

"For 26 years," he said, "the main objective of your committee has been to make and keep the game both interesting and safe for the boys who play it. In every instance where interest and safety have seemed to clash, the decision has been on the side of safety."

Parents Are Responsible in Unorganized Play.

"The responsibility for the care of players and the decision as to whether a boy should participate in the game must rest," he asserted, "in the case of organized school and college teams, on those in authority. For unorganized play and sandlot or playground games, in the absence of other authority, responsibility would seem to rest on the parents of the boys."

A great majority of the season's injuries could have been prevented by reasonable supervision and proper care, he said, pointing out that the survey already showed several boys had died of blood poisoning following scratches suffered in football that were not treated, or from minor injuries not given prompt attention.

Football, he emphasized, is a game to be "preserved." "It should provide wholesome sport for boys of all ages, playing in their proper class and under suitable supervision," he said. "It must be kept free from all unnecessary and unreasonable hazards, but it must not be emasculated."

Battalino Will Risk Title With Feldman

Featherweight Champion to Meet New Yorker at Garden January 8.

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Christopher "Bat" Battalino, one of the busiest of champions, agreed today to defend his featherweight crown against Lew Feldman, of New York, in a fifteen-round bout in Madison Square Garden, January 8.

The rugged Hartford, Conn., youngster agreed to accept Feldman as an opponent and risk his title when the New York State Athletic Commission refused to permit him to box Ray Miller, New York lightweight, ten rounds in an over-the-weight affair, January 8.

A commission rule forbids a titleholder competing over the class weight, but an exception was made only a few weeks ago to permit Battalino to fight Al Singer, a lightweight, in the Garden for charity.

The match will be the first championship boxing match of the new year.

55,000 TO SEE STARS PLAY ON COAST

Hefty Eastern Eleven Meets West's Best at Frisco Today.

By RUSSELL NEWLAND.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31 (A.P.)—Stars who roamed over the Nation's gridirons in spectacular fashion this last season, will assemble here tomorrow in two mighty elevens for the seventh East-West game, a football classic played annually in the name of charity.

From a small beginning in 1925, the contest has grown into a spectacle that last year drew 52,000 fans into Kezar Stadium. Officials expect between 45,000 and 55,000 persons for the game tomorrow. Net profits will go to the Shriner's Crippled Children's Hospital fund.

East Boasts Strong Team.

One of the strongest squads in the history of the game will represent the East. Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern, coaches, will stake their chances for victory on the prowess of such performers as John Orsi of Colgate, rated as one of the outstanding ends of Eastern football during the last few years; such giants as Herman Hickman, 218-pound guard from Tennessee, and Dal Marvil, 230-pound tackle from Northwestern; Clark Hinkle, line splitting full back from Bucknell, and many other stars.

Overshadowed in the matter of individual luminaries and conceding many pounds of weight on the line, the Western players, nevertheless, will line up as a strong team, of superior speed and armed with impressive passing plays.

Coaches Dana Bible of Nebraska and Percy Locey of the Olympic Club, let it be known today that "the West is ready and may surprise." Two powerful tackles, Paul Schwegler of Washington and Glenn Edwards of Washington State, are listed in the Western line and a backfield passing combination includes Weldon Mason of Southern Methodist and "Bud" Toscani of St. Mary's.

Four Wins in Six Games For West.

Western teams have triumphed in four of the six contests to date. Last year a favored Eastern eleven lost by a 3-0 score when "Bus" Mills, Oklahoma quarterback, kicked a field goal from the 34-yard line. The most one-sided victories were those won by the East, by scores of 20-0, in 192, and 19-7, in 1930.

Probable strating line-ups:

East.	Position.	West.
Orsi, Colgate	L. E.	Neill, Stanford
Marvil, N. W.	L. T.	Schwegler, Wash.
Hoffman, N. Dame	L. G.	Justice, Nebraska
Miller, Purdue	Center	Bican, Olympic C.
Hickman, Tenn.	R. G.	Koster, Nebraska
McMurdo, Pitt.	R. T.	Edwards, Wash. S.

Coaching Body Urges Kick-Offs From Tee

Los Angeles, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Return of the tee to the kickoff was advocated today by members of the Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain Football Coaches' Association in annual meeting here. The coaches also expressed the belief too much unnecessary roughness was entering into the game.

A committee was appointed to draw up a resolution to be submitted to the national rules committee presenting the views of the coaches west of the Rockies.

Coach Glenn (Pop) Warner, of Stanford, made a motion which was passed, requesting that the 1932 national coaches' and rules committee meetings be held on the Pacific Coast. Los Angeles and Oakland are understood to be bidding for the convention.

Penn's Sports Plan Called Big Success

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Dr. Thomas Gates, president of the University of P[illegible]nia and a busy man, hurried up from Philadelphia long enough today to give the members of the National Collegiate Athletic Association something to think about on their way home.

As head of one of the first major institutions to go completely "amateur" in athletics, Dr. Gates declared the experiment had proved an unqualified success and asserted the time had come for "general disarmament" among colleges and universities.

"The spirit of the students and their interest not only in our teams, but in the less highly organized forms of sport, reached a high point this year that we have never previously known at Pennsylvania. We had this year a wider participation in sport among the whole student body than ever before," [illegible] Dr. Gates.

EUCLIDS WIN CLOSE ONE.

Coming from behind in the closing minutes of the game, the Euclid unlimited basket ball team defeated the Ford Humphreys five by a score of 24-20. Farhood and Ferguson led the winners while Perkins was best for the losers.

Wet Gridiron At Pasadena Indicated

85,000 Expected to See Giants Clash in Rose Bowl.

Muddy Field Seen as Favoring Tulane in Coast Classic.

By BRIAN BELL.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Tulane and Southern California awaited the call tonight to football arms in the annual Tournament of Roses game tomorrow with a weather eye turned skyward. There was a fear in both camps that a player not in uniform might take an active part in the game. If J. Pluvius inserts himself into the lineup, all advance calculations will have to the thrown out.

A definite threat of rain appeared tonight and if heavy precipitation develops on the Rose Bowl turf, anything may happen in the 17th playing of the classic game. Each coach wishes the issue decided on dry sod.

Trojans Are Noted as "Power Team."

Southern California is rightly called a "power team" but the Trojans' famed power plays require quick, accurately timed starting and some of the team's greatest victories have come as the result, direct or indirect, of intricate reverses.

Tulane probably will pin its faith to forward passes, figuring with the golfer who said there are no traps in the air and that a lighter team can cut down a heavier one to its size with enough accurately directed passes. Wet footballs are not easily thrown and are hard to hold.

The visitors possibly can find their way about a wet field with better success than the home team. Southern California played only one game this season in the rain and mud and then barely eked out a 6 to 0 victory over the University of California. Tulane has played more games in the rain than in fair weather, with uniform success.

Rain or shine, a great crowd will assemble in the Rose Bowl to say farewell to football until next autumn. The stadium will provide seats for 85,000 and some 75,000 tickets were sold in advance. A fair day should see an S. R. O. hanging on the gate and even if it rains more than 75,000 fans should assemble for the battle.

Many Tulane Supporters On Hand.

In the crowd will be many supporters of Tulane. The procession from New Orleans has been steady for days, friends of the Greenbacks coming by train, motor and plane.

Southern California will enter the game an odds-on favorite, 2 to 1 or 3 to 1, and with as much as two or three touchdowns spotted by the more enthusiastic alumni, regular and volunteer. However, the Trojans have been topheavy favorites in every game at home, played this season, including an opening clash with St. Mary's, which resulted in the only black mark on the Southern California record.

Supporters of the Trojans base their confident belief on a superior poundage boasted by Southern California, and while admitting Tulane's speed, they think power will count in the long run.

In the ten days Tulane has worked behind closed gates, the fans on the outside who came with the Greenies have told the stay-at-homes that Zimmerman, a running, kicking passing back; Capt. Dalrymple, All-America end, and Haynes, about as good an end as his captain, were cooking up some passing magic to run the Trojans ragged.

Tulane enters the game with a great burden of responsibility. The Greenbacks have played through their season without a defeat or tie and they have been reminded hundreds of times since they came to California that no Southern Conference team has lost a game in the Rose Bowl. Alabama has won two and tied one and Georgia Tech won one.

Trojans Unbeaten in Rose Bowl.

Southern California has an unblemished record in Rose Bowl competition with two victories, Penn State and Pittsburgh being the victims.

The game will be well worth winning, for by common consent the victor will be hailed as national champion.

The probable line-ups:

Tulane.	Position.	Southern Calif.
Haynes	L. E.	Spaulding
Cunningham or [illegible]		[illegible]
DeColigny	L. T.	R. Brown
Scafide	L. G.	Baker
Lodrigues	Center	S. Wilson (C.)
McCormick	R. G.	L. Stevens
Upton	R. T.	E. Smith
Dalrymple (C.)	R. E.	Arbelbide
Dawson	Q. B.	Shaver
Zimmerman	L. H.	Mallory
Glover	R. H.	Finckert
Felts	F. B.	Musick

Officials: Herbert Dana (Nebraska), referee; Walter Powell (Wisconsin), umpire; W. K. Dunn (Michigan State), linesman; C. E. McBride (Missouri Valley), field judge.

LEROS BREAKS TRACK MARK IN FEATURE AT TROPICAL PARK

Ellis' Stable Entry Runs One, Two

Ellice Second Three Lengths in Rear; Bay Angon Third.

Marabou, Winner of Third, Only Outsider to Register.

TROPICAL PARK RACE TRACK, Fla., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—This was another day of odds-on choices dominating the winners' circle at the Coral Gables course. The Barron Collier Handicap of 5½ furlongs found the J. C. Ellis colors finishing one-two, the gelding Leros scoring by three lengths over the mare Ellice, the latter beating Bay Angon by a half length for place honors. The Ellis entry paid $2.80, giving form players their fourth success of the afternoon.

Leros, which won his only start of the current season, hung up a new track record of 1:05 3-5 and never left the result in doubt.

Leros popped right out on top at the break, with his stable companion next in line. Willie Carroll let Leros step along under light restraint and opened up a lead of a length over Song Hit going to the first turn. Around the bend, the winner increased his advantage to three lengths as Song Hit began to weaken. Ellice came along in the stretch to assume the runner-up position, but she had to be driven hard to stall off Bay Angon when the latter made a powerful bid for second money.

Backfire Easy Winner In Opener.

The talent began activities successfully by putting over Backfire at $4.20 for $2 in the 6-furlong dash for maidens which opened the program. Backfire scored with four lengths to spare over Prince Sweep, with the latter beating On Leave by a length and a half for the place. The second horse paid $2.90 for place and $7.30 for show.

A long shot finally made the grade with the running of the second event, Marabou getting up in the last jump to win by a head over Hazel Gumberts, with Miss Chilla, favorite, third, a length and a half behind. The winner paid $27 for $2. Chianti showed the way into the final straightaway, but the veterans sprinter stopped all over after straightening out and was swallowed up in the general rush, Marabous nabbing Hazel Gumberts and Miss Chilla at the end. Miss Chilla had too much taken out of her racing with Chianti.

Big January Card At Gun Club Traps

January holds a cornucopia of events for the Washington Gun Club, whose members and friends of members will stage five events during the month on the club's attractive traps located on Benning road.

Tomorrow sees the start of competition with three trophies at stake in the three classes. Minor prizes will be distributed in the added-target handicap. The first 50 targets tomorrow will count on the Washington Souvenir Trophy.

The feature of the remaining four events this month is an intercity match with Baltimore.

The annual meeting of the club will be held January 8 at the offices of the present president, Parker Cook.

Topped Golf Shot Nets Roanoke Player Ace

Roanoke, Va., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Topping his spoon shot yesterday afternoon, John C. Moomaw, local attorney, got a hole in one at the Roanoke Country Club. The play was made at the 178-yard fifth hole. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BACKFIRE, $4.20, $2.50, $2.70; PRINCE SWEEP, $2.90, $7.30; ON LEAVE, $7.50.

BACKFIRE broke fast and shook off BOREALIS before they had gone a furlong, drew away going to half-mile pole and raced in hand to the finish. PRINCE SWEEP, slow to begin, responded with good courage when put to a drive. BOREALIS, quick to find his stride, showed early speed. He was bothered some rounding far turn and was eased up. BOKIE B. had a rough trip, sharply cut off when he attempted to go through at turn out of back stretch, and was again interfered with at top of home stretch, where he attempted to squeeze through next to the rail. KITTY GRAVES finished stoutly on the extreme outside of her field.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:00. Off at 3:02½. Winner, R. F. Coppage's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARABOU, $27.00, $7.60, $3.00; HAZEL GUMBERTS, $5.30, $2.50; MISS CHILLA, $2.10.

MARABOU, prominent in early running, came through between leaders entering the stretch and, assuming command when straightened out, held on with determination in the final drive to outlast HAZEL GUMBERTS. The latter gradually worked her way forwardly on the extreme outside rounding the turn and lost much ground. But for this she may have won. MISS CHILLA, nearest in pursuit of the leaders, and saving ground all the way, had no excuses. ORKIN closed a good gap from a slow beginning. BLACK STOCKINGS was forced back on the stretch turn attempting to steal through.

THIRD RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 3:29. Off at 3:31½. Winner, J. V. Stewart's br. g. TANTALIZING, breaking fast, outran his field from the start. Mills nursed him along in front and he hung on well when the final test came. BIRD OF PREY saved ground rounding the far turn and, entering home stretch, finished next the rail and was up in the final stride to pass TIMOUR. Latter, under pressure entire journey, hung when put to a drive. TACK finished on the outside of leaders. WANDERING GOLD was crowded out of it rounding the far turn, came again and finished full of courage.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,000; allowances. Monroe County Purse. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, easily. Went to post at 3:59½. Off at 4:01. Winner, J. Wessler's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAPTAIN ED, $2.70, $2.30, out; FRANK GROSSMAN, $4.00, out; NIGHT EDITION, out.

CAPTAIN ED, forced to go to the outside rounding turn into back stretch, gradually wore the pacemakers down and, taking command at top of home stretch, drew away at his leisure. FRANK GROSSMAN bore over to inside at first turn, causing a jam in which PRINCESS ITALIA was crowded out of it. FRANK GROSSMAN was under pressure all the way and tired after disposing of NIGHT EDITION. Latter, made lot of use of going to the front, collapsed in stretch run.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200. Barron Collier Handicap. For all ages. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:32. Off at 4:33. Winner, J. E. Ellis' br. g. ELLICE, in hand until furlong, responded with good effort when called upon and outgamed BAY ANGON. Latter saved ground entering home stretch, where he slipped through next to the rail. JALPUR and SONG HIT both stopped.

LORD CONCORD came through on inside at stretch turn, was under drive all last furlong and just lasted long enough to stall off YARGEE. Latter, taken to outside at top of stretch, closed with good courage. VERVE tired badly and was eased up.

—Tropical Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

TROPICAL PARK, Miami, Fla. Dec. 31—All of the four winter tracks put on New Year's handicaps. A feature of the racing tomorrow, at least at Tropical Park, Fla., will be the first running of baby 2-year-olds. Sixteen have been named to race in Miami tomorrow as they emerge from yearlings to the racing age of two years. The 2-year-olds of yesterday become 3, the 3-year-olds 4 and so on. They all get a birthday tomorrow. Sixteen have been named at Tropical Park, the largest field of the racing season there.

Tropical Park offers a good field in the New Year's Handicap, the feature, $2,000 added, for 3-year-olds and up, 1 1-16 miles. Peconic Stable's entry of CALF ROPER and KNIGHT COMMANDER should win. Either can win the race. RIP VAN WINKLE, not at his best in the fall, and unplaced at Jefferson Park, may improve and be the contender. ARRAS, lightly weighted, is next best and may be close. KNIGHT COMMANDER is top weight with 122 pounds. He has a good record on Western tracks. CALF ROPER was beaten by LEROS in his previous start at this track. He should improve.

FIRST RACE—The opening race for 2-year-olds is passed up. It being their first start, with even the breeding not given, there is no way to handicap these.

SECOND RACE—GAY PAL, although best at a route, is selected for the second race. CHATTAHOOCHIE is probably next best, but DEERFIELD'S race recently was a smart effort, running second to Crack Play. He should be the contender for place. GAY PAL was favorite against Galgary Kay, but suffered from a weird ride by Catrone.

THIRD RACE—TOMBEREAU is a standout. He was second to Baccicoco a few days back, and the favorite, but he can hardly miss in this race. GIBBY'S CHOICE, second to Muff last out should be the contender. CASTLE ROCK'S third to Wandering Gold Tuesday should make a show ticket very good in this number.

FOURTH RACE—TANTALIZING is due to repeat in the fourth race. BLUE CLOUD, third to Gold Mint Wednesday, should improve. BIRD OF PREY should be no worse than third and has a chance to be closer. TANTALIZING has the speed of the lot and races best in winter.

SIXTH RACE—JUDGE CAVERLY has his best chance to earn brackets that he has had this meeting. BOZO will be the chief contender. TOP HATTIE third to Bird of Prey last time out, will figure in the race.

SEVENTH RACE—DRESS SHIP drops below his class in the seventh race, and if he has maintained his Maryland form he should lead the field. COADY'S last race was a sterling effort, setting the pace for Griffin and finishing second, and he should be second. SAND FIDDLER, recent winner, should not be beaten for show money.

Nim the Nymph Wins Feature at Jeff Park

Jefferson Park Race Track, New Orleans, La., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—The Falls City Stable's Nim the Nymph captured the $700 Pass Christian Purse, feature of a mediocre card here today. Nim the Nymph took the lead at the start and was rated in front all the way to win by a length from E. Werner's Hippias, which took the place by two lengths from Mrs. G. E. Wilson's Miss Onine.

G. Elston, who had the mount on the winner, completed a double, for he piloted Lazy Mary to victory in the fourth race.

Fair Folly Accounts For Havana Feature

Havana, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—H. G. Bedwell's Fair Folly annexed the Conde Grande purse, high spot of Oriental Park's program today. Fair Folly had to withstand a long stretch drive to win by a narrow margin from S. Gorbet's Eveline F., with H. Neusteter's Spectacular third. The winner ran 1 1-8 miles in 1:53 3-5.

The field was unruly at the barrier, but when the break was effected the field left in good alignment. Eveline F. assumed early command with Lazy Viola and Spectacular trailing. At the far turn, Al Livingston responded when called upon and moved into second place. Gilbert, in the meantime, had improved his position with Fair Folly and swinging for home on the outside of the leaders. In a stride or two, Fair Folly shot to the front and won out in a driving finish.

FRAUD IN TAX BILLS MAY TIE UP CHICAGO

Court Ruling Voids Millions in Assesments; City Is Facing Bankruptcy.

Chicago, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Impecunious Chicago, balked by a "taxpayers' strike" for four years, stood face to face with possible bankruptcy today as the result of a decision voiding the county tax bills for 1928 and 1929.

The ruling by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, in which he held that assessment rolls for those years were fraudulent and invalid, meant that $140,000,000 owed in back taxes could not be collected until a reassessment be completed, or a successful appeal could be obtained.

It also meant that the 1930 bills, based on the 1928 assessment and now due, would be likely to bring very little into the empty coffers of the city, county and the schools.

State legislators, meeting in special session to solve the city's financial muddle, had already suggested that Chicago be placed in the hands of a receiver.

Mayor Anton Cermak had said, "If Judge Jarecki rules against us we might have to close the city hall."

Warns of Possible Crisis.

And today Judge Jarecki warned that if taxing bodies continued to make such "unjust levies," a crisis might be precipitated, "the results of which can not be foretold."

The ruling came at a time when new efforts were in the making to sell tax warrants so that teachers could be given a little of the several months' back salary due them. If the decision is upheld, Mayor Cermak said no tax warrants could be sold and bonds would depreciate.

The ruling came at a time when city and State leaders were attempting to agree on a plan so that the State Legislature, when it reconvenes next week, can reorganize the taxing machinery of the county. Many of the officials expressed the opinion that today's ruling made it imperative that the Legislature fund the three years' taxes, or at least those for 1930.

The suit in Judge Jarecki's court was the result of the activities of an association of real estate taxpayers which has contended that personal property had not paid its just share of taxes. And Judge Jarecki, in his 5,000-word decision, agreed emphatically.

Removed Property From Rolls.

"For many years past the board of assessors arbitrarily and deliberately removed hundreds of millions of dollars of taxable personal property from the assessment rolls of the county," he said. "Personalty aggregating approximately $15,000,000,000 was omitted from taxation by the boards by being unlawfully, intentionally and systematically omitted from the assessment rolls of 1928 and 1929 and many years prior thereto."

Judge Jarecki said the evidence of fraud swept into his court "like a blizzard that blocked every avenue of escape."

"Can it be maintained," he continued, "that an assessment so flagrant, so reeking with fraud, can be held to be a good roll? Can it be said that this roll which barely * * * contains one-half of the property of this county on the books is an assessment roll at all?"

The court urged that those taxpayers who felt themselves aggrieved by exorbitant taxes tender whatever they considered fair and file objections to the balance. He asserted a tax was due, whether a certain assessment roll were valid or invalid, and money must be produced so that "the government may continue for the protection and welfare of the community."

School Quiz Is Set In Fight for Fare

Education Board's Aid Is Asked in Move to Keep 3-Cent Rate.

The Public Utilities Commission decided yesterday to ask the cooperation of the Board of Education in the solicitation of statistical data on the use of 3-cent fare tickets by the children of the public school system.

Questionnaires asking each pupil what transportation line he uses, the direction and the distance which he rides daily, will be distributed among the children, and the results will be tabulated for use in contesting appeal of the two street car companies and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. from the school fare order.

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel who, with People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, is contesting the case of the commission, hopes to disprove the contentions of the transpotration companies that the cost of carrying the school children is as great as carrying adults.

Two Italian Alpinists Die in 1,100-Foot Fall

Milan, Italy, Dec. 31 (A.P.).— Severino Veronelli and Claudio Cattaneo, two young Alpinists of this city, met a strange death on Grigna Mountain when they slipped and fell 1,100 feet.

At this point their rope caught on a protruding rock and jerked them to death. The bodies were found hanging against the side of the mountain wall. It will be days before they can be recovered.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

OF course, tragedy is tragedy, but it must be confessed that a reading of Eugene O'Neil's fabulous trilogy, "Mourning Becomes Electra," consisting of three plays bearing the titles of "The Homecoming," "The Hunted" and "The Haunted," gives an immediate and inescapable impression of thoroughly abnormal family relationships, ignoble motives and an outlook upon life altogether so shadowed by the sable plumes of grief that one wonders if Mr. O'Neil has ever learned how to smile.

Withal, it is fascinating reading—much more interesting as a library volume than "Strange Interlude"—and obviously fine theater. It is easily believable that the author rewrote the work five times before the dialogue suited him. Never before, I think, has there been a piece of dramaturgic writing so packed with power as this. I mean, not a word has been wasted; not a phrase ill-judged or a clause misplaced. The lines are as efficient and effective as machine-gun fire.

It is something, indeed, to anticipate.

The reestablishment of a vaudeville policy in conjunction with first-run pictures at the RKO-Keith Theater is serving to demonstrate that sentiment is not absent from the conduct of big business.

Mindful of the warm enthusiasm the late President Woodrow Wilson always felt for the two-a-day, and of his consistent patronage of the house, Joseph Plunkett, general manager of all Radio-Keith-Orpheum theaters in the United States, has vigorously approved local manager Hardie Meakin's restoration of the original flags used during the Wilson administration to the decoration of the presidential box bearing the plaque commemorating the war President's attendance at Keith's.

Incidentally, RKO-Keith's on January 9 will revert to Saturday as opening day for the new bills, Friday having been adopted during the past fortnight only because of the holidays falling on that day of the week.

This will be true also of Warner Brothers' Metropolitan, which, with the passing of the holidays, also will resume Saturday openings.

If you would care to know the screen bookings for January at RKO-Keith's, they will be: January 9, Leo Carillo and Constance Cummings in "The Guilty Generation;" January 16, Ann Harding in "Prestige;" January 23, Dolores Del Rio in "The Girl of the Rio," a new dialogue version of the Willard, Mack-David Belasco hit, "The ove," which heretofore on the screen always has sailed under its own name.

And who should walk into the office yesterday afternoon, fresh off the train, but George E. Stone, the dandy character actor, comedian or what would you like?—he can do them all—who began a week of personal appearance at the Fox Theater at last night's special New Year's Eve midnight performance. And did we hold a fanning bee for an hour or so! You're asking me! However, that will all come out at a later date. At the moment I refuse to commit myself further than to say that he is a great little guy.

Although I didn't know it at the time, during the last few minutes of the chat with Mr. Stone the Lovey Sisters—Erma and Lucille—with their mother, Mrs. Iverson, were waiting out in the marble corridor leading to my palatial suite. These charming and talented youngsters, former residents of the Capital, also were down for the midnight performance at the Fox and left for New York immediately upon its conclusion. They are just back in the East from a tour of the South and Southwest that has continued uninterruptedly since last February.

Awfully sweet kids, as you probably already know.

Eighteen years ago this week, a moving picture organization known as the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Co., with a capital of $15,000, started work in an old barn situated in a citrus grove. The picture they were making was "The Squaw Man."

The company had been organized in New York by Lasky and Cecil B. De Mille, each of whom had contributed $5,000 of a needed $15,000 capital. An effort was made to interest the late Dustin Farnum as the third party, both in the capacity of stockholder and star of the picture. Mr Farnum chose a weekly salary in preference to a partnership, and Samuel Goldwyn then became the third shareholder.

Today the Vine and Selma streets intersection in Hollywood, where the citrus grove once stood, is practically the center of the movie capital—and Paramount-Public Corporation, the multiple-million-dollar successor of the old Lasky group, is celebrating the anniversary.

Conrad Nagel, who closed a week of personal appearances at the Palace last night, is a close friend of another of Washington's favorite motion picture stars on the West Coast—John Boles.

Their homes are near each other in the movie colony at Malibu Beach, their daughters are about the same age, and in other ways they have much in common. Bicycle riding, of all things, is among their joint hobbies. Both have specially built models of an imported racing machine, extremely light and easily knocked down, which Mr. Nagel assures me are quite the thing for early morning sprints up and down the hard sands at the ocean's edge. Further than that, they can be so easily taken apart that it is no trick at all to stow them away in the back of a roadster and take them along anywhere you happen to be going.

Mr. Nagel also has some very definite reasons for never leaving the theater, where he is making four appearances a day, from the time he arrives for the first performance until he departs for good after the last.

When time and space are a little more abundant I shall endeavor to make them as amusing in type as he made them in the telling. For your encouragement, it will all be direct quotation, you understand.

This has been a hectic week for Joe Penner, headlining the vaudeville bill at the Earle, so I am told by Miss Maxine Doyle, the mellifluous mistress of ceremonies, who honors us with infrequent visits to this sanctum—if that is what it is, and how I doubt it!

First, the backstage pranksters fixed his blackboard and easel so that the first time he touched them they would fall over; then some inspired jester got hold of some rubber "chalk" that wouldn't write, so that when Joe began to do his famous mathematical problems to prove to Freddie Clark that 7 will go into 28 thirteen times, nothing happened.

By this time, everybody but Joe was having so much fun that someone sent out and got a box of explosive matches which were embedded in his blackboard eraser in such a way that the first time he used it, it sounded like a bunch of firecrackers going off. By now, the orchestra had caught the spirit of the thing, so played all of the instrumental interpolations essential to the success of "The Three Trees" half a tone flat—which any one will tell you is a great help to any artist!

However, all is grist that comes to Joe's mill. He insists that the Earle house staff have fixed him up a better comedy act than he had when he opened last Saturday.

If they have, he has a pip—it was a five-star knockout before the kibitzers went to work on it!

Same to you and many of them. Anyhow, it can't be any worse!

HEATED ROWS MARK EVARTS' PLOT TRIAL

Prosecution Seeks to Bar Reporter for Alleged Derogatory Remarks.

Mount Sterling, Ky., Dec. 31 (A.P.). Heated clashes between counsel and witnesses and an attempt by the prosecution to bar a newspaper reporter from the courtroom enlivened today's murder conspiracy trial of William Hightower, president of the Evarts local, United Mine Workers of America.

Link by link, the Commonwealth forged its chain of evidence by which it hopes to bind Hightower to the clash near Evarts last May 5 in which two Harlan County deputy sheriffs, a mine commissary clerk and a miner were shot to death.

John T. Moutoux, writer for the Knoxville News-Sentinel, was cited by Circuit Court Judge Henry R. Prewitt to show cause Monday night why he should not be barred from the courtroom. The citation was sworn out by Commonwealth's Attorney W. C. Hamilton, on petition of Special Prosecutor J. B. Snyder, of Harlan.

Termed as Derogatory.

Moutoux, Attorney Snyder averred, made remarks in conversation with him that were derogatory to the court and to the conduct of the recent trial here of W. B. Jones, secretary of the Evarts local, who was convicted of similar charges and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Moutoux arrived only last night for the Hightower trial and Judge Prewitt at once questioned the writer concerning articles attributed to Moutoux in the Knoxville newspaper. These articles, the court said, were "scurrilous and unjust attacks."

After Moutoux denied their authorship the court allowed him to remain in court as representative of the United Press News Service, but forbade him to send special dispatches to the Knoxville News-Sentinel.

The prosecution's attempt to exclude Moutoux from the courtroom was made several hours later.

Has No Apology to Make.

In an editorial today, the News-Sentinel asserted its right "to freely report and comment upon judicial procedure" in Judge Prewitt's court. The editorial declared the newspaper had "no apology to make" for any "asserted attacks allegedly published by it."

In the long parade of witnesses in the morning and afternoon sessions today the Commonwealth offered evidence of large gatherings of armed miners in Evarts the morning of May 5. These witnesses testified the throng gathered outside Jones' house. Two neighbor women, Mrs. Alice Vaughn and Mrs. Bertha Pennington, on defense cross-examination admitted they did not know Hightower and when the defendant was pointed out in court they said they had never seen him about the place. Dillard Middleton, miner and former chief of police at Evarts, testified of attending a miners' meeting over which he said Hightower presided and of hearing the defendant exclaim, "Don't come without your rifle and shotgun and bring a good head."

GORE FAVORS $10,000,000 AS DISTRICT CONTRIBUTION

Davis, who sponsored the Mapes report on the Democratic side of the House, saw a slight possibility of cutting the realty rate "when things become normal." Both said it might not prove necessary to raise the rate.

Whatever action is taken on that score is up to District appropriations subcommittee, which will open hearings on February 1. Chairman Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, is known to oppose higher real estate taxes.

Calls For Information.

Senator Gore, who since his appointment to the Senate District Committee has taken an avid interest in local affairs, has called for all available information on the Mapes tax proposals in preparation for hearings opening the second week after Congress reconvenes.

He favors an income levy as a mode of taxation, but thinks it is "obvious" that the Mapes income bill is imperfect. He thinks it is too severe on small wage earners, and would like to see it more closely conform with the Federal tax.

He told The Post that the proposed 2-cent increase in the gasoline tax would aid and abet "bootlegging" of gasoline, which he believes has assumed the proportions of a "racket." In his own State, he said, a 5-cent tax on gasoline yielded less revenue than a 4-cent levy previously in effect.

Automobile Taxation.

Opposed to the proposed weight tax on automobiles, he suggested a tax that would combine value as well as weight, and assess automobile owners more in accordance with "ability to pay." He has no fault to find with the Mapes estate tax.

Representative Davis later declared that if an increased gasoline tax does not work in Oklahoma, it is because the law is not administered properly. He declared it yields such revenues in his own State, that a 7-cent tax recently was levied.

Representative Davis likewise declared himself out of all sympathy with an automobile tax on value. He said only one State imposes a tax on that basis, insisting the only "fair" thing to do is to tax automobiles according to the damage they do to the road.

Reciprocal Arrangement.

Chairman Mapes said he had little to add to what he has formerly said on the subject of local taxation. He commented that Virginia should have no fault to find with provisions in his bill to tax nonresidents of the District who draw salaries here, declaring Virginia has a similar nonresident State income tax provision. He said the District and Virginia will have to work out some reciprocal arrangement.

Senator Gore's prepared statement follows:

"I am a new member of the District committee, but I hope that we can improve the Mapes bill and induce the House to accept the improvements. I feel what I regard as a just pride in Washington as our National Capital.

Entitled to Great Capital.

"We are fond, perhaps, too fond, of saying that the United States is the greatest and richest country on the globe. We are entitled to a Capital City commensurate with our greatness and prestige. I do not think that Congress, merely because it has the power, ought to practice vivisection upon the people or the taxpayers of the District. Congress governs the District and ought to, and it ought to make of Washington the finest and fairest capital in the world.

"When I was in the Senate before I voted uniformly to maintain the 50-50 fiscal relationship, and I am not now inclined to repeal or abolish the 40-60 relationship."

Rumrunner Wounded In Duel With Marshal

Dania, Fla., Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Rumrunners fought a running gun battle with City Marshal S. L. Barfield here today and left one of their number seriously wounded on the ground as they fled out of town in five motor cars.

The wounded man was identified as Frank Athanasaw, known as "Frank the Greek," of Miami. Officers said he has a police record as a liquor runner. Marshal Barfield said he believed he wounded several others with his sawed-off riot gun. The rumrunners returned his fire with pistols and a machine gun but he escaped unscathed.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, JANUARY 1, 1932

STOCKS CLOSE YEAR WITH SLIGHT GAINS

Wall Street Rejoices as 1931 Checks Out; Turnover Is 1,535,000 Shares.

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Nineteen thirty-one passed unwept and unhonored into market history today. Wall street was heartily glad to be rid of it, and to turn the calendar for a new start.

There was no spirited, belated marking up share prices generally, although many preferred issues felt the benefit of strong sponsorship or investment buying.

Stocks advanced smoothly during the morning and early afternoon, getting a point or two higher despite a steady dribble of last minute income tax sales for cash. In the last half hour trading became very dull and the market tapered off under realizing, final prices being irregular and changes narrow. The net variation in the 90-stock composite was a gain of 2-10 of a point. Transfers aggregated 1,535,000 shares.

Average Level Drops.

The year ended with the Standard Statistics-Associated Press average at 64.5 against 121.8 on December 31, 1930, a depreciation of nearly 50 per cent for the 12 months. The 1931 high, made in February when the market indulged its false hopes of "better times," was 144.3. The low, 61.3, came two weeks ago.

Although Wall street preferred to look forward, considerable retrospection was inevitable. The memory was gloomy enough for the entire year, but the worst difficulties came roughly in the second half. Crowded into that interval were the European crisis, the gold suspensions, demoralization in bonds, the threatened collapse of railroad credit, and the recession in consumptive demand.

It was notable, however, that commodity prices began to steady in the second half, and their comparative stability, especially during the last couple of months, provides one encouraging anchorage as the new year begins. Others, of course, include the measures initiated by Washington for thawing frozen credit and the effort soon to be made toward a settlement of the reparations question.

Netherlands Loan Reduced.

Wall street was surprised today by the news that the Netherlands was redeeming a large loan, held mostly in this country and England. There had been no intimation that such an operation was contemplated and the fact that the bonds are to be retired with cash was particularly pleasing at a time wher the finances of many nations are under such close scrutiny.

Fractional net changes were the rule in pivotal stocks. United States Steel, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Union Carbide and International Telephone were up about half a point. American Can and General Motors lost one each; American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American, Santa Fe and Southern Pacific were off narrowly. United Fruit, Reynolds Tobacco B., Goodyear, S. H. Kress, United States Steel preferred and Peoples Gas closed strong. Western Union made a new low.

Commodities were quiet. December wheat reacted, but other months varied slightly. Corn was unchanged to half a cent higher and cotton lost 1 to 7 points.

Year-end adjustments affected foreign currencies. The Canadian dollar got a couple of cents higher, while sterling sagged. French francs and the reichsmark were firm.

Funds withdrawn for holiday purposes are quickly finding their way back to the banks. Money in circulation dropped $10,000,000 during the week ended December 30. The increase from a year ago still amounts to nearly $750,000,000, but it is well below the high reached at the peak of the autumn hoarding.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Higher prices for grain sparkled brightly at times in the future delivery trading pits today, but flickered out to some extent at the finish.

Rumors of a revolt in Russia gave zest to a sudden buying movement that temporarily hoisted wheat values about 1½ cents. The rumors, however, were unconfirmed, and late in the day German advices said Russian resellers were offering wheat at lower quotations.

Wheat closed irregular at ⅞@1¼ decline for December and ⅜@⅝ advance for other futures, corn unchanged to ½@⅝ higher, oats ¾ off to ¾@⅞ up, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 2 cents.

A sharp break in prices of December wheat contracts came in the last hour of the month, anad this development took the edge off the advancing tendency which all grains had shown earlier. On the reaction, nevertheless, there was substantial renewal of support from buyers, the break in December wheat indicating merely that year-end settlements had been completed without any unusual pinch. Throughout the day, on the other hand, the wheat market otherwise showed itself responsive to upturns of Wall street securities and to firmness of wheat prices at Liverpool.

Contributing to the bullish effect of revolt rumors from Russia was announcement that Russian shipments of wheat had fallen off, and amounted to only 272,000 bushels this week, against 1,296,000 last week and that Russian rye shipments were cut in half. Decided curtailment of Australian and Argentine wheat exports were also a subject of comment. North American wheat export business today, though, was light. Some trade with overseas, however, was passing in United States hard winter wheat, and current advices suggested improvement with the new year.

Corn and oats averaged higher, duplicating the action of wheat. Receipts of corn were scanty, and the weather was decidedly unfavorable for any big corn movement.

Provisions had a firm tone, helped by strength of hog values as well as on grain and stocks.

BONDS STAGE RALLY AS '31 COMES TO END

Trading Drops in Volume as Prices Firm Under Lead of Federals.

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—The bond market today turned the tables on 1931 and, in the closing session of the year, made bidders "reach" for securities.

Although the market was relatively thin, sales totalled $13,763,000 against $17,883,000 yesterday. There was no disposition to liquidate holdings at recessions. The average for 60 corporate loans registered a gain of 1 4-10 points, the highest since December 19.

United States Government obligations and rail liens led the upswing. Most of the treasuries held gains of nearly 2 points, the only decline in this list being on the sale of 3 first 4¼ registered liberties which recorded a new low.

Transportation Loans Rise.

The majority of the transportation mortgages advanced from fractions to 9 points, while gains of from 3 to 5 points were not uncommon.

Today's upturn could not be attributed to any one factor. It was necessary to sell for cash on the last trading day in order to register income tax losses and there were but few of these transactions. Some traders credited the upturn to a "better feeling all around," and the belief that the new year would bring numerous adjustments in low-priced issues.

The foreign list was featured by the demand for German loans. The Young Plan 5½s gained 7 points in heavy trading, while the Dawes Plan 7s marked up their price 7¾ points. The Argentines and Chiles led the South American securities upward, scoring substantial advances. On the other hand Japanese 6½s touched another new low and British 5½s sagged.

Industrials and Utilities.

The industrial and utility liens were just behind the rails in the recovery. Communications issues, including those of American Telephone, International Telephone, Postal Telegraph and Western Union were notably strong.

Among other climbers were American I. G. Chemical 5½s, Armour & Co. 4½s and 5½s, Chile Copper 5s, International Match 5s of 1947 and the Convertible 5s and Youngstown Steel & Tube 5s, series A and B.

Some meager profit taking near the close failed to halt the advance, especially among the railway liens. More substantial gains were recorded by issues of Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Canadian National, Central of Georgia, Burlington, Chesapeake Corporation, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson & Manhattan, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Pensylvania, St. Louis & San Francisco, Union Pacific, and Southern Pacific.

CAPITAL TRADE SEES RECOVERY PROMISE

Militant Spirit Proclaims Golden Gleam in Walls of Economic Ills.

ber steadily declined to 59,800 in June of 1927. But since that date there has been a steady increase until at the present time more than 71,252 are employed here transacting the Nation's business for annual wages totaling nearly $175,000,000.

Advances in Population.

The city's urban and metropolitan areas have exhibited substantial advances in population. The former, numbering 486,869 inhabitants, represents a 11.3 per cent increase and the latter, with 621,069 persons, a growth of 18.4 per cent above the 1920 figures.

Washington, standing fourteenth in population, ranks ninth in property valuation, its total of $1,766,162,000 being ahead of that of St. Louis, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Milwaukee and Buffalo. The District records show 243,853 workers gainfully employed here, compared with 236,027 ten years ago, an increase of 7,826 in working population.

The private pay roll of the District is far from being inconsequential. A summary presented to the Merchants and Manufacturers Association shows that the 5,917 retail stores of the city present an investment total of $228,000,000 and an annual pay roll of $43,649,510.

Local retailers spend at least $93,000,000 annually in the city, exclusive of pay for merchandise from local wholesalers or other products for resale. Of the yearly pay roll, $41,947,834 is paid to 30,677 full-time employes and $1,701,976 to 3,796 part-time helpers. There are 5,030 owner-proprietors who, included in the summary at only ordinary wages, would be paid $6,865,593. More than 2,600 workmen are employed here in Federal construction.

$681 Average Amount.

The continual prosperity of the Nation's Capital is reflected in the fact that the average Washington resident spends $681.85 at retail stores in a year, just $274.12 more than the average for the country as a whole. With slightly larger population and fewer stores than either New Orleans, Minneapolis or Cincinnati, Washington outclasses all of these cities in retail sales and much more than doubles the sales in the Louisiana metropolis which has 2,000 more stores than the Capital.

The 5,917 stores of Washington had sales totaling $331,873,544, an average for each store of $56,088, while 7,906 stores in New Orleans totaled sales of $158,295,164, an average of only $20,022 for each unit.

An ever increasing influx of tourists and visitors contributes notably to the amazing amounts enumerated for Washington stores in the previous paragraph. Figures show that in the period from Memorial Day and during the first week of June alone, 23,628 persons visited the Smithsonian Institution, the Arts and Industry Building and the Natural History Building, while in the same period last year these places were seen by 22,079 visitors.

2,000,000 Visitors by Rail.

The railroads alone brought more than 2,000,000 visitors to Washington in 1931, breaking all previous records, the statistics of the transportation committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce reveal. It is estimated each of these tourists spend a minimum of $30 each while here.

Large expenditures in Washington contract awards during the year by the American Automobile Association, Washington Railway & Electric Co., Potomac Electric Power Co., Capital Traction Co., Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., and the District Commissioners were reflected in a report compiled by the Buy-in-Washington Council.

Contracts awarded by the District Commissioners in this city during 1931 amounted to more than $1,333,878 and the total amount of contracts awarded locally during the past four years is $9,976,383. Out-of-town contracts for the four years total $2,788,999. Contracts awarded out of town in 1931 amount to $970,852.

Telephone Contracts.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. awarded $278,300 worth of contracts to local firms in 1931 and paid $8,000,000 in salaries and other incidentals. For the last four years, contracts awarded locally by the telephone company totaled $1,957,300, minus salary and other incidental expenses which averaged $8,000,000 each year. Contract awards by the telephone company in Washington in 1928 were $258,000; in 1929, $1,094,600, and in 1930, $26,400.

Local contracts awarded by the Capital Traction Co. for 1928, 1929, and 1930, aggregated $6,394,971. For 1928, the contracts totaled $2,132,094; for 1929, $2,127,446 and for 1930, $2,135,431. These estimates include wages and salaries.

The Potomac Electric Power Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. spent a total of $47,871,143.84 in Washington during the last four years, including salaries and construction. The expenditures year by year follows: 1928, $11,459,719.80; 1929, $13,247,398.38; 1930, $12,708,893.06; 1931, $12,455,132.60.

The American Automobile Association spends an average of $700,000 a year in Washington in salaries and other expenses. A recent study made by Federal Commissioner of Education William John Cooper shows this city outranks all States with its $681 per capita purchasing power.

Banks in Strong Position.

The banks of Washington form a powerful safeguard for local prosperity. They are a barrier against subversive financial practices that some times wreak havoc in industrial and commercial centers. They now enjoy the strongest position in their successful history.

The District of Columbia Bankers Association has done its share for the local weal. It was host to a regional bank management conference in February at which bankers of the Central Atlantic States laid plans for better bank management.

It is preparing suitable securities legislation for the District and will press the House resolution making it unlawful and punishable to circulate false rumors concerning financial institutions.

It has encouraged the habit of thrift among the people its member banks serve and as a result the three calls for statements of condition issued last year by the comptroller of the currency revealed a greater

The association is enjoying a successful administrative year. Largely through the efforts of its advertising committee, Christmas savings deposits in Washington banks reached an aggregate of $8,500,000, a new all-time record.

Large Sums Shown.

Total capital, deposits and resources of the 12 national banks, five trust companies, 22 savings banks and 24 building and loan associations of the District at the close of the fiscal year ended June 30 are shown officially to have been respectively $23,328,000, $325,069,000 and $418,172,000.

Those of the national banks were in the same order, $11,175,000, $137,620,000 and $188,790,000; those of the trust companies $9,400,000, $74,311,000 and $102,171,000 and those of the savings banks $2,753,000, $42,894,000 and $49,219,000. Deposits do not include amounts due banks.

Resources of the 24 building and loan associations operating locally under the supervision of the comptroller of the currency's office totaled $77,992,000 and exceeded by $6,363,000 those of the same number on June 30, 1930. Loans which aggregated $74,365,000, showed an increase in the year of $6,222,000. Installment payments on shares increased from $64,480,000 to $70,214,000.

Nineteen of the associations operate under the permanent plan and five under the serial. Total membership was 79,222 as compared to 74,272 in 1930. Of this total in the current year, the numbers borrowing and nonborrowing were 21,883 and 57,339 respectively. The total deposits of these associations, $70,244,000 represents share payments mainly, the report notes.

Takes Time, Study and Process.

In enumerating the accomplishments of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, during the year, Aubrey O. Dooley, assistant trust officer, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., and president of the chapter, recalls that it opened its latest administrative year's activities with a dinner of the educational committee, faculty and consuls at the Raleigh Hotel on September 8. Dr. Harold Stonier, of New York, National educational director of the institute, was the principal speaker.

Dr. Stonier said then, "Many politically-minded people are casting about to make some economic laws through the enactment of the legislature which will relieve conditions," and reminded the assembly that economic laws are not made but discovered and that it takes time, study and the process of trial and error to find them out.

He told of what the American Institute of Banking has done in developing leadership in the banking profession and paid tribute to Washington Chapter by saying, "It has always been a leader in this sense, enjoying the support of the banking institutions of this city to a marked degree and its rapid growth in numbers and influence has been the result of efforts put forth by the banks in behalf of banking education."

The educational program of the chapter was outlined at this meeting and there are now in progress, 10 classes in banking and allied subjects as follows: bank organization and operation, commercial law, negotiable instruments, economics, credit management, bank management, investments, public speaking, debating and English in business. Three of these, namely bank management, English in business and debating are new courses, being introduced in the curriculum for the first time last year.

On June 8, Washington Chapter was host to approximately 175 delegates enroute to the A. I. of B. national convention at Pittsburgh. The program included an inter-city sightseeing trip, a stop at the Washington Cathedral and Arlington Cemetery, where a wreath was placed on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Returning to the Shoreham Hotel, the party was entertained at a dinner and dance, leaving at 11 p. m. for the Union Station to entrain for Pittsburgh.

Thirty in Delegation.

There were 30 persons in the Washington delegation to the national convention. Three of the local members participated in the proceedings of the convention. Arthur J. Linn, comptroller of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., conducted the conference on audits and accounting. Mr. Dooley, the chapter president, presided at the publicity conference and Frank M. Perley, American Security & Trust Co., a past president of the chapter, spoke at the chapter administration conference.

Four of the local members who have been actively identified with Washington chapter were honored by being appointed to institute national committees. They are I. J. Roberts, assistant cashier, Riggs National Bank, named vice chairman of the departmental conference committee; James A. Soper, vice president and cashier, Lincoln National Bank, named for the forum committee; Frank M. Perley, American Security & Trust Co., placed on the chapter administration committee, and Rose L. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co., on the women's committee.

During the spring term this year classes will be conducted in commercial law, money and banking, credit management, analysis of financial statements and trust functions. The classes in public speaking and debating will continue throughout the year. There were three instructors added to the faculty last fall, making a total of thirteen instructors in all. Washington chapter is recognized as having one of the best teaching staffs to be found among the 223 chapters throughout the country. They have been selected with great care from the leaders in the banking, legal, accounting and educational professions.

Members of Faculty.

The faculty is composed of the following: Raymond B. Dickey, LL.B., LL.M., dean of the faculty, member of the District of Columbia bar; Eliot H. Thomson, LL.D., publicity manager, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; F. Joseph Donohue, A. B., LL.B., member of the District of Columbia bar, and former instructor in Catholic University; Bolitha J. Laws, LL.B., LL.M., member of the District of Columbia and New York bars, and former Assistant United States Attorney for the District of Columbia; James Daniel Cushman, C. P. A., and William Gordon Buchanan, C. P. A., Pre-School Dinner.

On September 15 the women's committee held their pre-school dinner at the Roosevelt Hotel. This affair was attended by nearly 100 women from Washington banks, and Mrs. Anne Tillery Renshaw, dean of the Renshaw School of Expression and instructor in the chapter's class problems of personal efficiency conducted by the chapter last year, delivered an address relating some of her observations and studies in the field of education while in Europe last summer.

On September 17 the fall open meeting was held at the Willard, at which certificates of graduation and credit cards were presented to students who completed courses in the spring of last year. In addition, $450 in cash prizes was presented students for excellence in class work. These prizes were donated by several of the leading bankers of the city, the Washington, D. C., Clearing House Association and the Bank Women's Club, of Washington. Dr. George Parnham, a member of the faculty, made an address in which he said the American Institute of Banking "takes its rightful place among the great universities of America by virtue of the high quality of its work, as well as the number of students enrolled. Knowledge must have a goal. This is peculiarly true of all the work which the institute does."

287 Class Enrollment.

There is a total of 287 class enrollments for the first semester of the present school year, which, in view of general conditions, is gratifying to chapter officials. Last year saw the greatest number of students successfully completing courses and consequently gave the chapter a class mortality record of 14.92 per cent, the lowest in its history. With an enlarged educational program and a higher standard for graduation, it is almost certan that the percentage of students who will complete their courses this year will be as great, or even greater.

The membership of the chapter has made steady progress, and, even though confronted with many obstacles which would naturally result in some loss, the chapter has been able to maintain membership on a basis that compares favorably with former years. There are approximately 625 members, with only three months of the membership year passed. There are several functions and activities scheduled during the first two months of 1932 which always increase the membership roster. Among the more important of these are the second semester classes, bringing in new students, and the annual banquet, always well attended by the banking fraternity of the city.

Some of the other activities and accomplishments of the present chapter administration include the annual golf tournament to determine the winner of the W. W. Spaid Trophy; publication of an issue of "Dollars and Sense," official organ of the chapter, under the new policy of the publication, which has by elimination of advertisements reduced its size but preserved the quality and standard of the magazine. The chapter made a thorough study of and effected approximately 30 changes in its by-laws and constitution, which were made necessary on account of the institution's growth and progress in the past six years. It held a party, including dancing, bridge and entertainment, at the Columbia Country Club, December 11.

ALEXANDRIA ENDS '31 WITH NORMAL TRADE

Several Changes Effected in City Council; Big Year Is Expected.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The year 1931 closed with conditions in Alexandria practically unchanged from the last, business conditions seem about normal, and while depression talk is general, affairs apparently are in as favorable a condition as may be found in any city of its size in the country. City authorities considered reducing salaries of city employes, but decided not to make any change at present.

In the city council several changes occurred during the year: Mayor Carroll Pierce resigned on March 28, reconsidered his resignation April 2, and on that date Councilman Thomas J. Fannon submitted his resignation. Mayor Pierce then again submitted his resignation on April 15, and on that date Michael T. Dwyer was selected by the three remaining council members, Edmund F. Ticer, Arthur Herbert and Clyde C. Lamond, to succeed Mr. Fannon, and Ticer was chosen mayor, with Herbert as vice mayor. Later Benedict Weil was chosen to succeed Mr. Pierce.

One of the most important events in the city was the completion of the new postoffice, the corner stone of which was laid on February 22, and the building opened for the handling of mail on December 15. The Customs House is still in process of construction.

Removal of Professor.

The city was stirred January 28 when it became known that the city school board had asked the removal of Col. Clarence Deems, professor of military science and tactics in the high school, without the school patrons or the boys affected having any knowledge of such action. A mass meeting of citizens protested, calling upon city council on January 29 for an accounting from the school board. The citizens were not given any satisfaction by the city fathers and asked a special meeting of the school board.

This request was granted and the meeting held on January 31, with interested citizens demanding the rescinding of the summary action of the school board. This was done and the school board then had a survey of the schools made by Dr. W. S. Y. Critchley, purporting to come from Columbia University for the survey. This survey was insufficient for the citizens generally, and council was petitioned to have an unbiased survey made by a committee appointed by the State superintendent of education. The report of this survey was made on September 17, and proved another disappointment, inasmuch as it dealt with the need of new schools, and failed to give any help as to how to better school conditions with the buildings and equipment now in use.

City council has held conferences with the city school board and agreed to build a new high school and is now considering the means of raising the funds for such an improvement.

Trolley Line Abandonment.

The city has been agitated over the proposed abandonment of the trolley line between Alexandria and Washington and only recently has an agreement been reached by R. L. May, the owner, and Government authorities as to a terminal in Washington. The railroad will be abandoned within the city limits of Washington, operating from Alexandria to Arlington Junction, and from that point buses will convey the passengers into Washington. The terminal of the bus line will be on D street at Tenth.

The recent announcement that the Ford company will locate in Alexandria has caused satisfaction among the business men. This company has purchased the property of the George Washington Stone Corporation in Franklin street, on the river front. The new plant is expected to be ready for operations in the early spring.

A branch of the Coca Cola Co. has also been located in this city, at the southwest corner of King and Peyton streets.

Alexandria has been chosen as the meeting place for the State conventions of a number of organizations and clubs the coming year, and with the mammoth celebration planned for February 22, the bicentennial year promises to be a record year for the city.

The Alexandria Kiwanis Club yesterday presented awards for attendance to the following members: A. L. Remschel, who has not missed a meeting for 10 years; Harmon Reed, 9 years; Edward S. Leadbeater, 5 years, and Walter Smith, 3 years; J. William May, Thomas Chauncey, J. Kent White, Everett A. Hellmuth and Roger C. Sullivan, 1 year. The Christmas committee reported it distributed gifts to 116 children.

SOCIOLOGICAL GROUP PICKS NEW LEADERS

Ohio State University Action in Barring "Radical" Hit at Closing Session.

The American Sociological Society closed a four-day convention in Washington yesterday with election of officers and adoption of a resolution disapproving the action of Ohio State University in refusing reappointment this year of Dr. H. A. Miller, associate professor of sociology because of alleged radical utterances.

The society also adopted a resolution praising the stand of Dr. J. C. Haggerty, another Ohio State University professor, for "his courageous stand in academic freedom" in opposing the ousting of his former colleague. Dr. Miller was dismissed because of an address made in India two summers ago on the activities of Mahatma Ghandi. Many believe that a contributary cause for the professor's discharge was his opposition to military training at the State university.

Dr. Miller read a paper on India before the society during its meeting here. He was given an ovation by his audience. Dr. L. L. Bernard, of Washington University, St. Louis, was elected president of the society and E. J. Galpin, of the Department of Agriculture, first vice president. Dr. Miller was among those elected to the executive committee.

Company May Lose License in Virginia

Hearing to Be Held Jan. 18; Swindle Is Charged by Fairfax Citizens.

The right of the National Motorists' Corporation to do business in Virginia has been challenged by residents of Fairfax County, Va., many citizens having filed complaints with the Virginia State Corporation Commission and the Virginia Insurance Bureau of the activities of the Corporation's agents.

Fairfax authorities have been informed that a hearing will be held on January 18 and 10 a. m., in Richmond to decide the question.

It is alleged that agents of this company have swindled thousands of dollars from Fairfax County citizens by soliciting automobile insurance which the buyers charge was fraudulent. Two of the agents were arrested last month in Fairfax on warrants sworn out by six of the alleged victims. They were sentenced to serve six months in jail each and the sentence was appealed to the January term of Fairfax County Circuit Court.

MURDERERS OF YEAR PREYED ON CHILDREN

Women Also Major Factors in Outstanding Crimes During 1931.

New York, Dec. 31 (A.P.).—Murder knows no geography. Horror has no habitat. Law prescribes antidotes, but crime continues chronic.

So it has been in 1931.

The most spectacular and perhaps the most significant murder was of a little child. It was done in broad daylight under a burning July sun on the sidewalks of New York.

For wholesale horror, there was the quintuple crime at Clarksburg, W. Va., and here again were child victims—three of them—and two women.

Savage Trunk Murders.

There was savagery in the "trunk" murders that trailed blood from Arizona to California and for which Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd is soon to be tried at Phoenix and the two victims were women.

Women and children—they marked the murder trail throughout the year, beginning with the garroting of Vivian Gordon last February and the flinging of her body into the bare shrubbery of Van Cortlandt Park.

Even in those crimes in which they were neither victims nor executors, women figured prominently. Behind the mysterious disappearance at sea of the wealthy Japanese importer, Hisashi Fujimura, moved the woman, Mary Dale, who was his companion on the "whoopie cruise" during which he disappeared. In the foreground of investigation into the death of Benjamin Collings aboard his yacht in Long Island Sound was his young widow.

Women Are Factors.

In neither case were the women involved. They became factors in the investigations, however, because of their proximity to the victims at the time of the crimes.

The Collings murder remains the most amazing mystery of the year. It is not likely, many authorities believe, that it ever will be solved. It was done in the dead of night aboard a small cabin boat. It was followed by the abduction and the assault of Mrs. Collings and her abandonment on another craft. Their child was asleep only a few feet away when the murder was dnoe. Mrs. Collings herself was locked in the cabin.

The shooting down of little Michael Vengali, 5 years old, on the streets of Little Italy in Harlem did more to arouse the City of New York to the menace of gang gunnery than any killing of recent years. Police vigilance was intensified and there were public gatherings of protest against "gang rule." It was followed by a sharp decline in street outlawry. There has been no sensational gang slaying in New York City since.

Coll Acquitted.

The Vengali slaying remains unsolved. Vincent Coll, brash young Bronx gangster, was acquitted of the killing this week, as was his codefendant, Frank Giordiano. The Vivian Gordon murder also is unsolved.

These were the only two

THE WASHINGTON POST

FREE
Room Registration Service

THE George Washington Bicentennial celebration will bring thousands and thousands of visitors to Washington throughout the coming year. The facilities of many hotels are already exhausted by advance registrations and it will be necessary for a great number of visitors to find accommodations in private homes.

To aid Washington's guests The Washington Post has established a bureau where those who have available rooms in private homes may register their accommodations together with prices and other particulars—without cost or obligation of any kind.

Simply write or phone to the Room Registration Bureau, The Washington Post, giving full details of facilities which you have to offer. This information will then be indexed and catalogued for the convenience of Washington visitors.

POST'S NEWS STORY OF HARKER BEATING HELD BEST OF YEAR

Exposure, Leading to Probe of Police and Charges, Cited as Outstanding.

CHIEF AND AID QUIT AS INDICTMENTS BEGIN

18 Indicted and Several Are Found Guilty as Gen. Glassford Heads Department.

The outstanding news story of the year 1931 of local importance, both in its beginning and its effect, is conceded to be the beating of James H Harker, as exclusively reported in The Washington Post of August 23.

Third degree methods of extorting from Harker a confession led directly to the indictment of eighteen policemen for brutality, to the conviction of four, and to the replacement of the chief and assistant chief of police.

Its echoes have not yet died away, as there is still before the District Commissioners a report of the Department of Justice naming 56 other policemen who are accused of mistreating prisoners.

On Saturday night, August 22, Harker was arrested on charges of housebreaking. After being held in a cell at the First Precinct station for several hours he was taken to the sergeant's room. Here, he said, six policemen beat him with fists and a rubber hose. A picture of the youth, showing the long red welts on his back, was taken by a Post photographer, and was later utilized by the Department of Justice.

Pratt Orders Investigation.

The next morning, Henry G. Pratt, then chief of police, ordered Inspector Louis Stoll to investigate the beating. Both these men, as well as Capt. W. E. Holmes, in charge of the First Precinct, were retired during the furore aroused by the Post story.

Each of the 23 policemen who had been in the station house that night denied that there had been any beating. Harker's clothing, however, was marked with blood, the authorities admitted. At this point two other inquiries were ordered, one by the grand jury and the other was a second police investigation. Stoll was carrying out one of the police probes, while Maj. Pratt was ordered by the District Commissioners to make the other.

Four days after the story of Harker's beating, the Federal Government entered the case, when President Hoover ordered the Department of Justice to take a hand in the investigation. This order followed a conference between the President, Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners, and W. W. Bride, corporation counsel. There were then four separate inquiries under way, but the two being conducted by police were ordered stopped, while the Department of Justice proceeded.

100 Back Evidence.

When the grand jury met on September 2, agents of the Department of Justice were ready to present evidence against 15 policemen, and their findings were backed up by the testimony of 100 witnesses. Two days later five policemen, Detective James Mostyn, and Private George E Perry, William R. Laflin, William T. Burroughs and William C. Grooms, were indicted.

While the Federal probe continued, with policemen from all parts of the city being questioned, the grand jury went on hearing evidence against the force as it was brought to them by agents of the Department of Justice. On September 23, when it was expected that indictments against 25 more policemen would be returned, all the work of the grand jury was invalidated by the discovery of a Government pensioner on the panel. No person who receives any money from the Government is eligible to serve, and all the indictments were thrown out.

With this ineligible juror and another replaced, the jury prepared to reindict the policemen. Many of them could not be indicted, however, as the statute of limitations had operated in the interval between the sessions of the first grand jury and its second considerations.

Jury Tampering Charged.

About this time the first arrest was made of persons alleged to have tampered with witnesses against the policemen. Throughout the case there had been rumors that persons in touch with the police had been approached, but on September 26, Maurice W. O'Connor and Cecil Mason were arrested. The warrants against them said they had approached George B. Baber, a witness against Robert E. Barrett. This was the first time Barrett's name had been mentioned in connection with the probe, and he was also the first headquarters detective to be involved.

On October 11 the second grand jury inquiry began. In the interval given by the assembling of the new jury the Justice agents had had an opportunity to gain new evidence, and there were 200 witnesses to be heard. Three day later 18 indictments were returned.

As these indictments were returned, it was announced that Pratt and Shelby, chief and assistant chief of police, would be retired because of ill health. On November 1 they left the force, though the medical examination on which their retirement was based was made over their strong opposition.

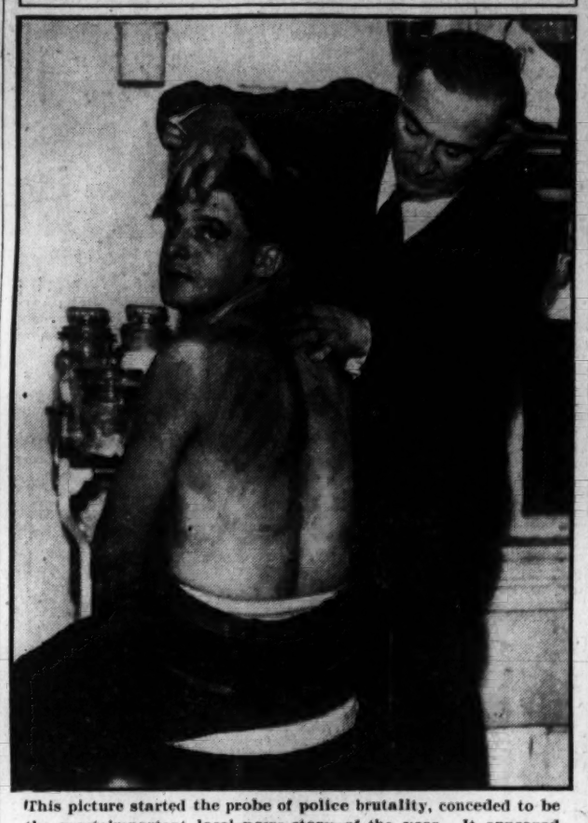
Stoll Is Retired.

Inspector Louis Stoll, whose early investigation was halted when the Federal men entered the case, was also retired about this time, on his own request. He, too, pleaded failing health.

Prior to Pratt's retirement a Washington newspaper editor visited Dr. Reichelderfer and offered to "play down" the police scandal if a new chief were provided. Shortly afterward, Maj. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford was called from his retirement as a United States Army officer and was installed as head of the Washington force.

On November 17 Harker's assailants went on trial, and on November 26 Laflin and Mostyn were convicted. Other convictions followed, including Barrett, the headquarters man.

STARS OF BEST STORY OF 1931



This picture started the probe of police brutality, conceded to be the most important local news story of the year. It appeared exclusively in The Post on August 23 and shows the injuries sustained by James H. Harker while held by police.

BODY NAMED TO QUIZ FATAL NAVAL BLAST

Explosion Is Held Accident; Carver Rites Tomorrow; Lane to Recover.

While a coroner's jury decided yesterday that the death of William E. Carver, caused by injuries received in an explosion Wednesday afternoon at the Naval Research Laboratory at Bellevue, was accidental, a board of investigation was being organized by Rear Admiral Henry V Butler, commandant of the Washington Navy Yard, to determine, if possible, the exact origin of the detonation.

The investigating board is composed of Commander Harry L. Merring, presiding officer; Lieut. Comdr. Frank Beatty and Lieut. Comdr. Thomas J. Keliher. Commander Merring said no report would be forthcoming for two or three days.

James T. Lane, colored, 27 years old, of 5337 Hayes street northeast, also injured in the explosion, is in Providence Hospital. He has a fractured wrist, a sprained knee and severe bruises. He is expected to recover. Mr. Carver had both his legs, one hand and the thumb of another hand blown away. His jaw and skull were fractured.

Funeral services for Mr. Carver will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, with services at the Church of the Nativity, Fourteenth and A streets southeast. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mr. Carver had been employed at the research laboratory since 1917, and had the rating of leading ordnance man. He was 39 years old, and a native of Washington. He is survived by his widow, a stepson and two sisters, all of this city.

Manhole Explosion Burns 2 Workers

Grounded Electric Cable Causes Flare-Up in Downtown Area.

Two men were burned about the face and hands yesterday morning when an explosion, caused by a grounded electric cable, occurred in a manhole at Fourteenth street and Constitution avenue northwest.

James William Stansburg, 62 years old, of 3618 O street northwest, and Ralph E. Stark, 26 years old, of 1000 New Hampshire avenue northwest, were removed to Emergency Hospital in the Fire Department ambulance and allowed to go home after treatment.

The men were working in the bottom of a large conduit that contains high voltage cables of the Potomac Electric Power Co., and a helper on the outside said there was a sudden burst of flame and the two men came scrambling out of the hole with their clothes afire. An investigation was started by officials of the power company to determine the cause of the explosion.

Delinquent Property Bids Are Due Jan. 12

All realty property advertised for delinquent taxes will be sold in the order in which it appears in newspaper advertisements, the District Commissioners announced yesterday, and no bids will be received prior to 10 a. m. on January 12. All property will be sold to the highest bidder, but for no less than the taxes due.

The tax collector will buy all property on which the bids do not reach the amount of delinquent taxes. A purchaser must deposit whatever is required when he buys a piece of property and must pay the full amount within five days.

RHEEM BANKRUPT, IS COURT'S RULING

Assets to Be Made Available to Firm's Creditors; Shinn Receiver.

Whatever assets Edmund D. Rheem, former head of the bankrupt Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., possesses will be made available to creditors of the Swartzell firm, according to a ruling handed down in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Justice F. Dickinson Letts.

Justice Letts made the ruling that Rheem, in preferring certain creditors over others, had committed an act of bankruptcy. He named George C. Shinn, attorney, as receiver to take over Rheem's property. Bond was fixed at $50,000.

A lengthy trial last month, in which testimony was offered that Rheem had favored certain banks among his creditors, brought the question of Rheem's solvency before the court. Attorneys E. Hilton Jackson and W. E. Richardson, representing three creditors, Carrie O. Allnutt, Cora E. Higgins and Delia E. Hoopes, contended that Rheem's personal assets should be taken over by the creditors of the bankrupt firm.

Justice Letts directed Fred J. Eden, referee in bankruptcy, to take proper steps to make the ruling effective. It is not expected that any great amount of money will be obtained through declaring Rheem bankrupt because most of his property is held in the names of others.

Woman, 62, Injured In Fall on Sidewalk

While walking in the 1300 block of Good Hope road southeast yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Katherine Corewin, 62 years old, of 1922 Fourteenth street southeast, slipped and fell to the pavement.

She was removed to the Casualty Hospital in Fourth Precinct police reserve car where she was treated for a possible fracture of the nose and contusions to the knees.

Illegal Possession Charged to Motorist

Louis Wesley, colored, 33 years old, of 918 Fourth street southeast, was arrested yesterday by police of the Third Inspection District and charged with illegal possession of 78 half-gallons of alleged liquor.

He was arrested while driving his automobile near Half and H streets southwest by Sergt. R. C. Spieth, and later released under a bond of $500.

Two Hurt in Crash Of Auto and Trolley

Richmond and Arlington Women Are Seriously Injured.

Miss Ruby Barber, 22, of Richmond, Va., and a companion, Miss Pauline McConky, 25, of Arlington, Va., were seriously injured early yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding, collided with a Washington, Railway and Electric street car.

The automobile, driven by Miss Barber, collided with a street car operated by E. R. Lynch at Fifth and H streets northwest. It was demolished, and the two women were taken to Emergency Hospital by a passing motorist.

Miss Barber was treated for severe lacerations to the chin and head and had several teeth knocked out. Her companion suffered a fractured left leg and lacerations to the head and body.

Phone Call Brings Girl Warning of Kidnap Plot

"If you want your little boy, watch him, he is going to be taken from you," were the startling words Miss Claire Borjes, 18 years old, of 2850 Twenty-eighth street northwest, daughter of the Palace Theater orchestra leader, heard over the telephone when she answered it yesterday afternoon at her home.

The boy is the 8-year-old son of the house, John Cardwell Borjes, and attends the Oyster School at Twenty-ninth and Calvert streets. Miss Borjes attempted to have the call traced, which was not successful, and she then notified police of the Fourteenth Precinct. Miss Borjes said the voice evidently belonged to an elderly man.

CARS WITH '31 TAGS NOT TO BE STOPPED WHILE OBEYING LAW

Receipt of Application for Title Certificate Will Suffice Till February 1.

Pickpocket Robs Man In Traffic Bureau Line

A pickpocket who respected neither the cloth of the clergy nor the blue of the dozens of policemen in the headquarters building at 462 Indiana avenue northwest was present yesterday in the throng that besieged the traffic bureau offices to make last-minute automobile title applications.

The Rev. W. J. Overton, itinerant colored minister, of 2209 Ninth street northwest, had his pocket "dipped" for $4 while he waited in line to get his title. He did not discover the theft until he had arrived at the counter to make his application and was thus forced to go away without fulfilling his mission.

The minister, who said he was an evangelist, remembered being jostled numerous times but could describe no particular person whom he suspected of picking his pockets.

Operators of vehicles bearing 1931 tags will not be stopped to ascertain if the machine is titled or a receipt of application therefor is in the possession of the driver. However, policemen in the course of questioning traffic violators will establish whether a title certificate or receipt of application has been obtained.

This was made clear by police officials last night when queried by The Post as to the position to be taken in regard to those who have not obtained either title certificates or receipts of application.

"It would be far from feasible," one official said, "to stop every motorist driving a car with 1931 plates. Those traffic offenders who are halted for other reasons and discovered to have not obtained titles or made application therefor will undoubtedly be charged under the traffic act which provides that title shall be obtained by January 1, 1932."

Glassford's Ruling.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, chief of police, ruled several days ago that while the act specifies that title shall have been obtained by January 1, 1932, that a receipt from the Traffic Bureau indicating that the bearer had made application for title would be regarded as compliance with the law.

Thronging the halls of police headquarters where the traffic bureau is situated, more than 3,000 District vehicle owners yesterday obtained receipts indicating they had made application for title for their machines, thus complying with stipulation of authorities that this process would constitute compliance with the traffic act.

Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer said yesterday that the force working on the mailing out of titles had reached the applications mailed up to within two weeks ago.

Expects Normalcy Soon.

He expects that the traffic bureau clerical personnel will bring the title situation up to date some time next week.

With yesterday's business, title applications received approximated 116,000, about 106,000 of which have been issued title certificates. About 72,000 license tag sets have been issued, it was indicated yesterday.

Although District officials have decided to recognize 1931 tags until February 1, 1932, a spirited business was reported yetserday.

COMMERCE OFFICES START BIG MOVING TO NEW STRUCTURE

Major Part of Department Begins Trek at 8 A. M. Today.

EMPLOYES GET EXTRA HOLIDAY DURING TASK

Job of Transferring Valuable Pension Bureau Models on at Midnight.

Actual moving of the major part of the Department of Commerce from its old building at Nineteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue to the new structure at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue will begin at 8 o'clock this morning.

The work of transferring the equipment is so extensive that the personnel of the bureaus in the old building will not report for work today and will not report tomorrow, giving the transfer company three uninterrupted days to transport the greater part of the equipment. Monday morning the employes will report for the first time in their new offices and familiarize themselves with the numerous changes. Under the contract specifications the moving must be finished by next Wednesday. The work is being done by the Baltimore Transfer Co., the price being $4,190.

In addition to the bureaus housed in the old Commerce Building proper, the several other bureaus of the department are either in the process of moving or about to start within a few days.

Bureau of Fisheries Starts.

The Bureau of Fisheries, now located at Sixth and B streets southwest, and part of the Census Bureau in Tempo Buildings C and D also start moving this morning. Due to the nature of moving these organizations, the contractor is allowed until January 10 to complete the work. The Smith Transfer Co., of 1313 U street northwest, is the contractor and the price is $2,913.

Divisions of the Department of Commerce located in the Hurley-Wright Building and Temporary Building No. 5 will be moved starting Wednesday, the work to be completed January 11. This is being done by the Fidelity Storage Co., of 1420 U street, at a cost of $2,725.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey, at 119 D street northeast, will be moved starting January 16, and the contractor, the Kane Transfer Co., of Baltimore, is allowed until January 31 to finish the job. The price on this is $4,375.25.

Bureau of Mines Moves Itself.

The Bureau of Mines started its change to its new headquarters last Tuesday, and will be finished in about a week. This bureau has the equipment to move itself, and the work is being done by bureau employes, supplemented by a force of laborers supplied by the Public Buildings Commission.

While thousands of Washingtonians all over the city were celebrating the advent of the new year a force of workers started at 12:01 last night to move the equipment in the Pension Office Building at Seventh and Eighth portation of thousands of delicate and valuable models and records. Three weeks has been allotted to finish the work, which includes the transfer of equipment in the old Land Office. This job involves the transand E and F streets, as well as that kept in the Patent Office at Seventh and Ninth, F and G streets. The Kane Transfer Co. is also doing this job for a contract price of $5,425.75.

Divisions of the Patent Office which will soon be installed in their new home include the examining division, the financial clerk, the mail room, the application division, the classification division, the trade mark division, the interference division, the docket division, the office of the chief clerk and the commissioner's office.

Although an aquarium has been constructed in the new Department of Commerce Building for the Bureau of Fisheries it seems unlikely that any of the bureau's prize specimens will be transported to the new structure because of lack of funds to even properly feed the fish. The bureau at the present time is in need of $10,000 to maintain its equipment and has threatened to throw many of the fish into the Potomac and into other bodies of water.

Fireman Is Injured As Truck Hits Trolley

A District fireman was slightly injured early yesterday when the fire truck he was driving collided with a Washington Railway & Electric Co. street car at the intersection of Eleventh and H streets northwest.

According to police, the fire truck attached to No. 2 Engine Co., and operated by Private John F. Madigan, was returning from a call to Seventh and W streets northwest. At Eleventh and H streets it struck a street car operated by Bernard Towlinson, of 3009 Georgia avenue northwest. The impact threw Madigan from the truck, injuring his knee. He was treated at the Fire and Police Clinic.

ROUTE IS APPROVED FOR VIRGINIA BUSES

Alexandria Line to Operate Loop via E and Tenth Streets and The Mall.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday granted R. L. May permission to operate the local buses of his A. B. & W. Bus Line via E street, between Thirteenth and Tenth streets northwest, but denied his application to operate the express buses over the same route. The Alexandria and Washington Bus Line was denied permission to operate its buses over the same route.

The local buses of the A. B. & W. Bus Line will now turn off of Pennsylvania avenue at Thirteenth street, go east on E street to Tenth street, thence south to D, west to Twelfth, and thence out via the Mall to lower Fourteenth street as formerly.

The commission denied an application of the Capital Traction Co. to erect a loading platform on Pennsylvania avenue, west of Fourteenth street, to pick up west-bound passengers from the Department of Commerce. The street railway recently contended that the commission had no authority to require it to construct loading platforms and threatened to build no more.

Final approval was given the Washington Rapid Transit Co to operate its buses via Fifteenth street and Constitution avenue to pick up passengers from the Commerce Department's new building.

Authorities Seek Auto Victim's Kin

Body of Man Killed in Avenue Is Identified by Fingerprints.

While his body lies unclaimed at the Morgue, police are endeavoring to locate relatives of Louis Francis Shea, 68 years old, who was killed when he was struck by an automobile last Tuesday night at Pennsylvania avenue and John Marshall place northwest.

Shea was unidentified until after the coroner's jury had met yesterday and while it still was in progress. Detective Sergt. John Dalgish announced Shea had been identified through fingerprints on file at police headquarters. His last known address was in 1924 when he lived at 3300 M street northwest.

Shea was struck by an automobile driven by Jay D. Nelson, 28, of the 300 block of Third street northeast, and died en route to Emergency Hospital. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

U. S. Coast Guard Employe Retired

Purse Is Given to Messenger Who Served 46 Years for Government.

Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, commandant of the United States Coast Guard Service, yesterday presented, with the compliments of the entire organization, a gold purse to John W. Green, colored, 1532 T street northwest, chief messenger, upon his retirement after 46 years service in that branch of the Government.

Green was born in 1857 and was a slave on the estate of a Dr. Tell in Orange County, Va. He came to this city in 1876 and entered the Coast Guard service on September 16, 1885.

When F. I. Kimball died eight years ago he left Green $1,500, as he had served under him for a number of years when Mr. Kimball was general superintendent of Life Saving before that branch was affiliated with the Coast Guard.

First Baby of New Year Arrives at Just Midnight

Amid a fanfare of tin horns and a barrage of other noisemakers, 1932's first baby was born at Sibley Hospital. The new baby girl was brought into the world exactly on the stroke of midnight, gaining the distinction of being the city's first.

The child was born to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Corvelli, of 1368 Franklin street northeast, nurses at the hospital said. It is the couple's third, and weighs 6 pounds 13½ ounces. Other specifications are dark hair, the customary blue eyes and two dimples in the cheeks.

A girl baby born at Columbia almost nosed out the Corvellie child, with a birthday at one minute after 12. It was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Payne, of 406 H street northeast, and weighed 6 pounds 10 ounces. It looks like a good year for girls.

The first fire alarm was a false one, turned in from Anger road and Alabama avenue southeast. It, too, came in exactly on the dot of midnight, and was apparently a part of the usual revelers' program. The first call to police, from the house at 1716 Lanier place northwest, was also a false one. According to police, a report was received that two carloads of colored men were fighting in front of that address, but they were gone when police cars arrived.

The first arrest of the year brought James Penn, of 166 O street northwest, into the toils of the law on a charge of discharging firearms in the street. Penn, who is 25 and colored, was arrested by Policemen C. W. Potts and I. R. Mason, of the Second Precinct, within a few blocks of the station house. He was booked at 12:04.

SUSPECT IS ARRESTED FOLLOWING 2 HOLDUPS

Clothing Valued at $300 Is Taken From Parked Automobile.

Police yesterday sought a man who fled from the home of John A. Smith, 326 Fourteenth place northeast, when the latter fired a shot at the intruder as he attempted to force his way into the Smith apartment via a front window.

A short while before a report had been received of a man entering the apartment of Edward Weadon at 410 Fifteenth street northeast, a block away, causing Mrs. May Weadon, alone at the time, to swoon.

Weadon, returning home from work, found his wife unconscious. After reviving her, she told him and police, who had arrived by then, that the man who had entered through the unlocked front door, was the same man who a week ago had come to her door, posing as a milkman.

Suspect Is Arrested.

Less than 45 minutes from the time Mrs. Margaret Petty was robbed at First and B streets northeast, last night, a suspect was arrested at New Jersey avenue and D street northwest. Giving his name as James B. Bowman, colored, 63 years old, 445 Eleventh street northeast, he was identified by Mrs. Petty as the man who took $2 from her.

He is still being held on a charge of investigation, however. Mrs. Petty, who lives at 120 C street northeast, said the man approached her and, grabbing her arm, demanded all her money.

Louis Rosenberg, of 401 Allison street northwest, yesterday reported to police that a diamond setting in a gold ring, valued at $500, had been stolen from a second-floor room of his home.

Mr. Rosenberg was unable to explain how the diamond disappeared. He said that there was no evidence that his house had been broken into. The thief left the ring, he said, taking only the diamond setting.

Man Held in Holdups.

McKinley Blackwell, 24 years old, colored, of 225 Four and One-half street southwest, was being held last night in connection with the holdup of a fruit peddler and another man within a few blocks of police headquarters Wednesday evening.

Blackwell was arrested by Private F. J. Rowan of the Traffic Bureau, shortly after the robbery of the fruit cart owner, Peter Manners, at First street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Rowan arrived on the scene as Manners shouted for police. Manners informed Rowan that the robber had entered the Botanic Gardens.

After circling the gardens on his motorcycle, Rowan picked up Blackwell, who was identified by Manners as the man who held him up. Later Judson Johnson, 20 years old, who was held up an hour before, identified Blackwell as the man who robbed him of $6 at John Marshall and C streets northwest.

Find Coat and Gun.

Detective Sergeants F. O. Brass and J. W. Wise, of the robbery squad, who arrived at the scene of the second holdup a few minutes after its occurrence, found a coat in the Botanic Gardens with a pistol in it and letters addressed to Blackwell, they said.

Miss Margaret Meredith, of 55 M street northwest, reported to police yesterday that her apartment was entered some time yesterday by a duplicate key and clothing valued at $85 was stolen.

When Joseph Walker, of Woodbury Forest, Va., returned to his car that he had parked at Eighth and Water streets southwest, yesterday afternoon, he discovered that thieves had stolen two suitcases of clothing valued at $300, according to the report that he made to police.

Graham to Speak On Mooney Case

Man Who Was Object of Futile Deportation Move to Talk Today.

Marcus Graham, whose anthology of revolutionary poetry caused efforts to deport him last year, plans to speak today in Lafayette Park on "Who Is Responsible for the Continued Imprisonment of Mooney and Billings." His talk is scheduled for 2 o'clock on the south side of the statue in the center of the park.

Graham believes that Mayor James J. Walker's efforts on behalf of Mooney were useless. He also thinks that the machine age has killed poetry and the arts, particularly in Russia, where the machine is revered as a god. In India, however, he finds hope for artistic endeavor, as they are least touched by the machine.

Graham's case was tried last year before the Board of Review of the Department of Labor, but attempts to send him back to Canada, his native country, failed after a number of poets had testified as to the worth of his anthology. His talk today will place the blame for Mooney's continued imprisonment largely on the leaders of the American Federation of Labor, he says.
